AIRLINER JUST MISSES BUZZING SOVIET PLANE

BERLIN (UPI)—A Russian fighter plane today almost collided head-on with a Pan American Airways clipper carrying passengers to Berlin.

The Russian fighter "approached the clipper head-on," then suddenly veered to the left when it was only 150 yards away, a spokesman said.

The United States protested.

The incident increased fears here the Russians had started a campaign of serious harassment of Western allied aircraft in the vital airlanes.

Liston Gives Word: 'I'll Be Good Champ'

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—A new Charles (Sonny) Liston promised today to be a world heavyweight champion in shining armor and also to give Floyd Patterson a rematch as soon as possible.

A cruel-punching strong man, Liston exploded the long-suspected Patterson myth in 126 seconds of their title match in Comiskey Park Tuesday night.

In the third-fastest title finish in heavyweight boxing history, 2:06 of the first round, Liston crumbled Patterson to the canvas with a couple of ponderous left hooks before a disappointing paid crowd of 18,894.

It was felt by some that Cus D'Amato, Patterson's guiding angel, had wrapped his boy in cotton. Floyd's championship path mainly avoided what real punchers were around since Patterson, then 21, first won the crown in 1956 by flattening an overstuffed Archie Moore.

Ingemar Johansson, who dethroned Patterson in 1959, said "Patterson looks like a little baby tonight." Ingo may get a shot at Liston after the new champ has his return match with Patterson.

WANTS FAST REMATCH

Patterson, 189, whose finish had been foreshadowed by 12 knockdowns in previous title bouts, wants another go at Liston within three months.

Patterson could swell his lion's take as a loser Tuesday night by sharing a 30-30 split of the return match receipts.

Liston, 214, is ready at any time.

"I'll do some hunting and fishing the next two or three weeks," said Liston, who got his title shot by goading Patterson into it.

Liston had rushed over to Patterson after referee Frank Sikora threw his arms around the wobbly champion following his knockout count.

"He told me if the public gives me a chance," Liston said, "I can be a worthy champion, maybe a better champion than he was."

"I think I can prove just that—if the public gives me a chance," added Liston. "I think Patterson was a good champion. I disagree only in one thing he did. He shut himself off from the public. He didn't go to small clubs and he stayed away from the public. This is something the world champion has got to do."

CLERGYMEN HELP

Liston—sitting at a table before the noisy throng of newsmen and photographers—was flanked by three clergymen who played an important part in his rehabilitation from his grim early war with police and society.

These included Rev. A. J. Stephens, the Missouri penitentiary chaplain who first

$5 MILLION

Tax Men Seize Receipts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of federal revenue officers fanned out across the United States Tuesday night and today in an effort to seize some $5,000,000 of receipts from the Patterson-Liston heavyweight title bout.

The aim was to collect $3,900,000 in taxes which the government claims is owed by the promoters of the fight and the organizers of closed-circuit TV showings of the championship encounter in which Sonny Liston grabbed the championship from Floyd Patterson in Chicago's Comiskey Park.

Officials said that, while they were bent on impounding the full proceeds due the promoters and TV organizers, they were permitting individual theatre owners to keep the portion of their fight receipts called for by their individual contracts with the organizers. Even after these deductions—an estimated 45 per cent of theatre receipts—the share due the organizers was expected to total about $4,000,000.

The federal agents were stationed at 260 theatres across the country Tuesday night, prepared to file the attachment notices before the fight ended. But a spokesman said Liston's rapid-fire knockout of Patterson in the first round disrupted this plan.

Federal officials initially told reporters their objective was to tie up all proceeds from the fight. They explained later that they did not mean to include the share of closed-circuit TV receipts due theatre owners.

In addition to impounding the affected part of receipts in some 260 theatres, internal revenue service agents in an unprecedented move served levies against the promoters themselves covering their whole take including the fees paid by American Broadcasting Company for radio coverage rights.

FREEZE PURSES

One result of the action presumably will be to freeze the purses earned by Liston and Patterson until the tax liabilities of the promoters are determined and settled. This could take many months and perhaps more than a year.

In explaining why it acted, the revenue service said, without elaboration, that "records show that none of the corporations connected with the Chicago fight have filed tax returns" on their operations last year—the year they were organized.

One official said that many of the individuals controlling the corporations that promoted the fight were involved in the 1961 heavyweight title bout in which Patterson regained the championship from Ingemar Johansson. After that fight, the revenue service acted to tie up Johansson's purse, which approached $1,000,000 on the basis of a claim that he owed more than $1,000,000 in taxes on earn-

CANADIAN SATELLITE

'Alouette' Aims at Orbit Tonight

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Canadian satellite Alouette is scheduled to be blasted off into space shortly after 11 p.m. PDT tonight, a U.S. space agency official said Tuesday.

Confirmation of whether the satellite achieved a correct orbit would take about two hours after launch time, the official said.

Featuring 6,500 solar cells for energy and armed with the longest antenna ever put on a Western spacecraft—about 150 feet—the Alouette will be launched in a southeasterly direction from Point Arguello, Vandenberg Air Force Base, California.

First satellite to be built by a country other than the U.S. or Russia, the ionospheric research vehicle is to be placed into a near-circular orbit at a height of about 600 miles.

It will be blasted from earth by a U.S. two-stage Thor-Agena B rocket.

'TEST OF RESPONSIBILITY'

Road Blocks Lifted On Sons of Freedom

Road blocks have been lifted and Sons of Freedom Doukhobors camped near Princeton left to their own devices, Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced today.

Police guards have also gone from the Bromley Park area, he said.

What happens next is up to the Freedomites. But if they step out of line they'll be arrested.

Mr. Bonner said he knew it was a risk to allow Freedomites to go, but it would be a true test of their responsibility. It would also remove any criticism of violation of civil liberties.

TAKE COMFORT

He said the public should take some comfort from two new developments:

The Freedomites say they are anxious for their children to attend school.

Two prominent Vancouver lawyers are advising the Freedomites, and he was sure that advice would not cause any public disorder.

(Lawyers George Hebrik and Angelo Branca have been reported as willing to assist the campers).

Mr. Bonner said there are between 800 and 900 Freedomites camped at Bromley.

They were halted there last Tuesday on their march from Krestova to Agassiz where 67 terrorists are held in a special federal prison.

About 20 extra police were on duty around the camp. They have now returned to normal duties, said Mr. Bonner.

He said the week's pause in the march gave B.C. time to make two attempts to solve the Freedomite problem.

'CUT OFF'

The provincial government asked Ottawa to close the Agassiz prison and disperse the prisoners to other jails. This failed and the federal government has "cut off" B.C.

"It also enabled the marchers to learn that the provincial government is unwavering in its attitude towards law enforcement."

Mr. Bonner said further police action will depend on Freedomites' behavior.

"It may be said some hazard exists in this decision," he admitted. "It is intended, however, to remove from academic discussion questions concerning justification for police action, and to place such matters squarely before the courts as events may dictate."

If the Freedomites go on and trespass on the Agassiz prison grounds federal auth-

PUPILS BARRED BY ERROR

There has been "a local misunderstanding" if Freedomite children have been barred from attending school at Princeton, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday.

He was commenting on reports that a police road block 13 miles from Princeton had stopped parents on their way to register children for school classes.

The Freedomites are camped at Bromley Park where their march on Agassiz was halted by RCMP.

Mr. Bonner said the government is anxious to ensure that children involved in the march are sent to school.

DYING GIRL DISPLAYS GAIETY AND COURAGE

'An Inspiration to Us All'

LONDON (AP)—The dying wish of a gay and courageous child came true today.

The strangely moving book that 10-year-old Suzanne Reynolds worked on against time was put on sale in British bookshops. In many, it was an immediate sellout.

Suzanne died of cancer last February. But not before she finished her life's work.

She finished writing Snowy and the Christmas Foal the day before she died after a last desperate operation to save her life.

Said her mother, Mrs Eileen Reynolds:

"It's exactly as she wrote it. No alterations. Just a punctuation here and there. She would have been so proud."

The mother added:

"She never grumbled or spoke of being unwell. She only talked of her pony and cat, and the fairy stories she sat up at night to write."

Sir Cecil Wakeley, one of Britain's most eminent surgeons commented:

"At such times, let us remember the courage of the gay and beautiful child who gave us Snowy and the Christmas Foal.

Said a spokesman for the Imperial Cancer Research Fund:

"It's a pleasant, refreshing and very moving book by a little girl who should be an inspiration to us all."

All money from the book goes to fight cancer.

Suzanne's principal character was a pony named Snowy. Snowy wanted a foal, but didn't seem to be able to produce one. The one Christmas Eve—she did. The child drew from real life, for she owned a pony named Jinny.

Caucus Against Election

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Social Credit party today appeared to give Prime Minister Diefenbaker's minority government at least a semi-permanent lease on life in the new Parliament opening Thursday.

A statement from the Socred pre-session caucus of MPs—agreed to by all 30 Socred MPs—declared:

"We are convinced, from continuous contact with the Canadian people since last June, that the people of Canada do not wish an immediate election . . . Canada's future demands something better than a chain reaction of minority governments which an immediate election would bring about."

BACK ANY MOVE

The meaning of the statement to observers here was that the Social Credit group would support almost any move by the government this session to attack Canada's economic problems.

Such support by the Socreds would permit Diefenbaker to continue in office indefinitely, for the government cannot be defeated in a House vote unless all three opposition parties vote against it.

The caucus statement seemed to clear up the confusion which has surrounded the Socred position in the session.

National Socred leader Robert Thompson has of late been backing a "no-election" line but the view of the 26 Quebec Socred MPs remained in doubt as their leader, Real Caouette, the deputy national leader, spoke in one breath of throwing the government out, and in the next breath of keeping it in.

UNITED POLICY

Today's statement by all Socred MPs, therefore, establishes a united party policy on the strategy they will follow in the house.

The caucus statement declares:

"We of the Social Credit Party believe that as Canadians we are determined on the one hand that the economic dilemma that we are in shall not continue and on the other hand that chaos shall not be added to confusion.

"Canada urgently needs some basic corrective measures to this end, and this responsibility rests squarely on the shoulders of the prime minister and his government.

"We are convinced, from continuous contact with the Canadian people since last June, that the people of Can-

'May Back Policies They Have Opposed'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Social Credit party may find itself forced to vote for government policies which they have strongly opposed, Liberal Leader Pearson said today.

He had been asked to comment on the Social Credit announcement that it will not support the Liberal non-confidence motion planned early in the parliamentary session opening Thursday.

Mr. Pearson, speaking at the noon adjournment of its party's caucus, said that the Social Credit decision does not affect the Liberals in the slightest.

He said it would be most unnatural for the Liberals to refrain from a non-confidence motion but it is up to the two other opposition parties to decide what to do.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Before city officials make any rash decisions on new courtroom facilities, they should see all is in working order.

When the new Saanich courtroom was opened two weeks ago, it was found, in the midst of proceedings, that there was no Bible. A delay followed while one was located.

Last week, both counsel and Magistrate William Ostler complained about the lack of a calendar in the courtroom. Two tiny cardboard calendars have been duly provided.

Most unsatisfactory, however, is the atmosphere of the new quarters.

Tuesday the court dragged on in over 80-degree heat for over two hours. One defendant appeared with his shirt unbuttoned to his waist.

"Really, this is too much," Magistrate Ostler declared, mopping his brow. "I must have a five-minute adjournment.

Aftermath of the heated court atmosphere is that court clerk Tom Nisbet caught a cold.

The B.C. Conservative party is desperately in need of leadership, says Herbert Anscomb, who led the party himself for some years and was finance minister in the Liberal-Conservative Coalition government.

Mr. Anscomb believes the Conservative party should enter candidates in all byelections. It is "very regrettable," he says, that the party did not contest the Revelstoke by-election.

"We should have a candidate in all elections whether there is a chance of winning or not. If we don't, the party will soon be forgotten in this province."

Still very active, with an office downtown, Mr. Anscomb came to Canada from Maidstone, England, when he was 19 and started work in Victoria with a pick and shovel. At 33 he was reeve of Oak Bay and at 37 he became the youngest mayor of Victoria in the city's history.

"Why do women carry such monstrous handbags these days?" asks a reader. "They remind me of stunted wardrobe trunks."

"It's the style," commented Times fashion editor Nona Damaske.

However, an employee at the Dominion Hotel agrees that the modern handbag is too big. He stood by patiently while a lady customer rummaged in her capacious bag for some change.

"You wouldn't by any chance have a compact car in that thing, would you?" he asked.

A noise like a revolver shot rang through the men's dressing rooms at the Crystal Garden swimming pool Tuesday afternoon.

Thinking in terms of murder and suicide, an attendant hurried to the scene and two or three men in a state of semi-undress came out of their dressing rooms to see what was "up."

But there were no bodies. A bus next door had back fired right under the windows.

Most spectators who saw the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) stage a sunset retreat ceremony at Willows Park Saturday would have forgiven the pipe-major if he had cheated a little bit on the timing of the parade.

Sunsets in the fall and summer are two different things. There was so little "twilight" after sunset that the military spectacle for the most part took place in the darkness.

NDP Still Huddling On Session Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—MPs of the New Democratic Party met for 2½ hours today but declined to say what they decided to do about the non-confidence motion which will be presented in the Commons by Opposition Leader Pearson.

"We're meeting again this afternoon and may have something to say about that later," reported Douglas Fisher of Port Arthur, chairman of the party caucus.

T. C. Douglas, national NDP leader, who hopes to win a Commons seat in an Oct. 22 by-election in British Columbia, arrived in the capital today just in time for the private meeting.

Mr. Douglas spoke to the 18-member group for about an hour, presumably outlining his ideas on the non-confidence vote which could overthrow the government if all opposition parties unite.

Stanley Knowles of Winnipeg North Centre, the party whip, said the NDP intends to ask the incoming Speaker after Parliament's opening Thursday to rule on party voting preference. The NDP and Social Credit parties are arguing for the right to vote immediately after the Conservatives and Liberals.

"Local municipal laws will no doubt be enforced in the usual way. All other enforcement will continue to be normal."

(Kent municipality has passed a bylaw barring access to the Freedomites. Mr. Bonner said he had "never been anxious to identify myself" with this bylaw.)

"The checkpoint at Bromley has been removed and each Freedomite is on his own responsibility," said Mr. Bonner.

He would not speculate on what they will do next.

"Obviously the Bromley impasse cannot be permanent," he said. "The campsite is entirely unsuitable for a lengthy stay, especially with colder weather approaching and children to be housed."

Education Minister Leslie Peterson has already sent a letter to parents warning them that if they don't send their children to school, they'll be prosecuted.

Meanwhile, a special standing committee of deputy ministers is meeting today to review the whole Freedomite situation.

The committee includes education, police and welfare officials.

Mr. Bonner said it will review all recent developments, and make a private report to him.

Five Held on Mainland In Phony Cheque Ring

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five men were arrested today and police seized thousands of forged travellers' cheques and some forged identification in a raid on a downtown home.

The men were held for investigation.

The raid came after police warned merchants to watch for a flood of forged cheques in denominations of $10 and $100. They had staked out the Seymour Street house following information that a gang was ready to distribute the forgeries. When an expected rendezvous did not take place banks and merchants were warned.

The cheques were believed to have printed in Alberta and drawn on a Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch in Saskatchewan.

Police said they were informed that the lower mainland had been blocked off into 50 districts with passers scheduled to start in each district at the same time.

The army said Walker took the top prize after a special playoff with an Indian corporal.

Canada finished fourth in the team standings behind India, Yugoslavia and Sweden.

First Phase Of Marina Nears End

First phase of Oak Bay Marina Company's three-year small boat facility at Turkey Head is all but completed, manager Bob Wright said today.

The municipally-endorsed enterprise—to become wholly-owned by Oak Bay in 20 years—has installed entirely new moorage floats, electrical and water outlets to accommodate 100 small craft.

Final work is being done on a breakwater float to protect the basin from winter winds.

Mr. Wright said work so far has cost about $60,000.

START IN SPRING

Next phase, providing for restaurant, boat repair facilities, offices, boat rental, marine agencies, shower and rest rooms and laundering facilities for visiting yachtsmen, is scheduled to start in the spring and will be planned for summer use in 1963.

Estimated cost of the building shell is $160,000, and furnished for operation, including restaurant, a total approaching $300,000.

The managing director said a restaurant lessee would be chosen soon.

"We hope to call for tenders on the new building early in the new year. If negotiations continue as they are, then we will be ready to start construction by spring," he said.

The new building, to be erected eastward of the existing 60-year-old boathouse, will be finished before the old one is demolished.

ings from his series of fights with Patterson.

In the 1961 incident, Johansson was the only one accused of owing the government taxes. In the present case, the claims involve only the promoters and no allegation is made that either Liston or Patterson owes the government money.

The targets of the crackdown are Championship Sports Inc., promoters of the Liston-Patterson fight, and Graff, Reiner and Smith Enterprises Inc., organizers of the closed-circuit TV showings.

The revenue service claims Championship Sports owes $2,074,500 in income taxes on Tuesday night's fight, plus $100,000 in excise taxes on admission tickets. It contends that Graff, Reiner and Smith owe income taxes of $1,710,500.

In Chicago, Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports, said no past taxes are due, and contended the whole operation amounts to a quick test of the validity of a deferred payment plan for Patterson's share of the purse.

The arrangement, which would have a heavy impact on tax liability, is for Patterson to get $300,000 the first year and $100,000 annually for 17 years, instead of a lump payment.

At a press conference in which revenue service reported on its actions, officials were asked if there was any connection between that set-up and the seizure of the fight proceeds.

The reply was no.

The Comiskey Park gross receipts were announced as $665,420 and the net $556,119.95.

The big swag comes Thursday when the closed circuit TV reports are filed. Patterson's take on the basis of the live gate and a guaranteed $2,000,000 from closed-circuit TV was an estimated $1,185,253 and Liston—pegged at a 12½ take of all net receipts—should get a minimum of $282,015. Liston gets only $50,000 now and the remainder is held in escrow until he fights the rematch with Patterson.

Heavy Death Toll In Spain Floods

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—Floods and hurricane winds swept Mediterranean coastal towns near here Tuesday night and a government spokesman reported 246 bodies had been recovered and 395 other persons were missing.

This announcement came as fresh thunderstorms roared over the hilly region north and west of Barcelona where several hours of torrential rains and heavy winds smashed homes and other buildings.

Officials said they feared the toll of dead and missing might go even higher. Several villages whose residents normally worked in textile plants near Barcelona were almost wiped out by the floods, which followed months of dry weather.

BUILDINGS TOPPLE

Barcelona, situated on the Mediterranean 300 miles east of Madrid, is Spain's largest seaport and chief industrial and commercial centre. Its streets were flooded and some buildings fell.

Among the hardest hit communities in a disaster area that officials estimated covered 150 square miles were three textile centres—Tarrasa, Sabadell and Rubi. They are situated from 10 to 15 miles northwest of this city.

A stream running through Rubi suddenly swelled under the deluge and swept away a development of new houses in one district.

CONDUIT BURSTS

In Tarrasa a huge conduit which carries the Palau stream underneath one of the town's main streets burst and flood waters carried off cars, buses and houses.

Many people were buried in the ruins of their homes.

Water was eight feet deep in the centre of town.

The storm struck near the popular Costa Brava holiday area and also swept across the tourist island of Majorca where part of the main city of Palma's promenade was reported washed away.

ada do not wish an immediate election.

SOMETHING BETTER

"The opposition parties and the government must have the opportunity to make their alternatives clear. Canada's future demands something better than a chain reaction of minority governments which an immediate election would bring about.

"If there ever was a time in our history that parliament must demonstrate itself as being responsible, it is now. Our party is determined to face up to this responsibility by putting the needs of Canada and Canadians above political aspiration."

The throne speech to be delivered to parliament Thursday by Governor-General George Vanier will outline the government's program for the session. It is certain to contain something aimed at curing the nation's economic ills.

This will give the Socreds all the excuse they need to back the government and prevent an early election.

OTHERS MEET

While the Socreds settled their strategy, all other parties were meeting in caucus to plot their own. Of the three opposition parties the Liberals were the only ones to have declared themselves in outright opposition to the government.

The New Democrats, while they had not yet issued any statement, were expected to take a cautious approach—backing the government if they could without exposing too violent an ideological shift.

It all adds up to little likelihood of an early election, contrary to a widely-held view of only a few days ago that a late November or early December election was possible. It is still possible but, in view of the Socred statement, much less likely.

Small Dairies Swallowed Up Says Easterner

Small dairies are fast disappearing in Ontario, says John Forde of Donlands Dairy Ltd., Toronto.

"In the bigger cities there is a trend towards larger dairies buying out plants in the surrounding towns," Mr. Forde told a dairy foods forum at the 45th annual convention of the National Dairy Council of Canada in the Empress Hotel.

"I am convinced that the disappearance of small plants will accelerate as automation and store sales increase."

Mr. Forde described a fully-automated operation, from a farm milking parlor equipped with a bulk storage tank to the stage where milk is packaged.

"All the equipment I have mentioned is now available," he said.

The dairy convention ends today with several panel discussions on production and a directors meeting this afternoon.

Negro Student Barred At Campus Entrance

United Press International

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—Negro James Meredith today made his third attempt to enroll at the University of Mississippi but was stopped outside the campus by Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson and turned away.

The confrontation started calmly but ended in a pushing-shoving contest.

Gov. Ross Barnett, who has twice turned away the 29-year-old air force veteran in his persistent attempt to break the color barrier at "Old Miss," also flew to Oxford but sent Johnson to stop Meredith this time.

The Negro was turned aside as the U.S. in general, and the federal government in particular, watched a deliberately defiant act of protest against federal interference in state affairs.

Meredith, who was refused admission by Barnett here last Thursday and at the state college board offices in Jackson Tuesday, flew here today from New Orleans. He arrived in a car, accompanied by deputy U.S. marshals.

He was stopped by state troopers a few feet outside the campus entrance and Johnson, parked in an auto nearby, stepped out of his car.

"We want to take James Meredith on the direction of a federal court order and have him registered as a student at the university," U.S. Marshal James McShane told Johnson.

"We are not going to let him in," Johnson said. "You want to make a big show for the whole country to see," he said. "We have a duty to perform."

"I am going to have to refuse on the same grounds the governor did," Johnson said.

Johnson said that admitting the Negro at this time would possibly result in violence and said "I refuse because of imminent breach of peace."

John Doar, attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice, then stepped forward and reminded Johnson that Meredith's admission had been ordered by federal courts. Doar then attempted to serve on Johnson a contempt citation directed against Barnett.

Johnson refused it.

Broad Terms Given Inquiry Into Taxation

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today announced sweeping terms of reference under which a Royal commission will probe Canadian tax laws.

Federal, provincial and municipal practices in the income, estate, sales and excise tax fields will be scrutinized for their influence on the general economy.

In addition, the commission is instructed to report on any inequities or loopholes which may exist in tax laws, and to report on ways to frame tax laws so they will encourage Canadian ownership of Canadian industry without discouraging the flow of investment funds into Canada.

The prime minister today also named five members to the commission, under chairman Kenneth LeM. Carter of Toronto.

Members are:

Charles E. S. Walls, Victoria, manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture;

Mrs. S. M. Milne, Winnipeg, prominent member of the Canadian Council of Women;

Donald K. Grant, Halifax;

J. Harvey Perry, Toronto;

A. Emile Beauvais, of Quebec City.

The commission is empowered by the government to enquire into and report upon "the incidence and effects of taxation imposed by parliament."

This, states a cabinet order-in-council approved Tuesday, included "any changes made during the currency of the inquiry."

The effects of taxation on the operation of the national economy, the conduct of business, the organization of industry, and the positions of individuals are to be established by the commission.

The inquiry is to result in recommendations for:

Improvements in the tax laws and their administration that may be consistent with the maintenance of a sufficient flow of revenue.

Seven Specific Areas Outlined

A list of seven specific areas to be probed has been given the royal commission. They are:

1. The distribution of burdens from taxpayers resulting from existing rates, exemptions, reliefs and allowances provided in the personal and corporation income taxes, estate taxes and sales and excise taxes, taking into account also the jurisdiction and practices of the provinces and municipalities;

2. The effects of the tax system on employment, living standards, savings and investment, industrial productivity, and economic stability and growth;

3. Provisions in existing laws which may have given rise over the years to anomalies or inequities or which may require action to close loopholes which permit the use of devices to avoid fair taxation;

4. The effects of the income, sales and excise taxes and estate duties on income and investment flows which affect the balance of international payments and economic relations with other countries;

5. The means whereby the tax laws can best be formulated to encourage Canadian ownership of Canadian industry without discouraging the flow of investment funds into Canada;

6. The changes that may be made to achieve greater clarity, simplicity and effectiveness in the tax laws or their administration; and;

7. Such over rated matters as the commissioners consider pertinent or relevant to the specific or general scope of the inquiry.

The commission will hold hearings in various parts of Canada. It is to be "assisted to the fullest extent" by government departments and agencies, the cabinet order states.

SECRETARY-GENERAL of NATO, Dirk Stikker, will be in Ottawa Oct. 9-10 to meet cabinet ministers and senior government officials. He will attend a dinner to be given by External Affairs Minister Green.

Reds Blamed For Tension In Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers have accused Russia of trying to "distract attention from the brutal activities of the East German regime" and of showing a "desire to maintain tension in Berlin."

The similar notes from Britain, the United States and France were delivered to the Kremlin Tuesday.

They were in reply to Russia's Sept. 5 rejection of four-power talks on Berlin and charges of Allied provocations in West Berlin.

The United States said "the Soviet note ignores the fact that the tensions in Berlin are due to the wall which divides the city and to the brutality of the East German regime toward its inhabitants. Both are the responsibility of the Soviet government."

TRAFFIC FINES

In Colwood police court Tuesday:

Russel E. Ferguson, 1239 Burnside West, $100 and licence suspension, failure to remain.

John A. Harris, Lake Cowichan, $25, careless driving; and $25, no drivers' licence.

Arthur L. Arnold, Happy Valley Road, $15, over 20 mph.

In Saanich police court today:

Donald Vantreight, 806 Hilburton, $20, defective equipment.

THE SAD SAGA OF A CAR, A SACK AND A MARITAL STORM

Talk About Money Going Down the Drain . . .

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John Parris wanted to buy one car. His wife wanted to buy another.

They argued Tuesday as they drove.

Suddenly Mrs. Parris gestured with the sack containing the family savings. "Buying that car," she said, speaking of her husband's choice, "would be like throwing money away."

Out the car window went the sack of money. It disappeared down a storm drain. In it, said Parris, was $2,500 in cash.

Parris slammed the car to a halt. Mrs. Parris jumped out and lunged for the money—and almost got stuck in the drain herself. They could see the sack, lying there, 15 feet away.

Parris called friends, sheriff's deputies and a road department crew to come help him.

As they tried to reach the sack with sticks, a plumber's snake and a fishline, it happened.

An attendant at a nearby gas station decided it was time to wash down his driveway with a hose. The water poured into a drain, down the drain, and to the sack.

As the would-be rescuers watched helplessly, the sack floated away.

"It's hopeless," said the county crews. "You'll never recover it, now."

MUST BEAT THE WEATHER

Most Prairie Crops Rated Best in Years

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A veteran Saskatchewan farmer climbed down from his combine and with a look of undisguised delight on his face surveyed the wheat field his big machine had just finished harvesting.

"This is next year country, you know," he said. "I've been waiting for 'next year' ever since I started farming and this year is that 'next year.'"

As farmers tot up their profit and loss sheets following this fall's harvest, in many parts of the country it looks as though a goodly number will be able to share to some degree the pleasure enjoyed by the Estevan-area farmer at his abundant crop.

A survey by The Canadian Press indicates some farming areas may reap the best crops for many years and even where output is lower than usual few farmers will face a complete write-off.

DEPENDS ON WEATHER

Admittedly, much depends on the weather in the final days and weeks of the harvest. Already rain and frost are taking a toll with increasing reports of a deterioration of the quality of late-harvested crops.

Brightest news comes from the Prairies, which last year reeled under the worst drought since the "dirty '30s." Saskatchewan expects the largest wheat crop since 1956, Manitoba forecasts its over-all grain yield may be the best in 10 years and Alberta's wheat return will be up considerably from last season.

In spite of moist, cooler weather farmers in Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland are reported generally happy with their crops. On the whole it's also been a good, average year in British Columbia where tree fruits have yielded as well or better than in 1961.

The situation is less cheerful in the Maritimes, where rain has been the chief villain. In Nova Scotia the apple crop is expected to be one-third lower than last year, and in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island the potato yield per acre also will be down, although market prospects may remain fair.

Canadian Colombo Aid Will Be Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada likely will reduce its contribution to the Colombo plan for economic aid to Southeast Asia, it was reported Tuesday.

Extent of the cut, part of the government's wide-ranging austerity program to bolster Canada's own economy, could not be determined.

However, several weeks ago officials expressed hope that any decrease decided upon would have no appreciable effect on the over-all Canadian assistance program.

The Colombo plan is the largest component in Canada's foreign aid program. It has been taking $50,000,000 of the approximately $60,000,000 total yearly outlay.

Test of Confidence

TOMORROW MR. DIEFENbaker will face the Parliament he should have met before he went to the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference. Circumstances now force him to test its confidence in his administration.

Mr. Robert Thompson's most recent statement for the Social Credit party indicates that the Prime Minister will probably win the first vote at least.

Mr. Thompson says, commenting on Mr. Lester Pearson's insistence on an early confidence vote, that "to force an election this winter would be wrong." What this obviously means is that Social Credit is in no position to wage a campaign in the immediate future.

If it also means that Social Credit will vote solidly for the government—overlooking the vital differences of principle between its policies and those of the Conservatives—Mr. Diefenbaker would be assured of a majority. The Prime Minister cannot, however, know for how long that assurance will hold, nor whether it is the unanimous decision of Social Credit, which speaks with many voices including the strident tones of Mr. Real Caouette.

The thoughtful Canadian will not be misled by Mr. Thompson's further statement that insistence on an immediate election will add "further to the confusion that has presently overtaken us."

What could be more confusing than government based on the compromises and accommodations essential between the sharply opposed ideas of Social Credit and Conservatism? Or, for that matter, what could be more confusing than the differences existing within the Social Credit party itself?

The plain fact, as Mr. Pearson has stated it, is that Canada needs a stable government at this time. It cannot have that type of government from an administration which is in a minority and continues in office only with the support provided by members of a party pledged to different policies.

But even if a marriage of political expediency can be manufactured between Social Credit and the Conservatives, how would that lead Canada out of its confusion?

Parliament will shortly be asked to express confidence or no confidence in a government whose record of inconsistency is plain. This is the government which went to the people four months ago, singing its songs of self-praise and decrying as "prophets of gloom and doom" those who pointed out the real facts of Canada's economic life. This is the government which reversed itself on that point as soon as the votes were counted.

It is led by a Prime Minister who ran for cover when Britain offered Canada free trade and now promotes an ill-defined plan for the consideration of a wide freer-trade area. Do prospects of more of the same indicate an escape from confusion?

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Thompson can cynically ignore their differences with the single purpose of avoiding an election. But in ordinary honesty it is almost inconceivable that Social Credit—and the New Democratic Party—having denounced the government from coast to coast and declared that it is ruining the country can now turn around and vote confidence in it.

If they repudiate their principles in this way, then they must accept the responsibility for such action and be answerable to the people.

Mr. Pearson, on the other hand, has taken the proper course. He opposed the government in which he had no confidence, was elected on the stand he took and is bound to continue his opposition to the government.

He will put the vote of no confidence. Then let the members stand up and be counted before the eyes of the voters who elected them.

Time Limit in The Congo

A TIME LIMIT, QUITE APART from the internal needs of The Congo, is being imposed on the continuing condition of armed stalemate between the Leopoldville republic and the rebellious state of Katanga.

There is, of course, a limit to the period in which the political and economic state of the country can be kept in suspense. At a sooner rather than a later date The Congo will have to patch up its quarrels and get on with the business of providing a liveable homeland for its people.

But the drawn-out state of semi-war with the United Nations acting as punching bag and policeman has also a built-in termination date. For there is a limit, indefinite but nonetheless real, to the length of time during which the United Nations can pour millions of dollars a year into The Congo through maintenance of troops and administrative officials. The terminal factor is financial.

The United Nations is at present looking to an emergency bond issue of $200 millions to cover a $140 millions deficit. The deficit is due mainly to the refusal of several countries to pay a share of the costs of The Congo operation, although the World Court has ruled that such special assessments—over and above the usual annual membership payments—are legal, and failure to pay them may lose a member the right to vote.

Russia, among other nations, has reiterated its determination not to pay The Congo levy. This is bound to lead to a serious fight in the U.N. Assembly. But in any case a critical point will arrive if the United Nations must continue indefinitely to pour millions into The Congo. A settlement too long delayed might even find the U.N. forced by lack of finances to retreat from its job there, leaving the country open to all the serious risks which prompted U.N. intervention in the first place.

It would be ironic, in a world of wealth and huge expenditures on armaments, if a peace-keeping operation had to be halted for lack of funds. Such a setback for the world peace organization could cost much more than the present deficit.

A Gallant Challenge

AUSTRALIA'S FIRST CHALlenge for the America's Cup has failed. The graceful yacht Gretel won only one race and lost four. The Australian crew nevertheless went down gallantly.

They came in a fine craft. They sailed with great skill and they lost to the United States which has never been defeated in defence of the trophy since it won the cup on the other side of the Atlantic 111 years ago.

In the process they displayed that fine competitive spirit which has made Australians champions in many fields.

The complement of Weatherly deserves credit for the excellence of its performance. None would wish to detract from the mastery the Americans have shown.

At the same time a special sympathy is offered to the challengers, and pride is taken in their valiant attempt. This was the Australians' first try. They'll be back. And when Australians stay with a sport they have an unusual ability to work their way to the top of it.

If History Keeps Marching

THE BREATH OF INTERNAtional events pants hot on the neck of U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations. But the former Buddhist school-teacher, who speaks softly and can stand firm, has the ability to step away from the heat and make his cool appraisals.

He exercised that capacity the other day, following a meeting with Mr. Khrushchev.

"History," he pointed out, "shows that various strong religions and political convictions are not a permanent feature of society—just a passing phenomenon."

His elaboration of the remark indicated his belief that the sharply conflicting ideologies of the East and West will eventually blur and merge, producing another kind of political system in the march of history.

This is the familiar process of thesis, antithesis and synthesis.

The acting secretary-general serves humanity well by drawing attention to the relatively transitory nature of ideologies—if, in this nuclear age, history is permitted to continue its march.

A BURNING ZEAL TO KNOW — By B. A. TOBIN

Overheard in the Fir Grove of Academe

HELLO, Popovich. Where you been?

Down to the school tent, giving them their lesson.

Tobin

That's good. If we keep up the classes they can't accuse us of neglecting the kids' schooling, eh?

That's right. Of course the courses may be a little different, but at least they're getting schooling.

Sure. What are you teaching them?

Oh, the basic fundamentals. Elementary stuff at first, but later I'll take them on into the advanced studies.

Uh huh. Like what?

Well, today, for instance, we went into the subject of matches. How they're made, how to make them yourself, general purpose matches, safety matches, slow burners and so on.

That sounds good.

Oh sure, I give them the works. Then we had the uses of matches—what's best for burning, how to stand down wind from a bucket of gasoline when you strike them, how to keep them dry on a stormy night, how to strike them so nobody can see—you know, all the usual stuff.

Fine. And what do you give them next?

Of, we go right on from there next time. The best kind of kindling material, use of gas and kerosene to best advantage, how to fluff out blankets and clothing so they'll catch quick, how to look over a house for the best kindling spots, picking dry beams and walls with through-draughts—all that kind of thing. And of course I work in a lot of theory with the practical demonstrations.

Seems to cover it pretty well. How far along do you take 'em?

Well, we more or less have to feel our way. No texts, you know. But I divide the course up into several main parts—Elementary Ignition. Fundamentals of Conflagration. Holocausts in Theory and Practice. Arson: Art or Trade? Selection and Arrangement of Combustibles. Purposeful Oxidization. Calcination as a Career—all the various facets.

Say, those kids are going to be terrific! They'll really have a background!

Yes. Quite a difference from our start, eh? Remember when we just had to improvise? Nobody to tell us the finer points?

Yes. But we got along. Sometimes I think those pioneer days were our finest hour.

Could be, but of course the scope was very limited. Nothing in the way of power lines or anything like that.

No. We had to work up to that. But these kids—there's no telling how far they can go.

And that's not all. I'm planning advanced courses for the more promising ones. Fires—Urban and Rural. Dynamite and the Man. Intimate Applications of Nitro and TNT. The Psychology of Arson. Flames and the Id. Ceremonial Chaos. We may even move into plastic bombs and ultra-sonic waves. And who knows, some day we might even have a course in nuclear detonations!

Oh, Popovich, that's wonderful. Really deep stuff! What a wonderful educational program!

Yes. I must agree with them when they tell us that everybody needs an education. There's nothing like it and we must see that our kids get the best there is.

I'm sure they're getting it, Popovich. There's a bright future ahead for some of those studious ones.

Yeah. Well, I'm going over to the food tent. I hear a panel truck got through from Princeton.

Okay. I'll be right over. Save me some sunflower seeds if there are any.

As Our Readers See It

Mr. Martin on Hospitals

Recently, news accounts stemming from hospital officials have resulted in a totally erroneous impression regarding the provision of funds to the hospitals by the Provincial Government. Statements that "cuts have been made in hospital budgets" have appeared several times, and yet these statements are completely without foundation. They are false and if allowed to go unchallenged will mislead the people. Other statements claim that payments to the hospitals are inadequate and this too is misrepresenting the facts.

In the fiscal year 1958-59, the actual payments made by the BCHIS to the hospitals for hospital care amounted to $37,683,000. In the current fiscal year, the funds voted by the Legislature to cover these payments total $57,240,000, an increase of $19,557,000 or about 52 per cent.

Another way of looking at this matter is to compare the hospitals' calendar year 1959 with 1962. This shows that staffing has been increased by 12 per cent while patient days were increased 10 per cent. In this same period of time, gross salary costs went up by 27 per cent.

* * *

References are also being made to the revenue of the sales tax. Obviously, it is most unwise to hitch a vital service such as hospital insurance to the yield from any tax, since in poor times the hospitals would be required to cut their operating costs to fit the tax yield. However, even though the Provincial Government does not operate on that basis, anyone who studies the official estimates for 1962-63 would see that 40 per cent of the sales tax revenue is approximately a quarter of a million dollars below estimated payments to hospitals. Would it be suggested that hospitals cut their budgets this year to provide for this? Of course not.

There is not a hospital in this province which has not enjoyed substantial increases in revenues from the BCHIS during the past few years. The majority of hospitals have been able to do very well indeed within the revenues provided by the Provincial Government. Many wind up the year with surpluses, which they use to increase their cash reserves. Many finish up the year in a stabilized position without incurring either surpluses or deficits of significant size, while a few plunge heavily into over-expenditures which results in sizeable financial losses.

It is quite evident that even after allowances are made for the increased number of beds and increased level of patient days, the operating costs of the hospitals and the salaries and wages paid to hospital employees have increased at a much more rapid rate than have the average incomes of the people of the province. In addition, hospital employees have within the past two years been given superannuation coverage at a cost of almost $1,500,000 per year, and one-half the cost of medical insurance at a cost of $250,000 per year. The charges for these benefits have to be paid by the taxpayers of this province, many of whom do not enjoy these benefits.

Obviously, there is a limit to the extent to which the taxpayers of this province can provide funds for the operation of their hospitals. The standards of hospital care and treatment in the hospitals of B.C. are very good and comparable to those found anywhere, and we all have good reason to be very proud of this degree of excellence. It is natural that conscientious hospital boards want to further improve the services they provide. The Provincial Government recognizes and encourages this attitude, and proof of this is the substantial increases in funds which we have provided during the years. However, it is common sense to acknowledge that this progressive development can only take place within the ability of the taxpayer to meet the costs involved.

Hospital budgets have not been cut—they have been increased every year, and this year stand at the highest level in the history of British Columbia. Since 1958-59, increases of 52 per cent in payments to hospitals have been provided, and there is no reason at all for a hospital to be short of funds if prudent management had insisted that developments take place only within the financial means of the hospitals.

ERIC MARTIN,
Minister of Health Services and Hospital Insurance.

Can Mr. Macmillan save his country's soul if he sinks it into the European Community at the expense of the Commonwealth?

Rogers—Pass and Cheque

An authentic account of how the famous Rogers Pass got its name is taken from the archives of the British Newcomen Society in London.

Major Rogers was an American Army Engineer. Out of uniform his favorite dress was that of a frontiersman. He was one who loved solitude, poetry, and tobacco in any form; who explored for the sheer joy of exploring, and to whom material gain was of little or no consideration.

After he had discovered the Pass, the CPR, in addition to his fee, sent him a cheque for $5,000. A year later, Sir William Van Horne, the then president of the system, reminded him that the cheque had not been cashed. "What," exclaimed Rogers, "cash the cheque? I would not take $100,000 for it. It is framed and hangs in my brother's house in Waterville, Minnesota, where my nephews and nieces can see it. I don't work for money."

Where would he fit in with the trades unions today?

OTTAWA:

The Lesage Challenge

By MAURICE WESTERN

MR. Lesage's unexpected election announcement has had a mixed reception in the national capital. While individual appraisals differ, it appears that federal Liberals generally are better pleased with this development than are members of the other political parties. Neither of the major parties had much reason for satisfaction in Quebec returns of June 18. The Conservatives, dropping 35 seats, suffered a heavy defeat. But the Liberal gains fell short of expectations because country voters in impressive numbers turned their backs on the traditional parties and cast their ballots for the Caouette variant of Social Credit.

Western

The effect on Quebec opinion of Mr. Caouette's erratic post-election career is a matter of dispute. Some believe that the Social Credit tide is still coming in; others are sure it has ebbed.

Two-Party Fight

Mr. Lesage has apparently succeeded, however, in bringing on the sort of two-party fight that Mr. Pearson was denied in Quebec last spring. The principal reason for Liberal confidence is perhaps the conviction that, with outsiders barred, Mr. Lesage can win handily over the Union Nationale.

There may, of course, be Social Credit candidates in various constituencies. But they will be more or less on their own. Mr. Caouette is publicly opposed to Social Credit participation in Quebec provincial elections because he regards it as waste of time.

He wants to seize the Bank of Canada and the Bank is in Ottawa, securely within federal jurisdiction. While the Caouette policy is not unchallenged, it is barely a month since a Quebec convention decided againt provincial action.

A sudden reversal of this policy is considered unlikely for highly practical reasons. If the Social Crediters plunge into provincial politics they will almost certainly destroy a good part of the organization which they built up for federal purposes.

Mr. Caouette, an ex-Liberal himself, borrowed heavily from both provincial party organizations and seems in some ridings to have virtually taken over the local UN machines. He was able to do so because Quebecers are inclined to look with some detachment on federal politics. It is probable, however, that in a provincial battle these recruits would return like homing pigeons to their old political roosts.

The Lesage announcement may, from the Liberal standpoint, have one unwelcome effect. It is generally thought in Ottawa that the Quebec elections will cause a postponement of the federal return match. This runs counter to the Pearson policy of forcing a decision at the earliest possible opportunity.

Everything really depends upon Social Credit. This party, unlike the NDP, has much to gain—or to lose—in Quebec province. Mr. Thompson and Mr. Caouette may be deeply embarrassed if the Diefenbaker government is sustained by Social Credit votes.

Nightmare

On the other hand the thought of simultaneous national and Quebec elections must be a Social Credit nightmare. The Lesage announcement therefore is likely to fortify Mr. Thompson in the conviction that Parliment should endure at least until spring.

While the Liberals have their minds on battle, postponement of the test will do them no political harm—will instead enhance their prospects—if Mr. Lesage emerges from the Quebec elections a convincing victor. It was in fact the earlier Liberal victory over the Union Nationale that gave them political momentum after June 1960.

When Liberal strength soared in Quebec the Diefenbaker government, despite its huge parliamentary majority, suddenly appeared vulnerable. The Conservatives never recovered although they did win a reprieve when the Social Credit surge developed late in the campaign.

Mr. Lesage, in the opinion of many federal Liberals, has found an attractive issue in the plan for nationalizing private power utilities. This opinion is perhaps supported by the swift reaction of Mr. Daniel Johnson, the shrewd and battle-wise Union Nationale leader, who immediately assured reporters that the issue was bogus, that his party had taken no stand on the matter and that an anti-government vote could not be construed as a vote against nationalization.

Not Foregone

There is probably an impression elsewhere in Canada that the revelations of the Salvas commission and other inquiries have thoroughly discredited the Union Nationale. It would appear, however, that Quebec voters do not shock easily and that the November election result is by no means a foregone conclusion.

Mr. Johnson, the new UN leader, has had his troubles—some of them occasioned by strife within his own party. But he is a resourceful politician who has worked very hard at the practical tasks of rebuilding constituency organizations. He probably counts also on a good deal of support from Social Crediters who regard the Liberals as their most dangerous opponents in the federal field.

Mr. Lesage may accordingly require all his skill to restore the lost Liberal lustre in Quebec province. If Parliament survives the first critical weeks, it is quite possible that events in this now-expectant capital may soon be overshadowed by a provincial battle with national implications beyond the Ottawa River.

ON THE TIMES — BY ART STOTT

We Called Him Pop

WE CALLED HIM POP, a few of us, picking the name up from Archie, Harry Robson and Bobby Gordon, who learned their tumbling from him.

Whoever knew his proper, given name kept it as close a secret as Luncford (Lennie) Oliver kept his age. They said he was 90 when he died on Sunday. He could have been more. If you asked him, he'd pass your query off with a remark about "us young fellahs."

Stott

Time and age didn't seem to matter much to Lennie until the last three-four years. He was teaching little tots to do walk-overs up to a couple of seasons ago and, working with the young, he stayed young.

He wore his hair black. Why not? He was a barber. His hat rode jauntily on his head. His cigar, smoked and chewed simultaneously, had an angle to it. Until recent times there was a small swagger in his walk.

He didn't throw his weight around. There wasn't much to throw. But when he was in the Y gym with his small troupe, he didn't back up for anyone. He knew what he was doing and he did it happily and with a friendliness and encouragement that kept his youngsters working.

★ ★ ★

I didn't go in for tumbling, but I offered to help him once. He had a nervous young girl trying back flips. She couldn't get the idea of lifting for height on her take-off, so Lennie brought out the springboard and the belt. It still didn't help the girl.

Because I thought I was a diver, I volunteered to demonstrate.

"Sure," said Lennie. "You ever do this before?"

I told him only into the water and he said, "Fine. But maybe we'd better put the belt on you."

I wasn't pleased, but I put on the belt. A tumbling belt straps around your middle and has rings at the side. From them ropes go up through ceiling pulleys and come down so an instructor can hold them to check the fall of someone who isn't making his trick.

Wearing it, I hit the springboard, rode up like a rocket, and started a gainer spin at the top of my lift. Only it wasn't going to be a gainer. Something froze up there and I started down head first, travelling fast. It was the kind of thing you like to see happen to some other over-confident show-off.

Lennie threw his weight on the ropes and I struggled around, landing in a heap with my feet under me. I waited for the loud laugh I deserved. It didn't come.

"Mighty nice height you got there, boy," said Lennie. "Mighty nice height. You sorta stuck on your spin, but, doggone it, I don't know as I've seen better height."

I used to go often to the Y shortly after dinner time when Lennie was teaching youngsters. The gym was his at that hour and I'd slide in through Archie's office door and stand by the wall. When he and his bunch took a breather I'd say "Hi Pop," and he'd say "Hi!" peering my way to see who it was because his eyes were going. Then I'd ask, "Like me to do a gainer?" and he'd know. "Hi, Art, mighty nice height you got that time. Mighty nice height." And we'd both laugh.

★ ★ ★

I've watched Lennie shamble up to the head table time after time at annual Y meetings to receive another certificate for his continued volunteer service with youngsters. He'd be muttering to himself, and he'd be embarrassed. But he liked it.

I've listened to him talk with other tumblers about old times, Frankie Carroll, the vaudeville circuit, the crackerjacks who worked the tumbling and clown routines on it, and I've listened to the story of how he and Archie nearly decided to go on the Pantages swing. We've discussed springboard work, miscues and bone-jarring falls, circuses and acrobats. I know something of the kids he has helped with tumbling and have sensed a sort of mysticism in the fellowship of those who go in for it.

Years ago I read a French classic about a tumbler performing before an altar. It's doubtful if Lennie ever read it. There was no particular reason why he should. Lennie kept up his tumbling classes without thought of reward just to help kids. That, in a humble way, was tumbling for a higher purpose, too.

"All this you will inherit from me, son—four million annual deficit—seven million in tax—six million mortgage . . ."

Cuba Warned Against Subversion Attempts

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A Central American foreign minister warned Cuba and the Soviet Union Tuesday that the countries of the American hemisphere have the right to take "every measure and action" if Cuba tries to export communism to its neighbors.

Without naming either country, Galileo Solis, Panama's foreign minister, told the 108-nation United Nations General Assembly "establishment of a Communist government in any country puts it necessarily outside the inter-American system."

He added that the system will respect its policy of non-intervention in any country's affairs.

This applied not only to armed intervention but to alien economic, ideological or doctrinary penetration, he said.

He asserted that by itself establishment of a Communist government does not constitute a danger either for domestic or world peace "if that government limits itself to exist within its own frontiers with the approval and acceptance of its own people, freely expressed, without pressures or fear."

STRATEGIC POSITION

'Fishing Port' in Cuba Cover-Up for Naval Base?

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. defence sources said today they believe the fishing port to be built in Cuba with Russian assistance is a camouflage for a naval base that could threaten the Panama Canal.

They said such a port equipped to overhaul, repair and supply Russian and Cuban trawlers also could serve as a support base for submarines and torpedo boats.

The plans to build the port in Havana Bay as headquarters for Cuban-Russian Atlantic fishing fleet were unveiled Tuesday by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Many of Russia's 3,000 trawlers are known to carry radar and other electronic equipment with which they have monitored U.S. missile test shots from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and have observed U.S. fleet manoeuvres.

The small flotilla of Russian trawlers which arrived in Havana last summer is equipped with electronic detection equipment.

WORLD-WIDE PLAN

Some military authorities said construction of a Russian port in Cuba appears part of a world-wide plan to position Soviet naval power where it could pinch off key Allied shipping routes.

Sources familiar with the movements of Russian fishing trawlers said they normally work along the Grand Banks.

"They don't get down that far in legitimate fishing," one officer said in referring to Cuban waters where the new base will be built.

Officially, the U.S. government kept silent on Castro's announcement. But privately, military officials were concerned.

"We can't allow this sort of thing to go on," said one highly-placed officer. However, he and others indicated they felt there is little prospect of any direct U.S. preventive action now.

TAKE OTHER STEPS

U.S. military strategists noted that the Russians already had taken steps that could put them in a position to cut off vital western shipping lanes in critical areas of the world.

The Russians have built a base in Yemen astride a lifeline through the Red Sea.

Sources said there are reports the Russians will construct a seaport for Morocco close to Gibraltar and the narrow passage connecting the Atlantic with the Mediterranean.

Added to this, the U.S. authorities said, Russia has supplied considerable military aid to Indonesia which lies close to Singapore and the Straits of Malacca—a main course for vessels operating between Europe and Australia and New Zealand.

B.C. Liberals To Work On Organizing

Organization at the poll level will be the theme of the B.C. Liberal party's annual convention next month.

Accent will be on the federal field, with resolutions expected on federal policy, says party president Bill Gilmour of Penticton.

The convention opens Oct. 27 at the Astor Hotel in Vancouver.

Delegates will come from all parts of the province.

The convention will also elect a new slate of officers for the coming year.

Troops Still Fight

PEKING (Reuters)—Chinese and Indian troops were still fighting this afternoon in a battle in which three Chinese sentries were killed and two officers wounded Monday on the Indo-Tibetan border, the New China news agency reported today.

LONDON LETTER — By WALLACE REYBURN

Stratford Festival Praised

LONDON—Still more praise for the Shakespearean Festival Theatre of Stratford, Ont.

This time it was in The Sunday Observer, from John Wain, highly regarded British poet and novelist, after two weeks of sampling productions there.

Reyburn

"It's a great theatre," says Wain, "but during my stay there I was, in the midst of my enjoyment and admiration, troubled with one persistent question.

"Why, during the ten years of its existence, have we in England heard so little about this theatre? Why have our dramatic critics not been there more often?

★ ★ ★

"Some of them have never been at all, though it can be reached in half a day from New York, where they seem to spend much of their time.

"What we need is a simple explanation of why Stratford, Ont., is important; why our critics ought to keep us informed about it; and why we should try to learn from it."

★ ★ ★

Wain's views on this season's productions at Stratford: "Michael Langham's Taming of the Shrew is a masterpiece, a showcase example of how to use Shakespeare's theatre. George McCowan's Tempest is a thoughtful and sensitive production, slower-paced and lower-toned, which has the merit of being in sympathy with the play.

"And Peter Coe's Macbeth is just one more attempt to make Shakespeare 'interesting' by distorting him, the kind of thing we have to put up with in England, but should not be allowed in a real Shakespeare theatre such as the Ontario one."

HOME GARDEN — By JACK BEASTALL

Bonemeal Is Best for Fall

I suspect that some gardening book written for the eastern side of the continent has become rather widely distributed in this area. This suspicion is caused by the number of gardeners asking what kind of fertilizer should be used to spread over the entire garden in late fall.

Jack

It is a recognized practice in those areas where the ground freezes and remains frozen for several months, the fertilizer being spread "after the ground freezes."

When spring arrives in those areas the soil thaws out slowly, and cannot be walked on or worked until the frost leaves and normal drainage is again in operation.

In the meantime, plant growth is rapid, more rapid than in a western spring, and the fertilizer that was spread on the frozen ground is carried down with the soil water to the root area of the plants long before the gardener can tend them.

If gardeners on the West Coast will follow these directions implicitly they will be safe and so will their plants, because the soil never freezes solid here in the fall and therefor the right time to apply the fertilizer never arrives.

The only fertilizer to use here in the fall is bonemeal. It may be mixed into planting holes or spread around established plants and raked into the surface.

Bonemeal is organic in origin and, in common with all organics, has no food value for plants until the soil organisms have changed it into the chemical form that plants are able to use.

As the soil cools in fall the soil population becomes less active and remains almost inactive throughout the winter, so that little available plant food is released during the period when plants should be dormant. In spring, activity increases as the soil warms and growth starts, and a plentiful supply of food becomes available when the plants need it most.

A chemical fertilizer applied in the fall would become available to the plants as soon as the rains start, and this would force a lot of young growth which would be killed when colder weather arrived. Late fertilizing is the cause of a lot of our over-winter plant losses.

Policy Shapers Named to Senate

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Two of the chief behind-the scenes shapers of Progressive Conservative policy—a newspaper man and a public relations expert — were appointed to the Senate Tuesday.

They are eloquent M. Grattan O'Leary, 73, president of the Ottawa Journal, and jovial and chubby Allister Grosart, 55, national director of the Conservative party.

Three other new senators appointed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker are Edgar E. Fournier, 54, of Iroquois, N.B., and Clement O'Leary, 46, of Antigonish, N.S., former Conservative MPs defeated in this year's general election, and Frank C. Welch, 62, of Wolfville, N.S., president of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association since 1953.

New Senate standings are: Liberals 62; Conservatives 31; Independents 2; Independent-Liberal 1; vacant 6; total 102. There were five Conservatives in the Senate when Mr. Diefenbaker came to power in 1957.

TO PRIVY COUNCIL

Mr. Diefenbaker also appointed the Speakers of the last Houses of Parliament to the Privy Council. This will permit former Commons Speaker Roland Michener, defeated in the June 18 election, and former Senate Speaker Mark Drouin to affix "honorable" before their names for life.

Commenting on the appointments, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said he will make known in the House of Commons next Monday "what I think of the propriety of appointments of this kind being made by a minority government which has not received a vote of confidence."

Michael Grattan O'Leary, born in a farmhouse at Perce on Quebec's Gaspe Peninsula, has been a newspaper man nearly all his life. In his 51 years with The Journal, he rose from $7-a-week reporter to the presidency in 1957.

A man who does not suffer pretence gladly, Mr. O'Leary is probably best known for his magnificently - turned editorials in The Journal. Though he never went to high school he has always been a voracious reader and his command of language, written or oral, has set a standard which few of his colleagues have ever been able to match.

Mr. Grosart, born in Dublin, came to Canada in 1923 and was graduated from the University of Toronto. He was a reporter and editor of the Toronto Star from 1929 to 1933, and in 1934 set up the second public relations firm to be formed in Canada. He merged this business with McKim Advertising Limited of which he became vice-president.

Mr. Grosart was named national director of the Conservative party in 1957 and is given a good deal of the credit for the party's victories in the 1957 and 958 elections.

The United States, Great Britain and Canada accounted for 41 per cent of the world's industrial exports in 1961, 4 per cent less than the Common Market.

Oak Bay Starts Finance Survey On Recreation

First steps to drawing up financial plans for a proposed Oak Bay recreation centre will be taken soon in surveys of Vancou centres by the municipal engineer and treasurer.

Zoning and development planning committee decided to send the men to Vancouver in a preliminary survey to choose the best features of Vancouver's projects, some public, some private; both non-profit and profit-making.

Chairman Coun. L.D. Watts said information would be sought from Esquimalt, which made a survey prior to building its new sports arena.

Council representatives will consult with Victoria city council members on rezoning the four acres of shut-down Mountain View Home, which the city wants for sale as high-rise apartment land.

If rezoned to permit construction of a building up to six stories in height as the city requests, there could be long-range advantage in enlarging adjoining individual lots by a 20-foot strip, Mr. Watts said.

This would make these lots, some now bearing older houses, 140 feet deep, and make them more suitable for eventual use as apartment sites.

The lots referred to front on Hampshire Road.

WITHOUT PIPELINE

Third Firm Seeks Gas Franchise

A new "space age" natural gas plan for Vancouver Island was proposed here Tuesday.

A third company entered the lists seeking a franchise to service the Island at a B.C. Public Utilities Commission hearing in the Law Courts.

Earlier Magna Pipe Line served notice it is surrendering its PUC franchise and plans to sell out to a U.S. company, Cascade Natural Gas of Seattle.

Island Transmission of Nanaimo has already said it will apply for the franchise; Cascade also intends to do so.

NO PIPLINE

Now Cryogenic Enterprises Ltd of Vancouver has entered the field with a completely new proposal—to provide liquified gas instead of building a pipeline.

Cryogenic president J. T. Sparling submitted a brief to the PUC before its hearing wound up Tuesday afternoon.

This plan is based on successful U.S. research programs on liquefied gases for missiles.

Cyrogenic said it had spent 18 months compiling feasibility reports on domestic and industrial markets for liquefied gas where pipelines are impossible or economically unfeasible.

ENCOURAGING

Mr. Sparling said the reports were "most encouraging" on prospects in northern B.C., Alaska and the Yukon.

The company already plans to sell liquefied gas in the Fort Nelson area through a subsidiary firm, Fort Nelson Natural Gas, which is building a distribution system.

Now it is looking into the lower mainland and Island market.

Its idea is to build a liquefaction plant in the Greater Vancouver area.

Gas would be ferried to the Island on specially-insulated tanker ships and stored for distribution. The plan would cost about $7,000,000.

REMOTE AREAS

Liquid gas would also be supplied to remote coastal areas where terrain and coastline are too tough for a pipeline. The gas would be available for Greater Vancouver in peak demand periods.

Mr. Sparling said Cryogenic's studies had been assisted by Constock Pritchard and Canadian Liquidair.

BLACK WIDOW BITE SIMILAR TO BEE STING

Undue alarm over black widow spider bites is unwarranted, Greater Victoria metro health chief Dr. John Whitbread said Tuesday.

The spider not only rarely bites people but it also "is no more dangerous than a wasp or bee sting," the senior metro MHO said in a press release.

"No deaths have occurred as the effects have been mild," he added.

In cases where Black widow bites are definitely established, an anti-venom serum is available through private physicians.

Homes and their surrounding should be kept clear of rubbish, a favorite haunt of the spider. A spray of 5 per cent DDT in kerosene will kill the spiders.

Mac-Powell Cuts Prices of Pulp

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pulp price reductions ranging from $3 to $15 per ton were announced Tuesday by Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

The move by the big B.C. company followed a similar step announced last week by Weyerhaeuser Co. of Tacoma, which reduced prices $8 to $12 per ton on four grades of bleached kraft.

NB-PR's new pulp prices, depending on the grade, will apply to the U.S., U.K. and continental European markets. The company's statement made no mention of the type of pulp affected.

SUPPLY 30%

MB-PR said pulp prices to the U.K. and continental Europe have been reduced recently by Scandinavian sellers who supply more than 80 per cent of the market pulp to these markets.

There is a surplus of productive capacity in Scandinavian countries and in North America, the company said.

A company spokesman said the price of pulp in the Canadian market was still under review.

"We don't expect the effect to be as appreciable in Eastern Canada where we sell relatively small amounts," he said.

Canadian Oil Succumbs To New Offer by Shell

TORONTO (CP) — The international Shell group has made a second and apparently successful move to take over Canadian Oil Companies Ltd.

The directors of Canadian Oil Tuesday night recommended acceptance of the new bid, which amounts to $52.50 a share or nearly 35 per cent more than an earlier offer that had been rejected.

Power Corp. of Canada Ltd.—Canadian Oil's biggest shareholder with about a one-third interest—has already announced its intention to accept the offer.

Both bids were made by Shell subsidiaries, the first by Hesper Oil Co. Ltd. and Tuesday's by Shell Investments Ltd.

Hesper offered July 21 to pay $113,915,595 or about $39 a share for Canadian Oils's business and assets.

REJECT BID

The directors of Canadian Oil, last Canadian-owned integrated oil company, rejected the bid saying the firm's value was considerably in excess of the offer.

Under the new offer Canadian Oil stockholders would receive $52.50 cash a share plus a certificate representing one-quarter of a Class B common share of Shell of Canada at a price of $20 in the period from Oct. 1, 1963, to Sept. 30, 1972.

Alternatively, they would receive $32.50 cash and one paid and non-assessable 5½-per-cent preference share of Shell Investments of $20 par value, convertible from Oct. 1, 1963, to Sept. 30, 1972, into a depository certificate representing one-quarter of a Class B share of Shell of Canada.

The preference shares will be non-callable during the conversion period but thereafter will be redeemable at the option of Shell investments at par and accrued interests.

A statement by Canadian Oil said that in light of all the circumstances obtaining, "the existing ownership of the company could no longer be maintained."

"The obligation, therefore, became one of recommending to the shareholders of the company the offer which in the opinion of the board was in their best interests. Accordingly, the offer of the Shell Investments Ltd. is recommended for acceptance by the shareholders of Canadian Oil."

ASSURE EMPLOYEES

The statement added that written assurances "have been given by Shell that personnel of Canadian Oil will continue their employment on generally the same terms and conditions as they now enjoy."

A Shell statement said the purpose of the offer would be to "permit ultimately the integration of the operations and assets of Canadian Oil with those of Shell of Canada."

It said that Shell investments "is fully conscious of the contribution that has been made by Canadian Oil to the development of the Canadian economy and the oil industry but believes that that contribution will be realized more fully and will be even greater when the operations of Canadian Oil are integrated with those of Shell of Canada."

"In its opinion," the statement added, it is in the best interest of all to maintain Canadian Oil's White Rose brand and continue that company's operating policies with a minimum of disturbance."

Canadian Oil closed on the Toronto stock market Tuesday at $47.50 a share after earlier hitting a high for the year of $48.25 compared with a low for the year of $24.25. It has an authorized capital of 6,000,000 shares of which 2,618,370 are outstanding.

U.S. Lumbermen Gain By Ship Act Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Monday to authorize suspension of the Jones Act for shipments of lumber from the United States to Peurto Rico.

Sen. Maurine Neuberger (Dem. Ore.), author of the measure, said it was a move to encourage lumber sales in the northwest.

She said Canada now gets 100 per cent of the lumber business in Puerto Rico because it costs too much to ship U.S. lumber there. The Jones Act requires shipment in U.S. ships. Mrs. Neuberger said shipment in U.S. vessels is more costly.

Mrs. Neuberger said, after the vote, that British Columbia exports to Puerto Rico had boomed from 1,150,000 board feet in 1951 to a projected 80,000,000 in 1962. The northwest, she said, shipped 92 per cent of Puerto Rico's lumber in 1951 and none in 1961-62.

She said the Senate vote on the Jones Act was "the first relaxation of the domestic shipping monopoly since the ratification of the constitution."

The measure was an amendment to the bill repealing the shipping differential favoring Pacific Coast shipbuilders. It now goes to a conference committee to settle differences with the House.

Fishermen Complaints 'Ridiculous'

City engineer J. C. Garnett Tuesday ridiculed complaints from boat owners that a sewer outlet near Fishermen's Wharf is blackening their paintwork.

Several fishermen said fumes from the sewer foul the air and posibly create a chemical reaction making the paint go black.

"It is absolutely ridiculous to think these fumes would react with, or dirty, the paint," countered Mr. Garnett.

But Leonard Clay, 4001 Cedar Hill Cross Road, said "since I've been tied up here my bow looks like someone took a tar brush to it."

Others said the sewage fumes were unhealthy while another said fishermen had been asking for a clean-up for years "but City Hall always says funds aren't available."

Mr. Garnett admitted "something will be done"—as soon as funds are available.

JAPANESE AUSTERITY HITS V.I. OPERATIONS

Whaling's Pattern of Woe Endures

COAL HARBOR, B.C. (CP) —Austerity in Japan, bad weather and a disappointing catch have plagued whaling fleets that took to the Pacific this year for the first time since 1959.

The once-profitable enterprise was resurrected this spring with high hopes, but even the best skills and equipment available haven't changed a gloomy picture.

The first reversal for the Canadian company involved, B.C. Packers Ltd., came when its prime market in Japan disappeared.

A new cold storage plant had been installed at this port at the northern end of Vancouver Island, ready to process the whale meat for human consumption. The Japanese had agreed to buy the entire fresh meat output but their government embarked on austerity. Currency controls were instituted and no funds were allotted for purchase of Canadian whale meat.

The frozen meat had to be exported to the United States as mink feed at much lower prices.

The catch itself declined in quality and quantity. From early spring to Aug. 30 the total catch was 606 whales, compared with 769 the same date in the last previous year of operation.

Of this total, 336 were of the small sei variety, compared with 185 seis in 1959. This brought the tonnage even further down, despite a late increase in the big blue whales.

Catches should have hit a peak in May and June but the weather was often unsuitable.

A pattern of woe isn't new to Canada's west coast whaling industry and the company hopes prospects will improve next year.

The predecessors of B.C. Packers, Western Whaling Corp., started in 1948 at this old RCAF base, and learned the hard way by losing money. B.C. Packers took over the assets, imported Norwegian experts, purchased regulation whale catcher boats and expanded operations.

Bad years still outnumbered good, and early in 1960 the roof fell in. World markets for whale oil, meat and fertilizers were dropping, labor costs were rising, and the company could not come to an agreement with the United Fisherman's Union.

The Coal Harbor operation was suspended. At the same time, established British, Norwegian and Dutch companies in the Antarctic were selling their fleets to Japanese companies and the state-subsidized Russians.

B.C. Packers was able to resume work this year by running a joint operation with a Japanese firm under the name of Western Canada Whaling Company Ltd., and the new partners contributed three modern diesel whale catcher boats.

The few outsiders that make their way to remote Coal Harbor and view the spectacle of the fleets coming in would hate to see whaling fold again.

Even the old-timers watched the best moment of a bad year, when an 82-foot blue whale—one the largest ever caught in B.C. waters—was landed at Coal Harbor at mid-summer.

Nanaimo Seeks Compromise On Ship Loss

NANAIMO—A direct appeal is going to Canadian Pacific Railway president N. R. Crump to continue operation of at least one of two ferries the company plans to cut from the present three-ferry Nanaimo-Vancouver service Oct. 1.

Aldermen agreed Tuesday to Mayor Pete Maffeo's suggestion that the appeal be made by the Chamber of Commerce.

"Once these boats are off it will be very difficult to get one back on again," said Ald. Jack Parker.

The CPR decided to cut the Nanaimo-Vancouver service in the face of competition from the B.C. government-owned ferries.

Meanwhile, Nanaimo city council was raked by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood for complaining that the province has ignored a plea for a ferry hearing.

Transportation committee said earlier its appeal to the cabinet on the ferry question after Oct. 1 had been brushed off.

"This is a major problem requiring a great deal of consideration and investigation to explore what action is necessary and feasible.

"It has been sprung upon us suddenly and there has not been sufficient time to deal with it. The matter has certainly not been ignored," Mr. Westwood said.

NANAIMO—The government ferry system's free bus transportation from downtown ferry docks to the business section and Departure Bay ferry terminal will be cancelled after Oct. 1.

B.C. Ferries says pedestrians will be charged 20 cents for the bus trip when the CPR cancels all but its Princess of Vancouver sailings between Nanaimo and Vancouver.

DUNCAN—Fifty new parking spaces and additional lighting will be provided for public use at the city's paved parking area next to the Armory.

City council plans to provide greater parking facility in future by removing a number of trees from this area.

It is expected the highways department will replace a temporary traffic island on Government Street with a permanent installation, following a trial period. But aldermen recommend that it be made smaller to provide for more clearance.

DUNCAN—Complaint that Honeymoon Bay is ignored by road signs is being taken to the highways department by Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

Sign at Berkey's Corner, Duncan, points the way to Cowichan Lake, Mesachie Lake and Youbou, but neglects the nearby village of Honeymoon Bay where Western Forest Industries Ltd. has its shingle and sawmills.

A B.C. Forest Products Ltd. sign near the government sign lists Youbou and Caycuse, without a mention of Mesachie Lake or Honeymoon Bay.

'NOTHING TO DO WITH IT'

Dairy Farmers of Canada president John Dickson Tuesday dissassociated his organization from any responsibility for mismanagement of the Canadian Dairy Princess contest.

The DFC was named by ex-princess Ciara Taylor, 20, of 2973 McIntyre, as one of three sponsors of the contest to blame for lack of organization in the annual promotion.

Miss Taylor, winner of the first Canadian Dairy Princess title, was given an all-expense trip to South America, which cost her father about $2,000 out of his own pocket. He did not ask repayment by the sponsors.

Mr. Dickson said, "We have had nothing to do with it. We may have made a contribution to help out the situation, but that did not make us sponsors."

The DFC president is here to take part in the National Dairy Council convention being held in the Empress Hotel.

Fire Threat Closes Woods To Hunters

Bad Behavior Upsets Official

CAMPBELL RIVER — New threat of forest fires has brought closure of logging lands to hunters by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. in this area.

President Duncan Marshall, of Fish and Game Club, appeals to hunters to have more respect for company property after two fires were reported and a gate was smashed within the logging territory.

The firm this year made more land available to hunters and arranged easier access.

"But as it turned out, the company's confidence in the intelligence and common sense of the hunting fraternity has been badly shaken," Mr. Marshall said.

He said the company is expected to reopen lands when the fire hazard drops to a safer level.

In the Nanaimo area, hunting has been halted in Northwest Bay Nanaimo River, Nanaimo Lakes, Mayo and Hillcrest areas.

Blackjack Mountain area remains open, but because deer are staying in cover due to good grazing, the kill has been low.

Shift System Faces Schools At Courtenay

COURTENAY—Spectre of a shift system for school classes—and going back to the taxpayers for more building money—stalked school trustees this week.

Superintendent of schools C. E. Ritchie warned the board prolonged delay in providing new classrooms would mean a shift system next September.

Board chairman James Simon said a way would have to be found to provide new rooms.

Early this year voters approved a $930,000 construction bylaw to meet pressures from soaring enrolments. So far an unexpected jump in building costs has scuttled estimates and prevented driving the first nail under the program.

Lowest tender on the first of a series of small elementary schools was $40,000 above estimates.

Trustee A. D. Clement said it would be difficult to change the schedule of building already voted on by the public.

"We may have to follow it and be faced with an additional referendum to make up the difference within two years."

'Best Side Won Series,' Aussies Admit

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) Matilda will not waltz tonight.

And the old America's Cup stays in its New York Yacht Club showcase until Britain takes the next crack at it, probably in a year or two.

An English challenge is expected, and yacht club officials said it would be accepted if it is received in the next 30 days. No date was set for the series.

The gallant Australian bid for the 111-year-old America's Cup ended off Newport Tuesday when the American defender Weatherly defeated the Aussie sloop Gretel by a half-mile margin.

The victory gave the Americans the Cup series, four races to one.

It was the 18th unsuccessful challenge for the ugly old ornate silver mug, which has never left the New York Yacht Club.

The gallant Australian bid was doomed to join the ill-fated pre-war challenges of Sir Thomas Lipton and T. O. M. Sopwith early in the final race.

Weatherly skipper Bus Mosbacher Jr., rated the best man in the world at handling a skittish 12-metre sailing ship into the wind, jumped off to a lead within minutes after the start.

Except for one stirring Aussie rally on the third leg, which Mosbacher brushed off by saving racing water, Weatherly added steadily to the lead, which mounted to three minutes and 40 seconds at the end.

As the two crews slumped to the deck at the finish, fire boats shot streams of water into the air, and skyrockets and roman candles pierced the gloom.

CHAMPAGNE FLOWED

Weatherly broke out champagne that had been hidden below deck. It was well shaken up by the choppy sea, whipped up by almost perfect racing winds ranging from 10 to 16 knots, with gusts in the 20s.

The crews shared genuine respect, and the Aussies had become so popular in this historic city that Americans in the spectator fleet and on shore felt a tug at their patriotism as the challenge unfolded.

"The Americans were too damn good," said Sir Frank Packer, head of the Australian syndicate that mounted the challenge, "but I suppose the sun will come up tomorrow just the same."

"The best side won the series," said Jock Sturrock, skipper of Gretel, who stunned yachtsmen here by winning the second race of the series, and staging the closest pursuit in cup history in the fourth.

"The Australians sent us a superlative challenger," said Mosbacher.

LOCAL BRIEFS

A new agreement with the SPCA to provide pound services to the city has been endorsed by the city parks committee.

Instead of requiring a flat annual payment of $2,500 from the SPCA each year, the city will take a 20 per cent rebate of all fees for licences and impounding collected from city residents.

This will reduce the society's payment to the city to about $1,400 on the basis of 1961 experience.

The new agreement also stipulates that the society's office will remain open during all normal business hours and a telephone answering service will be provided to take after-hours emergency calls.

Seepage from a long-damaged valve allowing Beaver-Elk Lake water to leak into Colquitz Creek throughout summer months will be stopped by blocking up the valve with concrete.

This will result in downstream water users on Colquitz Creek only obtaining the winter "spillover" that flows over the city's dam at the south end of the lake.

"They'll get the normal run off they're entitled to but no more seepage from the lake," said parks administrator Herbert Warren.

Strike-Lockout Ends

VANCOUVER (CP) — The strike and lockout of some 700 electricians which stopped work on numerous B.C. projects was called off by union and management Tuesday night pending consideration of a proposal made by government mediators.

The 700 employees locked out by 25 contracting firms were ordered to report for duty Wednesday morning.

'N' IS FOR 'NICE' ... ...TO HAVE KNOWN YOU

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—When Gretel, the Australian challenger for the America's Cup, sailed across the finish line in defeat Tuesday the crew immediately broke out the "N" flag.

Throughout the two weeks of competition this had been the signal of the Australians "that we do not wish to race tomorrow."

But Tuesday was the Gretel's fourth defeat in the best-of-seven series and closed out the competition.

'Glorious in Defeat'

SYDNEY (AP)—Australians are bitterly disappointed at Gretel's failure to take the America's Cup but are talking nevertheless of the gallant effort by the Aussie crew.

Radio broadcasts and special editions of Sydney newspapers told of Weatherly's victory in the fifth race Tuesday that kept the cup in the U.S.

Once again many stayed up late or got up early to hear the frequent broadcast bulletins on the race which began at 3:10 a.m. Sydney time.

A special edition of an evening newspaper, The Daily Mirror, had a headline over half the front page saying "glorious in defeat."

KAYOED BOXER STILL IN COMA . . .

Signs of Improvement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Argentine heavyweight boxer Alejandro Lavorante, 25, who has been in a coma since he was knocked out in a fight last Friday, showed slight evidence of recovery Tuesday night.

Dr. J. De Witt Fox, neurosurgeon, who performed two operations to relieve pressure on the fighter's brain, said Lavorante is still in a coma and probably will continue in it for 48 hours or longer.

But Dr. Fox said Lavorante now is able to blink his eyes, can swallow and cough, his blood pressure and pulse are good, and there is no sign of infection. Lavorante now can move his arms and legs to some extent, and he responds to pain stimuli, such as pinching.

Lavorante's mother, Mrs. Lidia Lavorante, and his brother, Jose, 21, flew here Tuesday from Argentina to see him.

The boxer was knocked out by Johnny Riggins of San Francisco. It was the third knockout this year for Lavorante. Archie Moore and Casius Clay also decked him.

Three consulting neurosurgons have been called into Lavorante's case by Dr. Fox.

RESEARCHERS AT WORK

How Many Bars? Milkmen to Ask

By FRANK RUTTER

Milkman, they're trying to dry up your route.

In a few years it may be all a case of instant milk.

Success of dried and concentrated dairy products was debated at a panel discussion of experts Tuesday attending the National Dairy Council convention in the Empress Hotel.

They disclosed that there's going to be a lot more such products if research plans pay off.

The panel's topic was A New Era in Processing and Merchandising.

Philippe Pariseault of Granby Agricultural Co-operative in Quebec said success of instant milk powder has been "rewarding."

Soaring sales this year will be the equivalent of 600,000,000 pounds of fluid milk, he said.

Instant skim milk is almost as successful, with sales jumping from 3,000,000 pounds in 1955 to 41,000,000 in 1961.

"More and more we will see custom blended products made from a variety of good quality dried or concentrated byproducts," said Mr. Pariseault.

"We feel very strongly that drying of foods is one of the major fields to be explored even further in the future," added John F. Walter, director of manufacturing for Nabob Foods.

Some of the fields under study: freeze drying, drying without heat and use of high frequency sound.

The search for the perfect products is narrowing, said John H. Forde, of Donlands Dairy, Toronto.

Its virtues should be: good flavor, variety of uses, easy storage, reasonable price and it could be bought in long-lasting quantity without being bulky.

At present fresh concentrated milk can only be kept 28 days in a refrigerator.

But it tastes like fresh whole milk to 99 per cent of the consumers, according to Mr. Forde.

Leave two bars, please milkman.

Mosley's Speech Protested

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, self-styled leader of England's Nazi party, arrived here Tuesday night amid mounting protests over his scheduled appearance at a student-sponsored forum at the state University of New York at Buffalo.

A handful of young people, some carrying placards, were waiting at Buffalo's international airport when Mosley's plane arrived, but there was no demonstration.

Airline officials whisked Mosley to a waiting automobile and he was taken to an unidentified hotel.

Walter J. Mahoney, Republican majority leader of the State Senate, termed the invitation to Mosley "ill-advised" and at least three Jewish organizations in Buffalo protested to university officials.

Two student groups planned demonstrations against Mosley's appearance.

ELDER STATESMAN Ferhat Abbas, 62, was elected Tuesday speaker of the new Algerian National Assembly and drew a momentous ovation when he formally proclaimed a "democratic popular republic."

. . . BUT KEEP THEM 'BALANCED'

MONTREAL (CP) — Immigration from Britain ought to be encouraged to maintain Canada's ethnic balance, says Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, Anglican primate of all Canada.

"We in the Anglican Church believe that a man's race, color or religion should neither bar nor qualify him for immigration," he said in an interview Tuesday.

Immigrants from Britain would be people who "understand the traditions and institutions which are part of Canadian life" and would help preserve the "distinctive flavor" of Canada.

"We do not want to stop anyone else from coming here," he said, "but the matter of balance is very important."

MANUFACTURERS URGE GOVERNMENT

'Bring More Immigrants'

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Canadian Manufacturers' Association today called on the federal government to step up immigration of people with skills or capital that would help Canada's development.

"We need more people—native born as well as new Canadians—to help consume the increased production," CMA president Carl A. Pollock of Kitchener, Ont., said at a meeting of the association's Quebec division.

"We would like to see a strong new program aimed at attracting to Canada any man or woman, regardless of race, color or creed, with needed skills and/or capital to contribute to the growth of this nation," he said.

Pollock said last year's inflow of 71,689 immigrants was the lowest in more than a decade and "all the signs point to it being even lower this year."

At the same time, he said, 40,000 to 50,000 persons were leaving Canada annually, including a high proportion possessing skills and qualifications "badly needed in this country."

The CMA president also called for "some official re-thinking" in respect to combines legislation.

"Many of the industrial procedures and arrangements which would unquestionably accomplish lower costs and improved industrial efficiency are not being followed, either because they would contravene combines law or because it is feared that they might do so," he said.

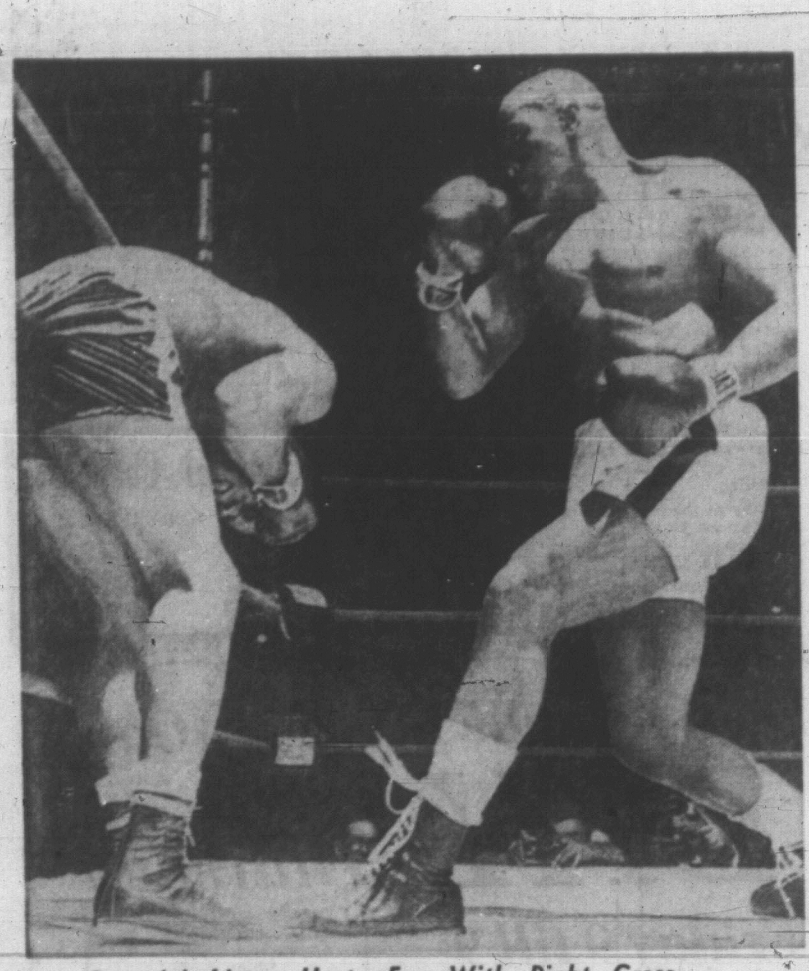
Floyd Won't Have to Wait Says New Heavyweight King



Powerful Liston Hurts Foe With Right Cross . . .

Liston Dethrones Patterson With First-Round Knockout

By JACK CUDDY

CHICAGO (UPI)—Big Sonny Liston, the first former convict to become world heavyweight champion, will be offered an opportunity to repeat his 2-minute, 6-second knockout over Floyd Patterson in February or March, probably at Miami Beach, it was learned authoritatively today.

Al Bolan of Championship Sports, who promoted the third shortest—and the richest—heavyweight title fight in history at Comiskey Park Tuesday night, said today he wants to arrange the return Liston-Patterson championship match within the next five or six months.

Bolan declined to indicate any probable site; but another official of Championship Sports disclosed: "Al wants that return fight at Miami Beach more than any place else."

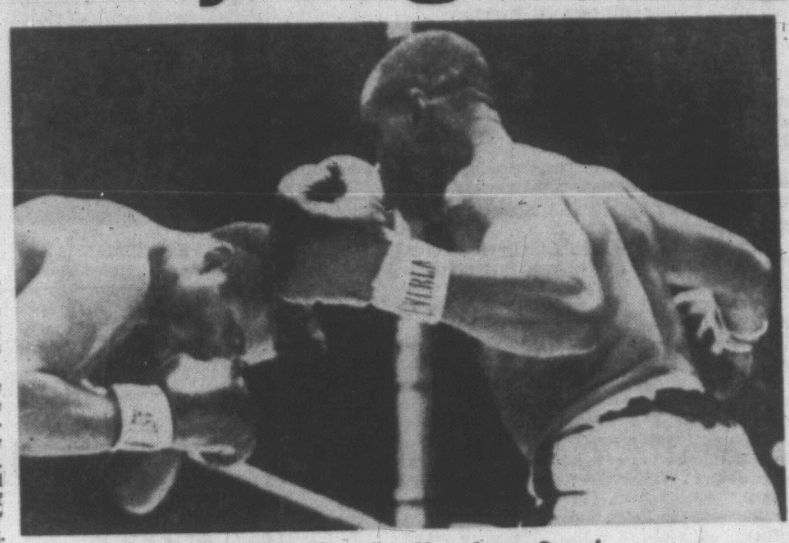
Liston, the son of a poverty-ridden Arkansas sharecropper, earned sports' richest title on Tuesday night and about $400,000 with a left hook that floored Floyd and left him unable to regain his feet before referee Frank Sikora had counted 10 in the first round.

Today Liston repeated his statement that he will go through with his contract to give Patterson a return shot at the title "just as soon as possible."

"I won't make no trouble about that return bout," the new 28-year-old champion declared. "I want to be a worthy champion—a real good one. And I'll be just that—as good or better than Floyd was—if the public gives me a chance."

Although Liston of Philadelphia had gone into the ring favored at 7½ to 5 because of his many physical advantages, the crowd of 26,000 in the White Sox ball park was almost astounded when Sonny knocked the champion out in the first round.

The quick kayo sapped much of the prestige Floyd had earned by becoming the first man to recapture the heavy title.



. . . Gets Set for Knockout Punch . . .

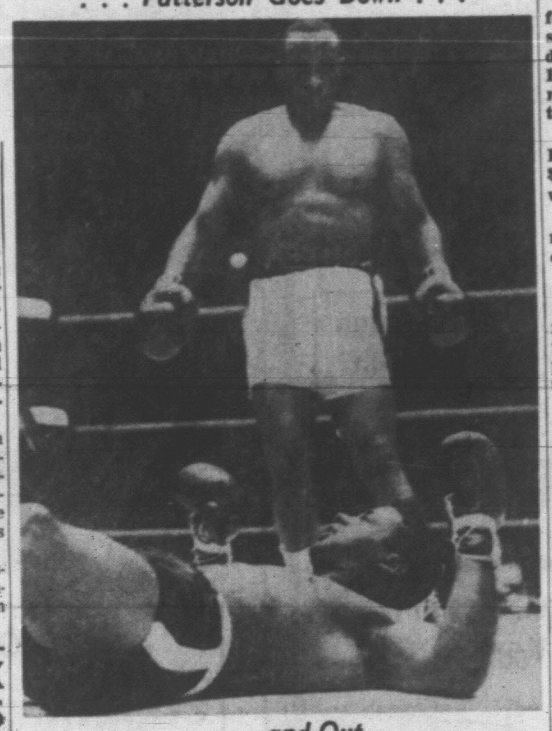
. . . Patterson Goes Down . . .



. . . and Out

Floyd Almost Got to Feet in Time

But, because 27-year-old Patterson is the same fellow who came back from a seven-knockdown third-round kayo by Ingemar Johansson in 1959 to win back the title from Ingemar on a fifth-round kayo in 1960, his return fight with Liston may again attract gross receipts approaching $5,500,000—the estimated total for the live gate ($665,420) at Comiskey Park, plus the receipts from closed-circuit television to theatres in the United States and Canada, and movies, radio, foreign kinescope and other ancillaries.

Liston brought the crowd to its feet when he staggered the smaller champion with a left hook and then spun him into the ropes with a right uppercut to the chin.

Big Sonny sensed the "kill" and barraged his wilting opponent with his huge 14-inch fists until a left hook exploded on the side of Floyd's jaw and dropped him to the canvas. It was the 13th knock-down in Floyd's two tenures as champion.

Patterson gamely pushed himself half off the canvas and remained there on the side of one hip with his right arm supporting him while referee Frank Sikora tolled off the count above him. Patterson almost got to his feet at the count of 10 but not quite.

Sonny, weighing 25 pounds more than Floyd at 214 to 189, achieved the third fastest kayo in heavyweight title history when Patterson was counted out at 2:06. Tommy Burns had belted out Jem Roche in 1:28 in 1908, and Joe Louis disposed of Max Schmeling at 2:04 in their second fight in 1938.

Jeffries Had an Even Quicker Kayo

Roche and Schmeling both were challengers, so Patterson suffered the quickest knockout of any heavyweight champion in a title fight.

An unofficial quicker kayo was registered by James J. Jeffries in 1900 when he knocked out Jack Finnegan at Detroit in 55 seconds of a scheduled 10-rounder that was not advertised as a title fight, but in which Jeffries could have lost the crown had he been knocked out.

It was the 27th straight victory for Liston, who scored his 34th win and 24th kayo in 35 professional fights since he learned to box in prison. Sonny "did time" in the Missouri state penitentiary for armed robbery, and in the St. Louis jail for assault on a policeman. He was arrested on 17 other occasions on other charges.

Because of Sonny's unsavory background, neither the New York state commission nor the California commission would give him a licence to fight.

Patterson, who earned possibly $1,500,000, suffered his third professional defeat in 41 fights and his second knockout.

He lost a decision to ex-light-heavyweight champion Joe Maxim in 1954 and was knocked out in the third round of his first title fight with Johansson.

Patterson told reporters in the dressing room he never saw the punch when the first left hook hit him and stunned him. He said emphatically, "I want to fight him again. I'll make up my mind during the next week and then decide when it will be."

Floyd has the contracted right to decide when and where the fight will be staged, but because of last night's debacle, he probably will let Bolan do the choosing.

Impossible to Believe ...And Patterson Didn't

By OSCAR FRALEY

CHICAGO (UPI)—It was impossible to believe even when you saw it.

Floyd Patterson, dethroned a second time as heavyweight champion of the world, didn't.

So, as he sat in his dressing room, clad in a funereal black which seemed almost symbolic of the deadly misery in his eyes, the marks of the brief battle were burned into his soul.

"I never saw the punch that floored me," he murmured in a tone so low that even those bending close could barely hear him. "I don't remember going down. I didn't hear any count. Then I heard the referee's voice saying 'eight' and I tried to get up."

He didn't see it, nor, he said wonderingly, even feel it.

But now, as he sat there, seemingly incapable of even moving, his blue serge suit-coat rumpled under one inert hand, he was feeling the misery of a decision which proved the old adage once again that pride goes before a fall.

For it was Patterson alone who demanded that he be put into the ring against Charles "Sonny" Liston, the man who a short time earlier had blasted him into lightning oblivion.

"CHEESE" CHAMPION

They had called him a "cheese" champion ever since he knocked out ancient Archie Moore six years ago to win the title abandoned by Rocky Marciano. There were plenty of reasons.

Because Patterson made a mockery of the championship. He defended against Tommy Jackson, the gentle hurricane; Pete Rademacher, an amateur making his first pro start; Roy Harris, courteously called a boxer; and Brian London, named after the falling bridge over the Thames for obvious reasons.

Then came a respectable foe, a hard-punching Swede named Ingemar Johansson. And the scorn piled higher when Johansson knocked him out.

MORE SUSPICION

Patterson beat him back, becoming the first man ever to regain this most coveted of all the ring's titles. Yet there was even more suspicion and disdain when, in a third bout, Johansson showed a classic reluctance to do battle once the punches piled up.

There were others more threatening and more deserving waiting in line but next he went against Tom McNeeley, a broth of a boy from Boston who was merely a pugilistic stew. The scorn was even more now and while New York turned thumbs down on the threatening Liston, Patterson in his pride and his certainty insisted that Liston should be his next foe.

There is much in the background of Liston, an arrogant man, to shudder at the possible developments of his reign. But you can't take it away from him that last night he shattered Patterson with a handful of punches.

From this seat it seemed like a right hand to the head and a pair of left hooks to the chin. But that one left hook was enough. Patterson went down with glassy eyes, a man on nowhere street. He still was crawling up a long dark tunnel at the count of 10, pawing feebly on hands and knees.

The eyes still hadn't lost their glassy look a half-hour later. Consciousness had returned but he was a man ruined by his own pride and self-confidence. He still could not believe it, and probably doesn't even today.

But it happened. And the odds are that it will when they meet again. Liston was destruction personified. Patterson merely was the "champion" most of his detractors had insisted he was all the time.

DEJECTED figure in dressing room after knockout, Floyd Patterson says he wants return bout with Liston.

Gabe After Tribe's Stock

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, is negotiating for a big block of stock in the Indians, and reports are that he and a group of associates will take control of the club within a month.

Paul declined to discuss the matter other than to say he was negotiating for a substantial interest and that he was not alone in the deal.

The transaction for 55 per cent of the stock will involve $3,000,000, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reports. This would put the total value of Indian stock at about $5,500,000.

ROBINSON LOSES

London Fans Jeer Verdict For Downes

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Terry Downes, former holder of part of the world middleweight title, outpointed Sugar Ray Robinson of New York in a ten-rounder at London's indoor Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

Downes, 26, forced Robinson from the start and the veteran American, five - times middleweight champion of the world, had no real answer to the tough Briton.

Robinson, 42, weighed in at 159 pounds and Downes at 161.

The verdict of referee Andrew Smythe was booed by a section of the sell - out 14,000 crowd. But this was largely due to a tremendous rally in the last round when Robinson, realizing he was hopelessly behind on points, threw everything into an all-out effort to knock out Downes.

Robinson, who gave away 16 years to the Briton, started well and took the first round with his crisper punching. But Downes, an all - action, fighter, started pressing Robinson in the second and never let up for the rest of the fight.

ROUTE TO RACETRACK COULD LEAD TO ULCERS

PARIS (AP)—It is the speeding French cars, not speedy French horses, that worry Jack Price, owner-trainer of Carry Back, the 1961 Kentucky Derby champion.

Carry Back, here for the rich Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe race on Oct. 7, is training at the forest-rimmed Chantilly course, 25 miles from Paris. His stable is on one side of a busy two-lane highway and the training track is on the other.

Each day the four-year-old thoroughbred must make two trips across the highway.

"I can't stand to watch it," said Price Monday after Carry Back was safely back in his stall. "Those cars . . . I stay in the barn until I know he is across the street."

Olympic Leaders Bow to Pressure

TOKYO (AP) — Two of Japan's ranking Olympic leaders resigned Tuesday night after assuming responsibility for Japan's participation in the recent Asian Games from which Nationalist China and Israel were barred for political reasons by the host country, Indonesia.

Jullichi Isushima, chairman of the Japan Olympic Committee, and Masaji Tabata, secretary general of the JOC, stepped down as the committee met to discuss arrangements for the 1964 Olympic Games.

Both had been under pressure for giving Japanese athletes permission to compete in Jakarta's restricted games.

Ingo Can't Go Home Until Tax Bill Settled

Ingemar Johansson came to the United States for Tuesday night's title fight—and found he can't go home until he settles a $1,000,000 bill.

U.S. immigration agents have been ordered to block his return to Sweden until he arranges for settlement of his tax dispute with the U.S. government, which claims he owes more than $1,000,000 in taxes and interest from earnings on his three fights with Floyd Patterson.

Officials said he would not necessarily have to pay the tax debt before returning to Sweden but would have to "make arrangements to settle his tax obligation" before he gets clearance.

MISSED KO

Fuse Foils Fans

(Times News Services)

Fight fans in Brooklyn and St. Paul, Minn., paid up to $7.50 a ticket to see a closed-circuit telecast of the Patterson-Liston fight Tuesday night but they missed the knockout because of power failures.

A fuse blow-out darkened the screen of a Brooklyn theatre just 30 seconds before the kayo and 3,000 patrons went wild. They stormed the box office demanding their money back, forcing police to call for reinforcements.

"We finally got it across to them that the management had promised to refund their money," a harried police lieutenant said. "That calmed them down."

"They were really very nice about it when you consider what happened," said a theatre spokesman.

Floyd Patterson stood on his feet for one minute and 56 seconds before Sonny Liston decked him for the full count. Patterson will be paid an estimated $1,500,000 for his brief title defence.

On an elapsed time basis, Patterson thus will receive $12,931 for each second he was on his feet.

Liston will receive an estimated $400,000 for lifting the crown or $3,448 a second.

★ ★ ★

Thirty minutes after the fight Patterson still couldn't tell what happened—what punch Sonny Liston threw that got him.

"Liston's punches are something you can't see coming," he said. "I was hit by a good punch and it had some kind of effect. Liston is in a better position to know than I am."

Dan Florio, Patterson's chief trainer, explained the ending at 2:06 of the first round this way:

"A left hook set him up, but what did it was a chopping right behind the ear"

"He said he hit me with three lefts," said Patterson in reference to Liston. "He must be right," added the dreamy eyed former champion.

★ ★ ★

In Liston's dressing room, the new champion said:

"I hit him an earlier right uppercut which left his foot off the floor. But, in the end, it was a left hook that started him going and a left hook that finished him.

"I knew I had him when he failed to clinch after a good left hook to the head. He had been clinching before and this time, when the referee said to break, he didn't."

'REACHED MY GOAL'

SONNY'S NEXT FIGHT: TO ESTABLISH HIMSELF

From Cotton Patch to Heavyweight Throne

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Sonny Liston is a man with two records—one inside the ring and the other outside it.

The best thing that could have happened to him was to win the world's heavyweight boxing championship, a mantle he insists he will wear with dignity.

It is difficult to associate dignity with this huge man with the complex interchangeable personality.

Many will berate him as the hoodlum heavyweight, branding him with his two jail terms and 19 arrests. Others will say he has paid his debt to society and let him look ahead to the future, walk among men with his head high.

"I have reached my goal as heavyweight champion," says Liston, who came from a broken family of 25 children on an impoverished cotton patch.

"When you reach your goal you have to be proud and dignified. You represent something and you have a responsibility to live up to it.

"There was a time I was convinced I would never get out of the jungle I once lived in. In those days I didn't care what I did and had little regard for the feelings of others because I thought everybody was against me. I realize now that a man can't be successful or happy with that attitude.

"As champion I can do something good for somebody else. As champion I have the opportunity to do things that would not be possible otherwise. I want to prove to people who have proved they trust me that I appreciate their concern."

He seems to realize that maybe his biggest fight now is establishing himself in the eyes of many outside it.

"I intend to model myself after Joe Louis who I think was the greatest champion of all and my idol. He did everything I want to do. I intend to follow the example he set and would like to go down in history as a great champion, too.

"I have accepted without whimpering all the punishment dealt to me for the mistakes I made voluntarily when I was growing up. The others were the result of bad advice from insincere associates, and I find it hard to believe that I was such an easy sucker for their schemes. . . .

"Ever since I was born I've been fighting to stay alive, to make a place for myself and live a reasonably normal life. I've never been able to do it. I am probably closer to it now than I have ever been."

Liston's sincerity comes largely from his belief that, at last, he has surrounded himself with people who are definitely for him.

The group includes his wife, Geraldine, who was with him all during training for the Patterson fight; his dedicated trainer, Willie Reddish; his smart little adviser, Jack Nilon, a close friend and successful Philadelphia businessman, and Rev. Edward Murphy, a Denver priest.

"I see a lot of good in Sonny," says Father Murphy. "What he needs more than anything else is good direction. I try to give it to him. When boxing is on his mind, he's a dedicated man."

LOOKS AT SPORTS

Billy Skuse doesn't dislike racing stewards necessarily. It's just that being a jockey, a summons to appear before them is like an invitation to step into St. Peter's office at the pearly gates. You hope for the best and expect the worst.

Minutes before the third race at Sandown Monday, Skuse was spotted walking quietly among the peasants. Billy Bell, the B.C. Racing Commission steward, came up to him, shook hands and said, "Let's go up on the roof." (Under the rules of racing, the stewards are always located on top of the grandstand, in keeping with their lofty place among the turf set.)

BILLY SKUSE

Skuse, who is 23 and baby-faced, looked at Bell and smiled. "Alright," he said, with the apparent conviction that the worse that could happen to him would be for the august officials to heave him off.

Three weeks ago (Sept. 6) he had answered a summons to join the stewards for tea, crumpets and conversation at Narragansett in New England.

They were brief. Take a holiday, they said. The rest of the meeting. What led to their invitation was Mr. Skuse's conduct on the track. Dismounting after winning, Skuse had heard a fellow rider lodge a foul claim against him.

Skuse is no Sonny Liston. But he had acted like him. He reached over and tried to rearrange the facial features of one, Dick Winant. Right in front of thousands of spectators.

"Looking back on it," said Skuse, "I realize how ridiculous I was. It wasn't just Winant. A lot of small things had been building up and when Winant cried foul, I just exploded."

Besides being unemployed until Oct. 1, Skuse had to forego a day planned for him at Exhibition Park on Sept. 7.

"I felt sorry about that," he said. "So did my dad. First thing he said was 'Why didn't you wait one more day before blowing your cork?' "

'Home's Where the Horses Are . . .'

Billy Skuse hasn't changed much since July 9, 1956, at Lansdowne when he rode his first winner, Railworker. But his life has. In the six-year span between 1956 and 1961, he rode 5,128 more winners who accounted for purses of more than $2,000,000.

Along the way he picked up a wife ("She's from Dallas but I met her in California"), a son, nearing two; two poodles and a 10x50 trailer.

Where's home?

"Where the horses are," he said. "New England in the summer, New Orleans in the winter, Maryland in the spring."

In 1959 Billy was fifth leading rider in America . . . 231 wins in 1,361 rides. An amazing 17 per cent. That year the horses he directed pulled down $595,350 for their owners.

How does it feel to be up with the high society of gentlemen equestrians? To stand a step behind the Shoemakers, the Yeazas and the Valenzuelas?

"It feels good," he said. "Just to talk to them is something."

You mean Willie Hartack is a conversational buddy?

"Not much of one," Skuse said. That hardly makes him exclusive. Hartack feels that "indispensable" and "infallible" didn't belong in the dictionary until he took up horseracking.

Just Came to Say Hello to Pals

"Against a fellow like Hartack," said Skuse, "there's Eddie Arcaro. He's as much at home with the millionaires he rode for as he is talking to grooms down the backside" (in stable row).

Skuse thought a moment. "That's the test of a man, isn't it? I mean, being important like Arcaro and yet never being so important that you can't talk easily and freely with even the lowest paid in our business."

He was asked, then, by a track official if he would stand in the winner's circle while announcer Jack Short introduced him . . . sort of the local boy makes good and comes home.

"I just came to say hello to some of my friends," Skuse said. "Do I have to?"

"No, you don't have to," said the official.

Skuse was silent. Then . . . "I'm sorry I asked that. It's just that being set down and all, I'm not a very good example and . . ."

"Not at all," said the official. "They (the crowd) would like to see you."

They went down to the track and Short said: "This is Billy Skuse," and related his record briefly and the applause was loud and warm.

When it finished, Skuse stepped into the hut more because he was embarrassed than to escape the afternoon sun.

Harry Filion, the photographer, broke the awkward silence.

"I saw you win on a horse at Santa Anita, Bill, by the greatest margin I've ever seen at any race track. Something like 28 lengths."

Skuse grinned. "Horse named Snow War."

"That's right," said Filion. "And when you hit the finish line you were giving it everything, even though the rest of the field was struggling far back at the 16th pole."

"It was dark and raining that day," Skuse recalled. "I had the feeling that there was a horse on my tail all the way. But every time I looked back the weather was so bad I couldn't tell for sure where the others were. So I didn't take any chances."

"You know," he said, "I think I ruined that horse."

Filion's eyebrows raised.

"I mean it," Skuse said. "He could win for $3,500—no more. But when the owner saw us win by 28 lengths he jumped Snow War up with $8,000 horses. I don't think Snow War ever did any good after that."

Dodgers Dragging But Yanks Are In

Colts Give Giants Helping Hand As Los Angeles Lead Cut to Two

By United Press International

The old champs got their knockout, too, with the time-tested one-two punch of Mantle and Ford.

And so today it's only a question of whether it'll be the Los Angeles Dodgers or San Francisco Giants in the opposite dugout when New York Yankees begin the defence of their world baseball championship.

The Yankees made it official Tuesday night when they clinched their second straight pennant under Ralph Houk and their 27th flag in all with an 8-3 victory over Washington Senators. It was the knockout blow as far as Minnesota Twins were concerned although the Cleveland Indians later added the coup de grace with a 5-1 triumph over the Twins.

Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, who are always ready for a party, were the fellows who flashed the signal to pop the champagne corks.

PERFECT NIGHT

Mantle enjoyed a perfect night at bat with four singles and a walk, driving in two runs and scoring two others, while Ford scattered 12 hits and struck out six in going the distance for his 17th win of the season. Bill Skowron also drove in two runs with a single and his 23rd homer and Tony Kubek had three hits in the Yankees' 16-hit attack.

The news of the Yankees' pennant-clinching victory had already been flashed on the scoreboard in Cleveland when former teammate Pedro Ramos completed his triumph over the Twins. Harmon Killebrew's 46th homer had given the Twins a 1-0 lead in the second inning but the Indians went ahead on Woodie Held's two-run second-inning homer and went on to tag 19-game winner Camilo Pascual with his 11th loss.

The National League race, meanwhile, is far from over—with the Giants making a late push and the Dodgers dragging their heels.

GIANTS TWO OUT

The Giants cut their first-place deficit to a mere two games Tuesday night when they beat St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2, and the Houston Colts topped the Dodgers, 3-2, in 10 innings. Dodgers' magic number remained at four with both they and the Giants having five games to play.

Jack Sanford pitched a seven-hitter to raise his record to 23-7 behind a nine-hit attack that included two hits each by Matty Alou, Willie Mays and Tom Haller. Bill White homered for the Cardinals.

Maury Wills stole two bases to raise his record total to 99, but Dick Farrell scrambled out of an assortment of tight spots to score his 10th win for the Colts. Ed Roebuck, who hadn't lost a game in two years and had a 10-0 record this season, suffered the defeat when Al Spangler homered in the top of the 10th.

Detroit Tigers beat Los Angeles Angels, 3-2, and Boston Red Sox defeated Chicago White Sox, 4-0, in other AL games. Cincinnati Reds shaded Pittsburgh, 2-1, and Milwaukee downed the New York Mets, 7-3, in remaining NL action.

THE HOCKEY SCENE

Chihawks Cutting Impressive Swath

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks, beaten in the Stanley Cup finals last spring, haven't lost a hockey game since.

The Hawks, third-place finishers in the regular National Hockey League schedule, racked up their fifth straight pre-season exhibition victory Tuesday night, defeating Cleveland Barons of the American League 4-2 at St. Thomas.

In other action Tuesday night, Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins whipped minor league teams by identical 6-2 scores.

Leafs rapped San Francisco Seals of the Western League at Chilliwack, B.C., and Bruins avenged Monday's 2-1 loss to Hull-Ottawa Canadiens by whipping the Eastern Professional League team at Brockville.

WIN OVER LEAFS

While the Hawks have played only two games against NHL opposition in their five-game steak, both of those games were wins over Leafs.

Chicago was without centre Stan Mikita who is nursing a sprained wrist and bruised elbow.

American League clubs were also busy Tuesday night.

Rochester Americans humbled the powerful Springfield Indians 8-3 at Bowmanville and Buffalo Bisons, using players from the new Syracuse Braves of the Eastern Professional League, whipped Hershey Bears 3-0.

Murray Oliver scored four goals for Boston while Andre Pronovost and Don McKenney added the others.

At Chilliwack, the defending Stanley Cup champion Leafs—who play in Victoria Friday night—got two goals from Dave Keon and singles from Bob Pulford, Billy Harris, Eddie Shack and Bob Nevin. Danny Belisle and Ed Panagabko connected for San Francisco.

Sandlot Gridder Dies of Injuries

RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — A youth who played football without a helmet or other protective gear died Monday of injuries suffered in a sandlot game Sunday.

Victor Stephens III, 20, of Winfield, N.J., who suffered a fractured skull in the game, lost consciousness afterwards and died of a cerebral hemorrhage about seven hours later in hospital, police said.

GOLF SCHOOL
By SAM SNEAD

For one reason or another, many beginners think that the driver should be brought back to a point, as illustrated, where it is parallel to the ground.

And it should—but it all depends on whether you're a pro or a once-a-week golfer, a young golfer or a middle-ager. Don't stick to that "parallel rule" just because it is a rule. Swing back as far as is comfortable and as far back as you can for good results.

Many short, controlled backswings are effective—just because the golfers are older or a little portly. But players with their short backswings still get as much distance from their tee shots as the rest of the pros.

Play within your capabilities. Resign yourself to being a little shorter off the tee, if necessary.

Edmonton Girl Named To Equestrian Team

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian team for the international horse show at Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 13-20 was announced following trials Tuesday at this town near Toronto.

Team members are Doug Cudney, 30, of Winona, Ont., Gail Ross, 20, of Edmonton, and Max Birdner, 34, Montreal. Cudney is team captain.

Cut Not Serious

NEW YORK (AP)—A track veterinarian says the hoof injury suffered by Ridan in the running of hte Discovery Handicap at Aqueduct Monday was not serious, but the three-year-old star is expected to skip the $100,000 Woodward Stakes Saturday.

Ridan, who suffered a two-inch cut over the left hind hoof, finished fifth in Monday's race.

Appeal Dropped As PCSL Takes Unwanted Pils

VANCOUVER — The magician's "now-you-see-it, now-you-don't" act has nothing on the comings and goings of Vancouver Pils.

Pils are present today.

The Pacific Coast Soccer League Tuesday night decided to accept Pils into the league and drop an appeal to the Canadian Soccer Football Association.

The league had previously agreed to appeal to the national body after the B.C. Soccer Commission ruled that the league must accept the Pils, who were brought up from the Mainland League following a disputed promotion-regulation series.

Following the meeting, Frank Bain, secretary of the B.C. Commission, said suspension of the league—imposed when it refused to accept Pils—now was lifted and league play would resume this weekend.

The league scheduled North Shore United against Vancouver Canadians Saturday, and Vancouver Columbus against Victoria Sunday.

Minor League Task Force Run by Seattle 'Invader'

By ARTHUR MAYSE

A workhorse vessel rigged to save lives, fight fires, conduct salvage operations, and lay undersea power lines churned through her paces off Swartz Bay Tuesday afternoon while her owner ran a critical check on her performance.

She's MV Coal Island, a 93-foot converted ammunition lighter, latest addition to the high-priced and ship-shape fleet commodored by Frederick E. Lewis of Coal Island and Seattle.

"CAPTAIN"

Mr. Lewis—he prefers to be addressed as captain—is a whitehaired, pugnacious American citizen who in 1938 acquired 341 rocky, timbered acres a-whoop-and-a-holler from Sidney, set his purchase up as "Coal Island Limited", and has transformed it into a pocket empire. It is complete with gravelled roads, floats, launching ramp, machine shop big enough to house a mainline locomotive, and spigots that gush salt water, pond water and spring water on demand.

All this, Capt. Lewis was inclined to brush aside when a Times crew ventured into his home bay, although he permitted an inspection of the worked-over Fairmile, Stranger II, which he skippers on pleasure cruises that reach north to Alaskan waters and south to the Gulf of Mexico.

His chief interest was his new ship, neat in white and dark-red hull paint, her flapping bow lip primly buttoned, and Coal Island Ltd. hands in industrial lifejackets busy giving her some final licks.

"Time we took them for a ride," Capt. Lewis said to his general manager, Richard Dixon, and led the way down to the Coal Island at a leg-stretching pace.

35 YEARS

On the way, he made it plain that he didn't want to be written about and didn't like personal questions.

Marine background? Extensive. Master's ticket for the past 35 years. Not a navy man, but helped the U.S. Navy during the First World War.

Age? The captain suggested 45 would do, making himself the youngest possessor of master mariner's papers on record (since he was 10).

Profession? Some of this and a little of that, offered with a Paul Jones scowl and the flat pronouncement, "I don't like writers!"

The Coal Island—registered tonnage, 59.83; beam, 18 feet; draft, nothing forward and five feet aft—then lowered her bow ramp, inhaled a couple of trucks for demonstration purposes and shoved off.

$150,000 VALUE

Built in North Vancouver during the last war and facelifted by Star Shipyards of New Westminster, the one-time lighter is valued at something over $150,000. She is diesel powered by a pair of 250-hp engines, and is capable of 10 to 11 knots with remarkably little vibration.

Since she will be ferrying communications crews among the islands, she has been passed by department of transport as a passenger-carrying vessel, hence her safety gear is elaborate and complete.

In addition to paying her way in commercial operation, the ship will aid Air Sea Search and Rescue on call. As a trouble-shooter, she's superbly equipped. A fire-fighting "monitor" mounted forward allows her to throw a long-range jet into shore fires. She can put in practically anywhere, and besides the usual radio equipment, carries a variety of walky-talkies. Her carrying capacity is rated at 80 tons.

LATEST ADDITION to private Coal Island fleet is 93-foot 'work horse.'

MONTE ROBERTS

I have often been accused (justifiably) of name-dropping, but if I dropped the name G. R. K. Lynch, LL.B, CLU, right here and now, what would the average reaction of the average constituent be?

The average constituent would say, "Who's he?"

But if I dropped the name "Digby" Lynch, I suspect a vast majority of constituents who have served navy, army, or air force time in the Halifax area would say: "Well, well, well, Oh, ho. Old Digby, eh? What has he been up to now?"

* * *

What Digby has been up to (he got his nickname when he was but a Digby chick at Royal Roads) is visiting all around and about Canada, with his 19-year-old son, Tom.

This journey from there to here eventually wound up here, and I caught up with Digby & son en route.

Thus I am able to name-drop Digby Lynch, and to make a report to all those who knew him when:

Digby is still the old master reminiscencer.

(If you're going to coin a word, boy, don't be afraid of inflation.)

Digby handles an anecdote with the deliberate foresight of an artificer setting a time bomb.

He goes for what might be called the crashing crescendo.

As just one example—pared down to bare bones—his story of the RCN junior officer who, having missed his transportation back to a ship which was due to sail at dawn, pirated a horse from a farmer's field and rode it, not only onto the jetty, but across the brow onto the quarterdeck of his ship.

Ordering the quartermaster to provide suitable forage, such as a bale of hay or two, Digby's naval friend weaved his way to bed, and all was well until time came for the ship to slip.

This was when the executive officer was compelled (regretfully) to report to the captain that a horse was on the quarterdeck, and what should be done about it?

Digby leaves you with this crescendo note: the horse had been ridden aboard at high tide, when deck and jetty were level. It was now low tide, so . . . ?

Digby has a million of 'em. And I think his son, Tom, will soon have a like number. But Tom's forte seems more diminuendo than crescendo.

When I apologized for calling him Don, instead of Tom, he said it happened all the time.

"There was this girl I had the big date with the other night, she called me Don all night, well I didn't really have a big date, we were at a big party, well, it wasn't such a big party, really, it was only a small party, but she kept calling me Don, oh, I remember now, we didn't ever get to the small party because when I called her on the telephone for a date she thought I was Don, not Tom . . . that's what I meant to tell you about."

Drydock Survey For Icebreaker

The icebreaker CCGS Camsell entered government graving dock, Esquimalt, this morning for survey after her 10,000-mile, three-month tour of duty in the Arctic, which ended last week.

During hydrographic survey work, the Camsell "found" an unchartered rock the hard way—by brushing it with her hull.

Principal Thanks 'Old Boys' Of Upper Canada

The principal of Upper Canada College in Toronto is on a western tour thanking "old boys" for their contributions to a $3,500,000 school building replacement program.

Dr. C. W. Sowby is visiting Vancouver and Victoria this week before returning east.

In an interview Tuesday night he said matriculation standings at the private school run between 90 and 100 per cent. Upper Canada graduates had excelled at university taking 477 scholarships and fellowships in the last seven years.

Graduates had become members of parliament in Canada and Britain, Supreme Court judges in Canada and the United States and held leading positions in external and internal political affairs and community affairs.

It was not a snob school. Parents often had to make sacrifices for the boys to attend the school which accepted only those students who were sure of going to univer sity.

Beer, Wine Ads On TV, Radio Sought by Group

A plea for beer and wine advertising on television and radio was made to the B.C. cabinet Tuesday.

The submission came from the B.C. Association of Broadcasters.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the request will be studied, but gave no hint of the government's opinion.

However, any change in the present regulations would require new legislation, he said.

All liquor advertising on radio and TV is banned in B.C.

Federal regulations of the Board of Broadcast Governors prohibit advertising of spirits, but leave it up to provincial governments to decide about beer and wine.

At present a U.S. television station in Bellingham which is widely received in B.C. carries advertisements for brewery companies.

Newsstand Operator Fined For Selling Obscene Book

'Dreary Concoction of Sex' Found in 'Virgins No More'

A downtown newsstand operator was found guilty in city police court today of circulating obscene literature.

John Dirom, proprietor of Horseshoe News Ltd., Government Street, was charged with selling Virgins No More, a pocket book bearing the author's name Orre Hitt.

Magistrate William Ostler found him guilty on a count of circulating obscene literature, but dismissed another count of having obscene literature in his possession for circulation, as there was only the one copy involved.

$20 FINE

Mr. Dirom was fined $20.

Magistrate Ostler said he found the book had the four qualities necessary for conviction as stipulated in a Supreme Court judgment on "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

These prerequisites were that the book have as its dominant characteristic, the undue exploitation of sex.

In his judgment the magistrate said he was convinced Virgins No More was "part of that pulp rubbish which Parliament sought to suppress" by Section 158 of the Criminal Code.

"The book is a dreary concoction of sex with a dash of violence and the addition of a slight plot," Mr. Ostler said.

"FOR DIRT'S SAKE"

He held the object of the author was not to relate the episodes as required by the internal necessities of the book, but to string together sexual episodes as "dirt for dirt's sake."

The magistrate said he did not feel the book would have any "deleterious effect" on "the mature mind and discriminating reader," as these people would not be able to stay with the book.

"Its greatest offence to them would be its dullness and coarseness," he said.

He said he had been unable to read the book in question "without some embarrassment, not for what it contains, but for what it lacks."

"The theme of sex is so repetitious that reading the book is a depressing chore," he said. "It has not even the merit of being well-written."

Magistrate Ostler said he had great respect for the expert witness for the defence, Times publisher Stuart Keate, who had testified in his opinion the book was "immoral, but not obscene or pornographic."

However, Mr. Keate's definition of "obscene" as a "tendency to deprave or corrupt," was not that of the section of the Criminal Code under question.

His expert testimony could apply only to the literary merits of the work, and Mr. Keate had declared it had none.

THEME ESTABLISHED

Mr. Ostler declared the theme of the book was established by its cover which contained "colored photographs of two young ladies in various stages of undress" and bore the sentence:

"One excited him by her kitten's caresses; the other embraced him like a wildcat."

Mr. Ostler said during the trial some question had arisen that a decision that Mr. Dirom was guilty would amount to censorship, which was to be avoided.

UP TO PARLIAMENT

He said that if this was the case, "the remedy lies with Parliament, not the courts."

Mr. Dirom stated in court today he had been unaware of the nature of the book, and had not read it himself.

He said Lovick's News Agency had placed the book on display as was usual without his checking it.

"Now we go over everything very carefully, though," he said.

Mr. Dirom also said he was "sure" he would always have prevented such a book being sold to a juvenile.

Man Convicted Of Threatening Woman Witness

Cowardly Conduct Says Magistrate

A man was found guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday of obstructing justice in attempting to "dissuade by threat" a witness from giving evidence.

He was remanded for sentence to Thursday.

Douglas White, 31, of 1022 Princess, was accused of threatening Mrs. Dorothy Eng, 3267 Whitlow, crown witness in a case of forgery scheduled for the Assizes Oct. 1.

Court was told Mr. White phoned Mrs. Eng at her store, Oakcrest Foods Ltd., 3475 Quadra, telling her she had made a mistake in identifying Keith Starling as the man who uttered a forged cheque there in May.

White contended the real culprit was "doing time" at present for another offence.

"MISTAKE"

Mrs. Eng recounted that Mr. White had said "the boys over there say you've made a mistake. He then asked about her three boys, aged 10, 12 and 14.

Then he told her "the boys on the other side of the river will know what to do," Mrs. Eng said.

Mr. White was alleged to have threatened to drag Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eng and "the store" through the mud.

Magistrate William Ostler in finding Mr. White guilty, said he had shown "cowardly and contemptible conduct."

Renovations Under Study At Police HQ

But New Building Needed—Hamilton

City police commission will plan major interior renovations of the police station next year if council refuses a fourth time to provide a new building.

This was the prediction expressed today by Commissioner William Hamilton following a statement by Ald. Michael Griffin that the station is in disgraceful disrepair.

"The building is obsolete and we need a new one," Mr. Hamilton said. "We've asked council for three years running to provide new quarters and each time we have been refused.

"We are starting a special planning study to rearrange the interior layout next year if we can't get a new building."

Mr. Hamilton said facilities for the public "are very poor" in the building and space is needed for lawyers to interview their clients.

City Hall officials pointed out that the present station—valued at about $250,000—is the "most permanent" of all the civic buildings because it is structurally sound.

They agreed that the interior layout may not make efficient use of the building and that sufficient maintenance has not been carried out.

Planning for a high-rise apartment block in the Rockland area—which created a serious controversy in council last year—is still proceeding sporadically.

City planner Roderick Clack today said the Blake Construction Company is continuing structural planning although no work has been undertaken.

The deal — in which city council sold the high rise site to E. A. Blake of Vancouver for some $30,000 despite claims it was worth more than $100,000—raised a storm of protest last year.

At the time, Mr. Blake said construction of the 12-storey building near the city's water tower would be undertaken this year.

DROVE ELECTRIC CAR

Oldest Resident Of Empress Dies

Mrs. Florence French, oldest and longest resident at the Empress Hotel, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday, aged 91.

The body was to be cremated by her own wish at Royal Oak this afternoon.

Tall and gracious, Mrs. French had lived 42 years at the Empress and was an established favorite with members of the staff.

"She was always kind and considerate," assistant manager Charles Moore said. "I had many chats with her and she always seemed alert and abreast of the times. It was a pleasure to talk to her."

ELECTRIC BROUGHAM

In spite of a quiet, retiring disposition, Mrs. French became a familiar figure in Victoria more than some 20 years ago when she drove around the streets in an electric brougham which had a maximum speed of six miles an hour.

Mrs. French sold the brougham to a collector of antiques several years ago.

She was the widow of Cecil French, big game hunter, soldier, veterarinian and manufacturer, who died here on Sept. 7, 1951. He and his wife lived at the Empress Hotel from the time they came to Victoria in 1920.

Mr. French founded an animal medicine firm at Courtney and Gordon Streets in the 1920s and raised silkworms as a hobby.

Their son, the late Major C. E. French, was commanding officer of the Second (Res.) Armored Division Ordnance Field Park from 1942 to 1944 and wartime president of the Toronto Flying Club.

Their nephew, Edmund Howard Smith, flew here from his home in Montreal Tuesday and is staying at the Empress Hotel.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Who Started This Mess?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A no-good tramp is bothering my husband. She is married (this is her fourth husband) and has children ranging from 4 to 19 years old. She has been calling him at home until I thought I would go out of my mind. She stopped calling him at home when I threatened to tell her husband. But now she calls him at work. If her husband knew about it he would bust her head open. I would tell him but I am afraid he would harm my husband. Should I tell her husband and let my own husband take his chances? I don't know how much more of this I can stand.

MOTHER OF FOUR.

DEAR MOTHER: You seem ready to do a lot of "talking" and "head busting"—but all with the wrong people. Why don't you start with your husband? No man needs to be "bothered" if he doesn't want to be.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Our 15-year-old boy is our problem. He won't do a thing unless he is paid for it. He worked last summer at a garage and we heard all over town what a good worker he was, but if we try to get him to mow the lawn or clean the basement or even his own room he will sneak out of the house before we can catch him. He is too big to spank and too young to throw out of the house bag and baggage (which is what his father thinks will cure him).

Should we just put up with this kind of behavior until he is 18 and then let the army train him?

CORNERED.

DEAR CORNERED: Your son needs some affection and real understanding. Do you "order" him to do things, or do you ask him properly? I have yet to meet the normal 15-year-old boy who wouldn't respond to a little praise, a lot of love and a modest incentive.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a very wonderful person, but she isn't very bright. She is an attractive 48-year-old widow who has been going with the same man for three years. He is about 55. His first wife died and he remarried. His second wife left him. He has told everybody in town that he will never marry again. Mother wants desperately to marry him. He has even said in my mother's presence that he will never marry again, but she thinks he is kidding her. How does a daughter tell her mother to quit wasting her time?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: A daughter can't very well talk to her mother like a "Dutch Uncle." Unless your mother gets wise herself, I doubt if anyone can convince her that this man is not marriage material. Then, too, you never know—men who have said, "I'll never . . ." are saying "I do" every day.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Have a Sewing Problem? Find Answers Herewith

By PENNY SAVER

If you are not able to get away to one of the evening sewing classes that are getting underway this month, you might benefit from one or many of the "how to sew" booklets Penny has seen. Booklets are 29 cents and instructions are so explicit that even Penny might tackle a little tailoring.

Each booklet deals with one specific sewing problem. "How to make slip covers," "How to mend and refit," and "Things for little girls to sew" are a few of the titles that catch the eye.

Pages are also filled with diagrams for the aid of those who find written instructions difficult to decipher.

An indispensable tool for your refitting is a seam ripper. It consists of a small pointed blade on the end of a plastic handle. Dull side of the blade slides along the material leaving the sharp edge to pick, loosen and cut stitches quickly, safely and easily. This handy tool is also a buttonhole cutter and costs 59 cents.

Once buttonholes are cut, next instrument to have handy is a bound buttonhole maker. This gadget is so simple you would have to see it to believe it. Price of one dollar includes 69 patterns for various size buttonholes. It can be used for lightweight materials or heavy woolens. In a matter of minutes you can make professional looking bound buttonholes and all uniform in size.

After you have mastered the elementary tasks in sewing you may be interested in creating decorative patterns on aprons, children's dresses and curtains. To make uniform scallops use a special ruler which can also double as a button spacer. It looks exactly like a plastic protractor used in geometry classes so watch that it doesn't disappear into a schoolbag.

If your dressmaking isn't up to par phone Penny at 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

Diet Deficiency May Cause Nails to Break

Lowman

Many women write to ask about fingernails that break off, split, or both.

There is some indication that this condition may be due to deficiencies in the diet; for instance, too little high-grade protein. If you have this condition, be sure that your menus provide you with enough protein and a good vitamin intake.

Sometimes nails have been subjected to very strong soaps and detergents and cleansing agents. Always wear rubber gloves when your hands will be in contact with such items. These gloves are no longer clumsy, but lightweight and comfortable.

A friend of mine discovered that she broke her nails when she pulled up her girdle on a hot day, especially after she had been swimming, and her nails were softened and weakened by the water.

It may be that your nails break because you do not file them correctly. They should be rounded at the corners to form an oval. If they are shaped too sharply or, rather, too steeply at the corners, it weakens the whole structure. Try this to see if it solves your problem.

So, remember that your nails are a living part of you and are, therefore, affected by your nutrition. It is also a good idea to do without nail polish for a little while if you have this difficulty.

If you have only one or two broken nails, you can glue on false fingernails for special occasions. Usually it is best to keep your longer nails the length you wish all your nails to be, and then wait for the shorter ones to grow out to that length. It is discouraging to have them all filed back to the shorter length.

Try to think of any habits you have or anything you do which may weaken your nails and finally cause them to break or split, such as pulling up your girdle (maybe you should lose a few pounds), or picking at the cuticle around your fingernails. Pounding a typewriter doesn't help unless you are an expert or use the little rubber tabs on the keys.

If you would like to have my exercises for the hands, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 12. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

CALIFORNIAN

Comes North For Beauty And Peace

By PAT DUFOUR

Just as the swallows in her native California make yearly migrations so does Mrs. Marguerite Plummer Smith. In her case, the direction is north to Victoria—and she's been doing this since 1947.

For Mrs. Smith, Victoria's attractions lie in the beautiful scenery and the moderate pace of life enjoyed here.

"I never get tired of seeing the beauty. I reckon the sight of a rainbow or full harvest moon is just the sort of build-up you need for winter months ahead."

"In Los Angeles where I live, everybody's kind of money crazy. Emphasis is on the fast buck and this doesn't lead to gracious living."

IN HER CAR

For the first seven years Mrs. Smith drove her large car "every turn of the wheel" to Victoria but for the last two years she's shipped her car to Seattle and brought it over from there.

What makes her feat so unusual is that Mrs. Smith has been severely handicapped from birth. Yet, she drives without any special gadgets on her car and, in general, has led a life that would give most of us nervous exhaustion.

For 30 years Mrs. Smith was a teacher in Los Angeles, 20 of these being spent in junior high and 10, senior. She retired in 1957.

She holds a master's degree in history and explains her choice of subject this way: "My father, who was principal of an elementary school, wanted me to take it in education, I thought that a kind of namby, pamby thing. I wanted an honest-to-goodness masters."

Even when she was qualified it was no easy matter to break into the teaching profession.

She quotes a top medical official of the Californian school board to whom she had to apply as saying: "I remember a crippled teacher I had in Grade V. She was a cross old biddy and I don't want to be responsible for introducing more like her into our system."

It was only the "plug" of his sympathetic secretary and the weight of Mrs. Smith's qualifications—and her determination—that brought him to reconsider his original verdict.

Even so, she was left to cool her heels for another year before she was given her first class.

HER 'CHILDREN'

All of her teaching life was spent in the depressed area of Los Angeles where 39 different nationalities made up her class registers. Pictures of her "children" which she's quick to show include many from the Chinese, Mexican and Japanese quarters.

She considers her so-called handicap a great asset in helping to mould the characters and lives of her pupils.

"So many of them had social, moral or financial handicaps that were every bit as real as mine."

She classes as irrelevant the cry, "Let's get back to the three Rs."

Says Mrs. Smith, "We never got away from teaching them. But what with fire drill, air raid practice and other interruptions, a teacher's time with her students was cut to the bone."

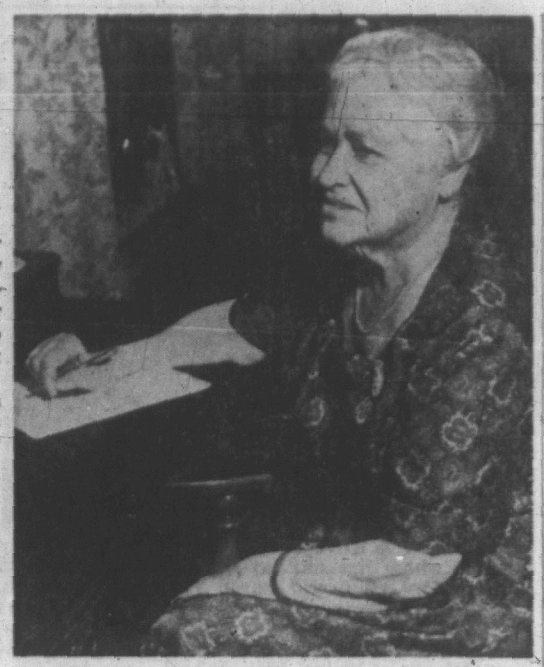
Mrs. Smith's record seems to prove otherwise for, even in retirement, her influence on ex-students is so great that they beat a persistent path to her door.

Part of her summer shopping in Victoria always includes Christmas presents for the 40-odd ex-students and their children who consider a Christmas party in her 10-room house a "must" on their holiday calendar.

And, to this day, she still helps with their problems, whether it's how to finance a new business or how to move a family of three children from a stuffy apartment into a home with green grass around it.

To Mrs. Smith, none of these calls are extreme.

"After all," she amplifies, "friendship is a two-way street, you have to give as well as take."



Although days of marking school books are behind her, Mrs. Smith still courts "writer's cramp" with many letters that keep her in touch with old students.

ALL RIDES 10 CENTS AT KINSMEN FAIR

'Bargain Day' for Children

Special prices for children were to be featured to 6 p.m. today as Kinsmen Clubs' first Fall Fair reached the mid-point in its week-long program at Esquimalt Sports Arena.

Today also marks completion of the first section of livestock competition, with the second show getting under way Thursday—Victoria Day at the fair.

For the kiddies, all rides were 10 cents today, and youngsters under 12 were admitted free between noon and 6.

CARDS NEEDED

Children over 12 could get in for 25 cents by showing student cards.

Results of dairy cattle judging—Holsteins and Ayrshires Tuesday, Jerseys today—were to be known at the parade of champions in the canvas-topped show ring at 6:45 tonight.

One animal is bound to be a 3,000-pound giant Holstein from Jager Farm, Arrowsmith Inspiration Jewel, unbeaten in competition on Vancouver Island this year.

SIX FEET HIGH

The mighty animal stands nearly six feet high at the hump and should be an inspiration to all other bulls.

As with every other afternoon and evening, there will be stage shows by accordion artist Dick Contino—a new repertoire at each show—and mad violinist Baron Buika, plus a high fashion show complete with runway in the fashion-dining marquee.

There are nightly draws for weekly pass and program numbers, the prizes ranging from bicycles to portable hair drier. On Saturday, the grand prize drawing is for a 1963 car.

FIREWORKS

Horticultural judging is Thursday, when the fair is dedicated to Victoria's 100th anniversary.

A fireworks display commemorating the centenary and Esquimalt's 50th birthday will take place at 9:30 immediately after the nightly pass draw, at the rear of the curling rink.

Latin America was the world's only major region to have a population gain of more than 100 per cent in the 40 years to 1960.

Public Opinion Polls Called 'Disreputable'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Professor Joseph Tussman of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., said Tuesday he would like to see a law putting a curb on public opinion polls and their publication.

He told a symposium at the University of British Columbia that public opinion polls are "a disreputable assessment of what people who aren't thinking are said to be thinking."

The political philosopher added: "It is a living scandal to confuse these poll results as the will of the people or the voice of the people or to pay any real attention to them."

"I'd like to see a law curbing opinion polls and their publication."

Speaking of democracy Prof. Tussman defended Fidel Castro for not holding an election when he took over in Cuba.

"Castro has been widely criticized in the U.S., for this," the professor said, "but I think he was on firm ground. Simply marking an 'X' for Castro or against Castro wouldn't have meant anything. A country must have a democratic state of mind built up before a democratic election means anything at all."

ATOM POWER PLANT OPENED IN ONTARIO

ROLPHTON, Ont. (CP)—A milestone in Canadian industrial development was marked here Tuesday.

Canada's first nuclear electric station was officially opened at a ceremony placing this country among the world's leaders in harnessing the atom for peaceful purposes.

Veterans Affairs Minister Churchill, minister responsible for federal government research, declared the experimental station open by turning over a master control key to Ross Strike, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

THREE OF A KIND are the Tanner sisters whose fine musical gifts are matched by beauty and charm. They will appear together to present the opening recital for Victoria Musical Art Society next Wednesday at 8:30 at Oak Bay Junior High School. Move Toward Settlement In Steel Workers' Strike

Signs of settlement in a construction steel workers' strike affecting Vancouver Island and mainland building projects were seen today by the president of the striking union.

Fernand Whitmore, president of Local 1 of Canadian Iron Workers' Union, said in Vancouver, a number of contractors had asked for talks to reconcile the situation, and one had asked to sign a settlement.

"The trend is toward it," he said.

The union's business agent Thomas McGrath said Tuesday the contractor at which the strike is aimed, Western Reinforcing Steel Ltd., had tried unsuccessfully to use strikebreakers in attempt to "smash the union."

15 PROJECTS

He sai dthere is a legal strike against the firm at 15 projects including the $40,000,000 addition to Harmac pulp mill and a $24,000,000 expansion of a Port Alberni paper mill.

Both are operations of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

Mr. McGrath denied emphatically a statement by a rival union spokesman Monday that the Harmac work stoppage was a wildcat strike and that the local union was "renegade."

'RECOGNIZED'

"We are recognized by the labor department," Mr. McGrath said, quoting from a letter reporting the result of a government-supervised strike vote.

He said the strike was called to protest proposed contract settlement over a three-year period.

"We have a signed agreement with C and B Reinforcing and are certified with six other firms," the agent said.

But the iron workers' local wants the same terms offered this year to carpenters—12 cents now and 10 cents an hour next year.

Mr. Whitmore said the strike has tied up Vancouver projects, but some workmen obeyed the picket line at Harmac while others did not.

NOTICE NEEDED

Vancouver Island Building Trades Council advised its affiliates to go to work, following a B.C. Federation of Labor rule that there must be 24 hours strike notice and approval of other union executives.

"We've never been so legal," Mr. McGrath countered. "As long as we are Canadian Iron Workers' Union we'll never be right with the internationals (unions)," he said.

NOTIFIED

The union president said the B.C. Federation of Labor and Vancouver Trades and Labor Council were notified of the strike along with the international unions.

He noted that their affiliates obeyed mystery picket lines at mainland construction jobs, "and I'm sure they didn't give 24 hours' notice."

Pat Patterson, president of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union, said Mr. McGrath was expelled from that organization two years ago.

IRONED OUT

He called the strike action "irresponsible," and said the difficulty would be ironed out today.

Mr. Patterson also said the 35-member Canadian Iron Workers' Union had dual membership with his union.

"We're no 35-member union," replied Mr. McGrath, pointing out there were six pickets on a single job Monday, but he would not disclose the actual membership.

"We admit there are men in there with dual cards," he said.

The strike is in effect he said at a variety of construction jobs in Greater Vancouver, from highway overpasses to housing development, federal building, supermarket and a church, and at jobs in Revelstoke and Ashcroft.

Judge Upholds Hit-Run Conviction

An appeal against a hit-and-run conviction was dismissed in Victoria County Court Tuesday afternoon by Judge J. B. Clearihue.

The judge upheld a $150 fine imposed on Clarence Arthur Billett, 1544 Burton.

Mr. Billett maintained that neither he nor his car were at the scene of an accident last June 11.

Two witnesses identified his car after they gave police the licence number. Billett claimed the witnesses could not have seen the licence on his car, had he been there, as he had a 450-gallon drum in the trunk and the lid was raised.

Mr. Billett said he had lost one of his licence plates and this could have been attached to a car similar to his.

H. L. Sangster Estate Valued at $583,510

Harold Langtry Sangster, owner of the old Royal Blue Lines bus company, left estate to the value of $583,510, it was disclosed at Victoria courthouse.

Mr. Sangster, who died last Christmas Day, left about $397,000 to his wife, Mrs. Phyllis Mary Sangster. The remainder was divided among a number of bequests.

His brother, Irving Musgrave Sangster, receives $26,675; his sister, Edna Olive Adams, $16,000; his nieces, Patricia McMullen, $10,700, and June Irene Evans, $10,700.

Russian Orchestra Pleases Stravinsky

MOSCOW (AP) — Eighty-year-old Igor Stravinsky, an American citizen, rehearsed the Soviet State Symphony Orchestra today and declared himself highly pleased.

"In 40 years of conducting he has never found an orchestra so pliable," a Stravinsky aide told reporters. "Both he and Robert Craft says the orchestra is amazingly better than they expected."

Stravinsky's modernistic music was long banned here as decadent. The aide said the composer and Craft feared the orchestra would have considerable difficulty playing it.

Craft is Stravinsky's assistant and does much of the rehearsing, saving the old man's strength for concerts.

The first concert is Wednesday night in the large hall of the Moscow Conservatory.

Stravinsky, who was born in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, had not seen his native land since 1914. He became a U.S. citizen in 1945. He arrived in Moscow last weekend at the invitation of the Soviet Composers' Union.

Free Tickets Left For Symphony Show

Free admission tickets are still available for either Sunday or Monday performances of Victoria Symphony Orchestra's "Overture" concerts next weekend.

Tickets may be picked up at the Symphony box office at Eaton's. Concerts are at the Royal Theatre and start at 3 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Hans Gruber will conduct a program of favorite overtures and operatic preludes, including "Zampa," "Meistersingers," "La Traviata," and Tschaikowsky's "1812 Overture."

SOLUTION FRIDAY

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Richard Potteiger, age nine, of Pittsford, N.Y., for his question:

What Are Lichens?

Somebody has been finger painting on the side of a big lumpy rock. No, those blotches of pearly grey and rosy pink are lichens. Somebody has hidden a baby moss plant under the fallen leaves. No, that tangled wad of pale green threads is also a lichen. That poor old tree trunk is breaking out in colored blisters. No, those spreading rashes are also lichens.

The lichen is a small and shy member of the plant family. It never grows showy green leaves or eye-catching flowers. We might hike through the woods all day without noticing a single lichen. But we would pass thousands of them on tree trunks and fallen logs, on the ground under fallen leaves and hidden among the gentle mosses.

We know that there are 15,000 different lichens and there may be more, just waiting to be discovered. They come in many shapes and many colors. Some look like flat roses painted on rocky boulders. Others look like miniature sponges wads of cotton or scraps of crinkled paper. Some of them are deep purple, deep blue or black. But most lichens are dainty blends of pale pastel tones of greens and greys, blues and yellows, creams and browns.

The shy little lichens do not look important. But actually they rate among the most important plants on the earth. They grow where no other plants can grow, high on the mountain slopes, under the wintery snow and even in frozen polar regions. When the sea leves a new patch of land high and dry, the lichens are the first plants to grow there. And as they live and die they form rich soil for larger plants to feed upon.

Partnership of Two Plants

Each lichen is actually a partnership between two different plants. One partner is a fungus, a small cousin of the mushroom. The other is an alga, a land-dwelling cousin of the sea weeds. The fungus is a spongy tangle of pale threads. Like the mushroom, it has no green chlorophyll and so it cannot make its own food from air and water as other plants do. But it can trap and hold pockets of dewy moisture among its spongy threads.

The alga has chlorophyll and it can make plant food from air and water. But it needs lots of water to survive on the dry land. And the fungus has many pockets full of water. The two little plants live in a give-and-take partnership. The fungus provides the extra water for the alga and the alga makes enough plant food for both partners.

This give-and-take is called symbiosis and each lichen hands on the family partnership to its children. When the time comes, tiny grains appear on the parent lichen. Each is a small wad made from a few cells of the alga wrapped in a few spongy threads of the fungus. The wind blows away the little granue and when it settles down it starts a new lichen.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Adrienne Imbrogno, age 13, of Philadelphia, Penn., for her question:

What is nuclear physics?

The word physics is coined from a Greek word meaning nature. We use it to mean the science or study of natural objects. This, of course, is a wide subject—much too wide for any one person to tackle in detail. So the experts specialize in various branches of physics.

Nuclear physics is a fairly new branch of science. It deals with the nucleus or core of the tiny atom. A nuclear physicist must be trained in math, chemistry and many other branches of science. But his main object is probing the atomic nucleus and taming its mighty energy.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

ROME—I packed away my fez in Italy but wished I hadn't when I saw George Jessel parading down in the Excelsior lobby—for he wore a khaki officer's uniform . . . bare knees . . . high socks . . . an officer's cap with a military insignia—and looked like a Hollywood version of Gen. Montgomery.

"Where are you going?" I asked.

"To the Colosseum with my troops . . . I mean my tourists," replied "General" Jessel, a tour conductor now, the m.c. of the only tour where you also get personal recollections of Al Jolson's and Jessel's exwives.

NO SCENE-STEALING

"Jolson wouldn't let me deliver his eulogy," Jessel said as we sat at Capriccio's for dinner. "Jolie said, 'I'll be damned if anybody's going to steal my funeral'"

"How would you advise young people to go into show business?" I asked him.

"I'd advise them not to. It's got as much future as the razor strop business."

"But television . . ."

"Television isn't show business. It's the advertising business. It's Madison Avenue." The General chomped his cigar and looked a pretty Italian waitress up and also down. "It has ruined America."

We went back to the Excelsior and Jessel began m.c.ing the lobby. A fellow came in and told me that Elizabeth Taylor hasn't seen Richard Burton much in a couple of months, that she's getting breakfast regularly for her kids, that Sybil Burton's in Switzerland with Richard a couple of hours away, and isn't it all amazing?

"What do you think of that?" I asked Jessel.

SHE FLIRTS

"I think Elizabeth is a flirt," General Jessel said.

I took him to a night club—he thought Jolson was the greatest star of our time. Eddie Cantor was away up there then Danny Kaye.

"Jolson couldn't stand anybody thinking he couldn't do anything greater than anybody else," Jessel said. "You'd say 'Al, how come you never took up the harp?' Jolie'd say, 'That reminds me, I must get my harp out of storage'."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN NEW YORK: Huntington Hartford's rumored giving up all these young lovelies to marry model Diana Brown (HH says "No comment") . . . David Susskind will get elected to the U.S. Senate and help that body "make some sense." Variety quotes him as saying. He doesn't intend to become president, however . . . Jayne Mansfield vows she'll marry already-married Italian producer Enrico Bomba (expects him to divorce, then they could live in France or Mexico) . . . Brazillionaire Jorge Guinle flew with her to W.Va. on a PA tour.

★ ★ ★

Nixon's former campaign manager, Murray Chotiner, refused to move from his Beverly Hills Hotel room so Peter Lawford could film a "Johnny Cool" scene in the hallway. (It cost UA 10 Gs to set up in another hallway) . . . A famed teen-age singer is trying to keep his marriage a secret, 'cause his advisers told him he'd lose fans . . . B'way producer Arthur Cantor flew to London for 48 hours to find an actor to play Henry VIII opposite Carol Channing in "King's Mare" . . . Ex-champ Barney Ross may become host-master of ceremonies at a local cafe, the Arabian Nights.

Producer Lee Guber's trying to coax Sir Laurence Olivier to play "Romeo and Juliet" in the tents here next summer . . . Carol Burnett took herself out of the running for the "Fanny Brice" B'way musical—she'll be too busy with TV . . .

EARL'S PEARLS: The people who slow down most when they come to a school zone are the students.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Description of a woman: "She changes sides oftener than a windshield wiper."

Phyllis Diller suspects her husband is tired of her: "For our anniversary he gave me a set of luggage. Packed." That's earl, brother.

25 Perish in Fire

DAMASCUS (AP)—Some 25 women and children perished in northeastern Syria Monday night when a fire trapped them in a wooden house while they were helping a bride prepare for her wedding. Adel Miri, governor of Syria's Hasatche district, reported 14 other persons suffered severe burns. The bride escaped.

WRONG THIGH, WRONG TOE

Medical Goofs Cost $237,000 Insurance

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Medical Defence Union Monday accused surgeons and hospital workers of causing a series of blunders.

Cases cited included:

A four-year-old boy was admitted for the removal of a cyst on his knee. He was mistakenly operated on for a hernia.

The Medical Defence Union represents and insures members of the profession in legal actions.

In its annual report the union said these and other blunders had cost the union £79,000 ($237,000) in compensation to victims last year. It said this was the highest pay out in its history.

Dr. Douglas F. Robb, an official of the union, said:

"It is important that things be kept in the proper perspective. Of a probable total of several million operations performed every year not more than 20 or 30 errors have been reported to us."

The union urged better identification of patients and operations.

9 IN MEMORIAM

GOULD—In loving memory of my parents, Mother, died Nov. 16, 1954; Dad, killed in the James Island explosion Sept. 26, 1946.
Gone are faces I loved so dear,
Silent the voices I loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember them who once were here,
And who, though absent, are just as dear.
—Always remembered and sadly missed, Danny.

REID—In loving memory of our dear mother, E. Florence Reid, who passed away Sept. 26, 1961, and our dear dad, John Reid, April 16, 1933.
In memory you are always near,
Still loved, still missed, still ever dear.
—Sadly missed by Vera, Ethel, Gordon and families.

T.V. with Lee

Andy Williams Debuts at 7:30 on 8; New Run Ben Casey at 9

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

SHORT TAKES—It was good to see a solid pro such as cinema actor Richard Egan at work in NBC-TV's new hour-long "Empire" series that I picked up on the CBC network last Friday evening. However, I thought the opening script left something to be desired if the series is going to be a hit.

Entitled "The Day the Empire Stood Still," the plot had to do with such worthwhile things as justice, fair play and standing firm on a principle. Unfortunately the scripters settled for a "here-comes-the-cavalry-to-the-rescue" denouement and what might have been life-like became theatre-like.

Along with Egan, Charles Bronson served capably as the ranch hand who was charged with the murder of a girl but acquitted by the court, much to the resentment of all the hands on the vast, 500,000-acre, modern-day ranch.

Regulars of "Empire," such as Anne Seymour as ranch owner Lucia Garret; Terry Moore, as her daughter Connie; and Ryan O'Neal as her son Tal, were as adequate as their roles allowed.

Although why a woman with the capabilities of Miss Moore hasn't risen higher in her art by now is something that I have never been able to fathom.

★ ★ ★

THE CBC's Monday night documentary on "Castro's Cuba" was altogether excellent, what with the up-to-date commentary plus accompanying film footage that was taken in Cuba by CBC cameraman Norman Allin and by free-lance cameraman William Eccles.

By the time the hour was over any thinking viewer must have been rewarded for his faithfulness by a much better conception of the internal difficulties facing the island nation and how and why it has fallen into the dangerous international role it occupies today.

Producer Del Mackenzie deserves congratulations for rounding up such patently knowledgeable panelists as Tad Szulc, The New York Times; Keith Morfett, The London Daily Mail, and John Holmes, president of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

★ ★ ★

I TRIED to get interested in "Opening Night" Monday night, but lasted only halfway through the hour-long taffy-pull. It wasn't that the five stars—Lucille Ball, Danny Thomas, Andy Griffith, Garry Moore, Jack Benny—weren't funny in their various skits because they often were.

It's merely that after awhile I got the uncomfortable feeling that I was being conned into watching nothing more than a CBS-TV commercial for their upcoming shows and season.

And even Lucy and company can't make me enjoy a commercial.

★ ★ ★

SO I TURNED to Garry Moore's new show on Channels 6 and 2 and liked what I saw.

Although I missed the fun and roar and unpredictabilities of Carol Burnett, the hour, nonetheless, turned out to be a happy one, with Moore, his sidekick Durward Kirby, guests Alan King and Keely Smith all contributing with an invigorating cheerfulness.

But time—and the ratings—will tell.

However, the best show of the past week—by far the best—was a rerun: Jimmy Durante's 17-minute stint on behalf of Ed Sullivan and CBS. For me it was the second time 'round and I can stand several more of this truly superb act.

HOVERING HELICOPTER lifts one of injured from Swiss rescue ship Cerelina off Ireland today to fly the survivor of Sunday's airliner ditching to a U.S. Air Force base in Britain for hospital treatment. Two British 'copters also took part as 17 injured persons were taken off the freighter. —(AP Wirephoto.)

Helicopters Transfer 17 From Ship to Hospital

CORK, Ireland (AP) — Two British helicopters plucked 17 injured survivors of a ditched American airliner off the Swiss rescue ship Celerina today for transfer to hospital at a U.S. Air Force base in Britain.

The 9,041-ton freighter, still carrying 27 others it rescued after a Flying Tiger Super Constellation plunged into the white-capped Atlantic with 76 persons Sunday night, headed on to Antwerp, Belgium, its next port of call.

The U.S. Army in Europe prepared to send medical and other aid to Antwerp for the group.

American servicemen and their wives, whose flight from the United States ended with a forced landing in the sea 500 miles west of Ireland.

The Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure, with four injured survivors on board, radioed that it expects to reach the Shannon River estuary about Thursday.

Of the 76 aboard the plane, 28 were dead or missing and presumed drowned. Twelve bodies have been recovered. The air hunt for further survivors was called off Tuesday night.

Many of those who lived through the ditching were suffering from chemical burns, a skin inflamation caused by contact with high octane gasoline which spilled into the sea when the plane was wrenched apart. But there was no fire.

The Celerina had radioed that 14 of the 44 persons it picked up needed to be taken to shore hospitals quickly.

The hazardous air-sea operation by the two RAF whirlybirds took place 30 miles off the Irish coast.

I watched from a chartered plane as the bright yellow helicopters hovered over the Celerina and winched the injured aboard, one at a time.

There was a heavy swell and whitecaps foamed in a 30-mile wind. The Celerina pitched and bobbed as the helicopters proceeded with their touchy job.

Crash survivors brought ashore appeared to be suffering from leg injuries. One of them, Sgt. Ralph E. Bates of Wurtland, said:

"I don't remember much about the crash. It was certainly a shock."

The injured were taken to Mercy Hospital for treatment.

One of the helicopter pilots brought an urgent call from the Celerina for medical supplies.

The Celerina also said it was in great need of 100 pounds of meat, 50 pounds of rice and 50 pounds of flour to feed its unexpected guests. Arrangements were quickly made to send these supplies to the ship.

Bridge Challenge To Goren Ignored

NEW YORK (NEA) — Oswald Jacoby, the nation's top ranking bridge player, is still waiting for a direct reply to his make-or-break tournament challenge to bridge authority Charles Goren.

On Aug. 22, Jacoby asked Goren to meet him in a bridge match of at least 120 hands to settle their respective bridge abilities "decisively and publicly."

"We've had no reply from Mr. Goren," Jacoby said, "except his comments to newspapermen."

Goren has been quoted in newspapers as saying he was too busy to meet Jacoby and "if I were going to accept a challenge there are at least 25 people who would be ahead of him in line."

KNOWS OUTCOME

Jacoby commented:

"The only reason Mr. Goren hasn't accepted my challenge is that he knows he would lose. I have great respect for him as a player, but he is bidding 10 years behind the times. That's like playing golf with wooden-shafted clubs."

Since Jacoby issued his challenge, he and Goren have played in the same tournament just once, in Pittsburgh, over the Labor Day weekend. Goren playing with Albert Landy, a familiar partner and a ranking expert with over 2,000 master points, failed to qualify in the masters pairs competition. Jacoby, playing with John Lowenthal for the first time, won the event. Lowenthal became a life master by achieving more than 300 master points with the victory.

In the team competition, Goren, playing with his favorite partner, Helen Sobel, finished fourth. Jacoby's team won.

At the time of the challenge, Jacoby led Goren in the standings of the American Contract Bridge League by 116 points. The latest figures of the league give Jacoby a margin of 168 points.

Jacoby passed Goren in master points early this year after Goren held the top spot for 10 years. Jacoby had the top ranking before spending six years as a naval officer in World War II and the Korean War.

The two top players may meet again for possibly two hands during the national bridge tournament at Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 24 to Dec. 2.

Jacoby said he is still hopeful Goren will agree to meet him in what could be the biggest battle of bridge giants in more than a quarter of a century.

EYEWITNESS REPORT

Crowded Raft 'Like a Log' In Rough Sea

DARMSTADT, Germany (AP) "No panic, just everyone moving to the escape hatches. Courage—and even a few jokes—as waves smashed our raft around like a toy."

This was the way Pete Foley, a staff writer of the American armed forces newspaper Stars and Stripes, began an eyewitness report on the crash of a Flying Tiger Super Constellation in the Atlantic Sunday night. His account was published by the Stars and Stripes today.

Foley described how two engines failed four hours after the plane took off from Gander, Nfld., and the stewardesses began ditching drill on a precautionary basis.

"Spirit was high on the plane and many of the young soldiers aboard, mostly headed overseas for the first time, kidded the stewardesses and said they wanted to be in the same liferaft with them, reported Foley.

A frightened young bride and a mother of two small children showed more signs of fear.

"When the plane's third motor died the pilot announced "We are going to ditch," Foley continued:

"You could feel the plane dropping now. Lights were turned out for our eyes to get used to the darkness.

"Within minutes came the hard crash and the struggle to come out of the sinking plane started. There was no panic—just everyone moving to the escape hatches.

"The seas were rough and the winds were blowing and in the black of the night nothing but struggling swimmers could be seen.

"There were only the cries: 'Where are the rafts? Where are the boats?' "

FIND LIFERAFT

Foley described how the swimmers finally found an upside down raft and packed aboard it two deep.

His account continued:

"For nearly five hours this mass of humanity was tossed around by the seas, often sprayed with cold water. Most the time they were waist-deep in water.

"The hours passed slowly. But search planes overhead added to the hope that help would soon be on the way.

"Only a few could move in the raft.

"Those in the centre had to keep their heads above the water. Those along the sides had to try to help bail out the rising water . . .

"When the raft was caught between two waves and almost folded in half, it hurt the most, for this movement jammed the survivors even tighter together and caused cries of pain."

FALSE HOPE

The lights of planes, of fading flares and even the rising moon gave the survivors false hope that a rescue ship was coming.

The green running light of the Swiss freighter Celerina was their first sure sign of help.

Foley said the Celerina's search lights, guided by the lone flashlight which pilot John Murray had brought with him, spotted the raft almost an hour after the running light was first seen.

Climbing the rope ladders on to the Celerina "proved to be a task in itself with the waves lifting the raft up to the ship's rail, then dropping it suddenly to the water line," Foley reported.

"Even the most able had trouble grabbing the ladder and making the short climb.

"Now it is hard to realize you have lived through the rough seas and the wind," Foley's account concluded.

Deaf Mute Won't Stand Murder Trial

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—Benjamin Edwin Muldoe, 18-year-old deaf mute, was found unfit to stand trial Tuesday night on a charge of non-capital murder.

A 12-man assize jury recommended the youth be committed to a "suitable institution."

Muldoe was charged with the July 23 strangulation death of Mrs. Josephine Marie Dacdonald, 49, whose body was found by her husband at their roadside cafe near Shame, 20 miles west of Terrace.

Muldoe, a ward of the social welfare department, had been placed in the Macdonald's care.

Two psychiatrists and a psychologist testified that Muldoe could not instruct his counsel and did not comprehend cross-examination.

Steel Firms Upheld In Ducking Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate judiciary committee threw out Tuesday the contempt of Congress charge its anti-trust subcommittee sought to press against four steel companies and nine of their top executives.

The 10-to-5 vote upheld the refusal by the steel firms to comply with subpoenas from the subcommittee for detailed figures on production costs of steel products.

The firms said disclosure of the information would give competitors an unfair advantage.

MANNING - CAUTIONS - PLANNERS

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta Premier E. C. Manning, Tuesday, warned community planners to stay out of planning decisions that interfere with individual rights.

Mr. Manning told the national convention banquet of the Community Planning Association of Canada that decisions on such questions as whether private land shall be expropriated for an urban renewal program often have to be made.

But he said such decisions should be left up to elected officials. Planners should carefully weigh the merits of the public good against the rights of the individual before recommending them.

JOGGING CLUBS POPULAR

New Zealand 'On the Run'

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Visitors to Auckland are constantly intrigued at the sight of athletes in shorts, singlet and sneakers dodging in and out among busy city traffic or pounding along suburban streets in groups.

They are even more surprised to note that many of the runners are far from young—in fact, a good many are portly grey-haired businessmen.

The spectacle indeed is possibly unique to New Zealand. Still more startling is the fact that some of these middle-aged runners now have acquired serious athletic ambitions and are even taking up marathon running.

It all started when athletes trained by the noted Auckland coach Arthur Lydiard began winning world attention. Runners in his "stable" captured a string of world records from 800 metres to three miles, as well as Olympic and Empire Games medals.

An essential feature of the Lydiard technique is long-distance training on the roads to build up stamina. Some athletes cover more than 100 miles a week, including runs of more than 20 miles over a gruelling course through ranges on the outskirts of Auckland.

The success of the Lydiard methods brought attention to his claim that running would benefit anyone, whether teenage student or portly professional man. Lydiard insists that there is no risk of overtaxing strength in such runs.

Lydiard's infectious enthusiasm left many who heard him with an ambition to shake off lethargy and improve physical fitness.

The result has been the formation of "joggers' clubs" in various parts of Auckland. The clubs are not organized and are entirely informal. They consist merely of groups of men who get together to run in company—in parks or along the roads, or anywhere else convenient, morning, afternoon or evening.

One club consists of an importer, two dentists, a general practitioner and a prominent surgeon. Some joggers have become so pleased at the improvement in their physical condition that they have given up late nights and cut down on spirits.

Joggers go at their own speed and decide their own distance. Some run no more than a couple of miles around blocks near their homes. Others cover up to 30 miles, on the courses used by serious athletes.

The latest development has been the transformation of joggers into competitive athletes. Seven of them, aged from 30 to 36, and not members of regular athletic clubs, have entered for a major marathon contest to be held in Auckland in October.

POLICE HQ 'HOPELESSLY INADEQUATE'

Victoria's police building is "hopelessly inadequate," police commission was told Tuesday by deputy chief Harry Mercer.

He was commenting on complaints against the jail and visiting facilities in the building made by David Hummel, chairman of Victoria Bar Association's criminal justice committee.

Deputy Mercer said proximity of the jail cells to the charge office forced the department to make strict regulations about visiting prisoners and he also said there was no proper interview room for use of defence lawyers.

"We just need a new building," he said.

Commission said it would meet Mr. Hummel to discuss his complaints after compiling information on the present situation and future plans.

Civic Boo-Boo Sees Man's Car Wrongly Sold

City police refused "to take the rap" for a mix-up last year in which the city engineer sold an apparently abandoned car that wasn't.

The incident involved a sailor who left town last October, leaving his car with friends who subsequently abandoned it on a city street.

Police, after prolonged investigation, were unable to trace its ownership because of an improper vehicle registration and finally asked the city engineer to remove it from the street because it was a traffic hazard.

The city engineer's department, acting under a bylaw covering abandoned vehicles, then sold it. A few months later, the sailor returned, found himself car-less and complained. The city paid an out-of-court settlement.

A letter from City Hall Tuesday suggested that police were lax for not tracing the owner.

TRIED BUT FAILED

"There was a very extensive investigation in this case but we just couldn't find out who owned the car because it was wrongly registered," said Deputy Chief Harry Mercer.

"We finally asked to have the car removed from the street but we certainly didn't tell Mr. Garnett (J. C. Garnett, city engineer) to sell it.

"I'm not going to criticize the engineer for making a premature move to sell it because I don't even know when it was sold."

Police Commissioner Gordon Carter said it appeared the police department had done everything it was supposed to do and should not accept any blame. The City Hall letter was filed.

ICE-CREAM SODA weather missed during much of the summer is enjoyed this week by collegians Charmaine Armstrong, 4159 Quadra, and Carolyn Maysmith, 1551 Gladstone. Arrival of fall unexpectedly brought warm sunshine to Greater Victoria, coinciding perfectly with Kinsmen Clubs' Fall Fair at Esquimalt Sports Arena.

Trustees Launch Drive For Federal School Aid

CALGARY (PC) — Canadian school trustees decided Tuesday to make a thorough study of the constitutional issues involved in federal participation in education.

The 200 delegates attending the Canadian School Trustees Association convention here gave their executive the go-ahead to work on a formula for federal cost-sharing within the terms of the British North America Act.

Lindsay H. Place, a Montreal lawyer who was elected association president at the concluding session, indicated the organization may seek some of the best legal opinion in the country to work on the project.

"It would be presumptuous to say we'll find a solution," he said, "but I think we may find something which they (the federal government) will find hard to back out of."

Under the BNA act, the responsibility for financing elementary and secondary education is vested in the provinces, which in turn delegates some authority to local boards.

Mr. Place said a meeting which the association executive had with Prime Minister Diefenbaker last year gave him the impression the federal government did not plan to admit it had any responsibility for education.

SEEK SOLUTION

He said the association will use its own legal talent and possibly call on the law faculties of universities for help in finding a solution to the constitutional issues.

Dr. Malcolm Taylor, principal of the University of Alberta's Calgary campus, told the meeting that at the founding of Canada, when the dependance on education was not fully understood, responsibility for education was allocated to the smallest political, administrative and tax-raising unit.

He said this was a "hamstring legacy of the past" and it was time to devise new policies, approaches and sources of revenue to meet educational needs on a national level.

"It would be foolhardy—worse, it would be a tragedy—if as a result of our devotion to local control or self interest we failed to meet national needs of the present and future."

Dr. Taylor said there was "something strange" with the philosophy of a country which supports relief payments for unemployed youth but will not allocate national funds to educate that youth for a job.

'No Change' Says Heath

BONN (Reuters) — Edward Heath, Britain's chief European Common Market negotiator, told West German leaders Tuesday Britain undertook no new obligations to the Commonwealth at the recent prime ministers' conference in London, a West German foreign ministry spokesman said.

He said he hoped some of the results reached in Brussels could be "adapted to the wishes of the Commonwealth countries."

But he added this would not "touch the substance of what has been agreed in Brussels."

Canada Faces New Setback

QUEBEC (CP) — Ottawa economist Maurice Lamontagne said Tuesday most economic authorities believe Canada faces the risk of another recession in 1963.

Mr. Lamontagne, an economic adviser to Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson, said that North America, particularly Canada, seems to be in a period of economic stagnation at a time when Western Europe is in a new era of industrial expansion.

SOCIAL CREDIT TURNS DOWN QUEBEC FIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of 36 key Social Crediters from the Province of Quebec decided at a secret meeting place here Tuesday night to stay out of the Nov. 14 Quebec provincial election.

The 26 Social Credit MPs from Quebec provincial executive said in a statement after the meeting that they unanimously passed a resolution ruling out participation at least in the current Quebec election campaign.

Caouette Plans Busy Schedule

OTTAWA (CP)—Real Caouette, deputy national leader of the Social Credit party, Tuesday night announced an extensive speaking tour, saying "elections are not won in the House of Commons."

He spoke to reporters after winning his campaign to keep the Social Credit party out of the Quebec provincial election campaign.

Mr. Caouette said he will probably be the member of Parliament with the worst attendance record. Among his engagements are speeches to the Empire Club in Toronto, the Toronto Junior Board of Trade and the Montreal Canadian Club.

BCE Denies Rate Cuts To Forestall Takeover

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Harry Purdy, former president of the government-expropriated B.C. Electric, denied in Supreme Court Tuesday that possible rate cuts were discussed to "forestall expropriation" of the giant private power enterprise.

The suggestion was made by C. W. Brazier, counsel for B.C. Hydro and Power Authority which now embraces the former BCE.

Dr. Purdy said it would be obvious the firm was not planning cuts in the hope of forestalling provincial expropriation because the discussions were on the basis that such cuts might apply in 1962.

Other witnesses told the court that some $50,000,000 had been accumulated to cope with future tax needs. Informal meetings were held between top officials on the basis that part of this saving could be used to cut BCE rates.

The case was launched last May by B.C. Power Corporation, sole owner of BCE which was expropriated by the government in August, 1961. It seeks a court ruling that the legislation by which BCE was taken over was invalid. Alternatively it asks the court to set a "fair" price for BCE assets for which the provincial government paid it a total of $172,000,000.

The BCE, the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority and the Attorney-General are defendants in the suit.

'U.S. HURT'

Deportations Fought By Morse

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Wayne Morse (Dem. Ore) carries to the Senate judiciary committee today his demand for legislation to revoke the 1960 deportations of two Portland, Ore., men.

In a Senate speech Tuesday night he said the deportations were a "shocking miscarriage of justice" which has hurt the United States in the eyes of the world.

Morse called for enactment of bills he has introduced to permit the return of William Albert Mackie, 54, a house painter deported to Finland, and Hamish Scott MacKay, 57, a carpenter deported to Canada.

He pictured both cases as instances of "inhumanity to man" when government is overly harsh in application of the immigration laws. He ridiculed contentions that either man could be dangerous to the country.

Morse said the immigration service based its case against Mackie on charges raised in the 1950s that he had participated in Communist activities in 1937, 1938, and 1939.

The action against MacKay, the senator said, alleged that he had been a member in the late 1930s of an organization advocating overthrow of the government by force.

He said Mackie had lived in the United States since infancy, MacKay since he was a youth.

(1018) Better Viewing with a Channel Master Rotar Antenna from the Bay!

20-ft. mast 129.95

CDP, $10 monthly

30-ft. mast 149.95

Completely installed in the Greater Victoria Area

A newly developed method of pushing back the fringe areas of TV reception, the rotar antenna aims the antenna within one degree of precise transmitter location!

Its precision dial permits every member of the family to make fine adjustments throughout its 365-degree rotation!

It's simple—antenna's position always shown on the indicating needle, even when the motor is not in use.

Its quiet operation, thanks to nylon gears, prevents noisy interruption that occurs with some rotator controls.

Its greater tuning power will turn even the heaviest fringe-area antennas due to its higher torque.

AIRLINER JUST MISSES BUZZING SOVIET PLANE

BERLIN (UPI)—A Russian fighter plane today almost collided head-on with a Pan American Airways clipper carrying passengers to Berlin.

The Russian fighter "approached the clipper head-on," then suddenly veered to the left when it was only 150 yards away, a spokesman said.

The United States protested.

Liston Gives Word: 'I'll Be Good Champ'

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—A new Charles Sonny Liston promised today to be a world heavyweight champion in shining armor and also to give Floyd Patterson a rematch as soon as possible.

A cruel-punching strong man, Liston exploded the long-suspected Patterson myth in 126 seconds of their title match in Comiskey Park Tuesday night.

In the third-fastest title finish in heavyweight boxing history, 2:06 of the first round, Liston crumbled Patterson to the canvas with a couple of ponderous left hooks before a disappointing paid crowd of 18,894.

It was felt by some that Cus D'Amato, Patterson's guiding angel, had wrapped his boy in cotton. Floyd's championship path mainly avoided what real Patterson, then 21, first won the crown in 1956 by flattening an overstuffed Archie Moore.

Ingemar Johansson, who dethroned Patterson in 1959, said "Patterson looks like a little baby tonight." Ingo may get a shot at Liston after the new champ has his return match with Patterson.

WANTS FAST REMATCH

Patterson, 189, whose finish had been foreshadowed by 12 knockdowns in previous title bouts, wants another go at Liston within three months.

Patterson could swell his lion's take as a loser Tuesday night by sharing a 30-30 split of the return match receipts.

Liston, 214, is ready at any time.

"I'll do some hunting and fishing the next two or three weeks," said Liston, who got his title shot by goading Patterson into it.

Liston had rushed over to Patterson after referee Frank Sikora threw his arms around the wobbily champion following his knockout count.

"He told me if the public gives me a chance," Liston said, "I can be a worthy champion, maybe a better champion than he was."

"I think I can prove just that—if the public gives me a chance," added Liston. "I think Patterson was a good champion. I disagree only in one thing he did. He shut himself off from the public. He didn't go to small clubs and he stayed away from the public. This is something the world champion has got to do."

CLERGYMEN HELP

Liston—sitting at a table before the noisy throng of newsmen and photographers—was flanked by three clergymen who played an important part in his rehabilitation from his grim early war with police and society.

These included Rev. A. J. Stephens, the Missouri penitentiary chaplain who first

$5 MILLION

Tax Men Seize Receipts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of federal revenue officers fanned out across the United States Tuesday night and today in an effort to seize some $5,000,000 of receipts from the Patterson-Liston heavyweight title bout.

The aim was to collect $3,900,000 in taxes which the government claims is owed by the promoters of the fight and the organizers of closed-circuit TV showings of the one-round encounter in which Sonny Liston grabbed the championship from Floyd Patterson in Chicago's Comiskey Park.

Officials said that, while they were bent on impounding the full proceeds due the promoters and TV organizers, they were permitting individual theatre owners to keep the portion of their fight receipts called for by their individual contracts with the organizers. Even after these deductions—an estimated 45 per cent of theatre receipts—the share due the organizers was expected to total about $4,000,000.

The federal agents were stationed at 260 theatres across the country Tuesday night, prepared to file the attachment notices before the fight ended. But a spokesman said Liston's rapid-fire knockout of Patterson in the first round disrupted this plan.

Federal officials initially told reporters their objective was to tie up all proceeds from the fight. They explained later that they did not mean to include the share of closed-circuit TV receipts due theatre owners.

In addition to impounding the affected part of receipts in some 260 theatres, infernal revenue service agents in an unprecedented move served levies against the promoters themselves covering their whole take including the fees paid by American Broadcasting Company for radio coverage rights.

FREEZE PURSES

One result of the action presumably will be to freeze the purses earned by Liston and Patterson until the tax liabilities of the promoters are determined and settled. This could take many months and perhaps more than a year.

In explaining why it acted, the revenue service said, without elaboration, that "records show that none of the corporations connected with the Chicago fight have filed tax returns" on their operations last year—the year they were organized.

One official said that many of the individuals controlling the corporations that promoted the fight were involved in the 1961 heavyweight title bout in which Patterson regained the championship from Ingemar Johansson. After that fight, the revenue service acted to tie up Johansson's purse, which approached $1,000,000 on the basis of a claim that he owed more than $1,000,000 in taxes on earn-

'Alouette' Aims at Orbit Tonight

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Canadian satellite Alouette is scheduled to be blasted off into space shortly after 11 p.m. PDT tonight, a U.S. space agency official said Tuesday.

Confirmation of whether the satellite achieved a correct orbit would take about two hours after launch time, the official said.

Featuring 6,500 solar cells for energy and armed with the longest antenna ever put on a Western spacecraft—about 150 feet—the Alouette will be launched in a southeasterly direction from Point Arguello, Vandenberg Air Force Base, California.

First satellite to be built by a country other than the U.S. or Russia, the inospheric research vehicle is to be placed into a near-circular orbit at a height of about 600 miles.

It will be blasted from earth by a U.S. two-stage Thor-Agena B rocket.

'TEST OF RESPONSIBILITY'

Road Blocks Lifted On Sons of Freedom

Road blocks have been lifted and Sons of Freedom Doukhobors camped near Princeton left to their own devices, Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced today.

Police guards have also gone from the Bromley Park area, he said.

What happens next is up to the Freedomites. But if they step out of line they'll be arrested.

Mr. Bonner said he knew it was a risk to allow freedomites to go, but it would be a true test of their responsibility. It would also remove any criticism of violation of civil liberties.

TAKE COMFORT

He said the public should take some comfort from two new developments:

The Freedomites say they are anxious for their children to attend school.

Two prominent Vancouver lawyers are advising the Freedomites, and he was sure that advice would not cause any public disorder.

(Lawyers George Hebrik and Angelo Branca have been reported as willing to assist the campers).

Mr. Bonner said there are between 800 and 900 Freedomites camped at Bromley.

They were halted there last Tuesday on their march from Krestova to Agassiz where 67 terrorists are held in a special federal prison.

About 20 extra police were on duty around the camp. They have now returned to normal duties, said Mr. Bonner.

He said the week's pause in the march gave B.C. time to make two attempts to solve the Freedomite problem.

'CUT OFF'

The provincial government asked Ottawa to close the Agassiz prison and disperse the prisoners to other jails. This failed and the federal government has "cut off" B.C.

"It also enabled the marchers to learn that the provincial government is unwavering in its attitude towards law enforcement."

Mr. Bonner said further police action will depend on Freedomites' behavior.

"It may be said some hazard exists in this decision," he admitted. "it is intended, however, to remove from academic discussion questions concerning justification for police action, and to place such matters squarely before the courts as events may dictate."

If the Freedomites go on and trespass on the Agassiz prison grounds federal auth-

PUPILS BARRED BY ERROR

There has been "a local misunderstanding" if Freedomite children have been barred from attending school at Princeton, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday.

He was commenting on reports that a police road block 13 miles from Princeton had stopped parents on their way to register children for school classes.

The Freedomites are camped at Bromley Park where their march on Agassiz was halted by RCMP.

Mr. Bonner said the government is anxious to ensure that children involved in the march are sent to school.

Caucus Against Election

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Social Credit party today appeared to give Prime Minister Diefenbaker's minority government at least a semi-permanent lease on life in the new Parliament opening Thursday.

A statement from the Socred pre-session caucus of MPs — agreed to by all 30 Socred MPs —declared:

"We are convinced, from continuous contact with the Canadian people since last June, that the people of Canada do not wish an immediate election . . . Canada's future demands something better than a chain reaction of minority governments which an immediate election would bring about."

BACK ANY MOVE

The meaning of the statement to observers here was that the Social Credit group would support almost any move by the government this session to attack Canada's economic problems.

Such support by the Socreds would permit Diefenbaker to continue in office indefinitely, for the government cannot be defeated in a House vote unless all three opposition parties vote against it.

The caucus statement seemed to clear up the confusion which has surrounded the Socred position in the session.

National Socred leader Robert Thompson has of late been backing a "no-election" line but the view of the 26 Quebec Socred MPs remained in doubt as their leader, Real Caouette, the deputy national leader, spoke in one breath of throwing the government out, and in the next breath of keeping it in.

UNITED POLICY

Today's statement by all Socred MPs, therefore, establishes a united party policy on the strategy they will follow in the house.

The caucus statement declares:

"We of the Social Credit Party believe that as Canadians we are determined on the one hand that the economic dilemma that we are in shall not continue and on the other hand that chaos shall not be added to confusion.

"Canada urgently needs some basic corrective measures to this end, and this responsibility rests squarely on the shoulders of the prime minister and his government.

"We are convinced, from continuous contact with the Canadian people since last June, that the people of Can-

DYING GIRL DISPLAYS GAITY AND COURAGE

'An Inspiration to Us All'

LONDON (AP)—The dying wish of a gay and courageous child came true today.

The strangely moving book that 10-year-old Suzanne Reynolds worked on against time was put on sale in British bookshops. In many, it was an immediate sellout.

Suzanne died of cancer last February. But not before she finished her life's work.

She finished writing Snowy and the Christmas Foal the day before she died after a last desperate operation to save her life.

Said her mother, Mrs Eileen Reynolds:

"It's exactly as she wrote it. No alterations. Just a punctuation here and there. She would have been so proud."

The mother added:

"She never grumbled or spoke of being unwell. She only talked of her pony and cat, and the fairy stories she sat up at night to write."

Sir Cecil Wakeley, one of Britain's most eminent surgeons commented:

"At such times, let us remember the courage of the gay and beautiful child who gave us Snowy and the Christmas Foal.

Said a spokesman for the Imperial Cancer Research Fund:

"It's a pleasant, refreshing and very moving book by a little girl who should be an inspiration to us all."

All money from the book goes to fight cancer.

Suzanne's principal character was a pony named Snowy. Snowy wanted a foal, but didn't seem to be able to produce one. The one Christmas Eve—she did. The child drew from real life, for she owned a pony named Jinny.

'May Back Policies They Have Opposed'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Social Credit party may find itself forced to vote for government policies which they have strongly opposed, Liberal Leader Pearson said today.

He had been asked to comment on the Social Credit announcement that it will not support the Liberal non-confidence motion planned early in the parliamentary session opening Thursday.

Mr. Pearson, speaking at the noon adjournment of its party's caucus, said that the Social Credit decision does not affect the Liberals in the slightest.

He said it would be most unnatural for the Liberals to refrain from a non-confidence motion but it is up to the two other opposition parties to decide what to do.

Th' Socreds are goin' t' keep Mister Diefenbaker in power—an' by great coincidence, themselves.

HE'S READY FOR ANYTHING

Minor League Task Force Run by Seattle 'Invader'

FREDERICK LEWIS
. . . call me captain

By ARTHUR MAYSE

A workhorse vessel rigged to save lives, fight fires, conduct salvage operations and lay undersea power lines churned through her paces off Swartz Bay Tuesday afternoon while her owner ran a critical check on her performance.

She's MV Coal Island, a 93-foot converted ammunition lighter, latest addition to the high-priced and ship-shape fleet commodored by Frederick E. Lewis of Coal Island and Seattle.

"CAPTAIN"

Mr. Lewis—he prefers to be addressed as captain—is a whitehaired, pugnacious American citizen who in 1938 acquired 341 rocky, timbered acres a-whoop-and-a-holler from Sidney, set his purchase up as "Coal Island Limited", and has transformed it into a pocket empire. It is complete with gravelled roads, floats, launching ramp, machine shop big enough to house a mainline locomotive, and spigots that gush salt water, pond water and spring water on demand.

All this, Capt. Lewis was inclined to brush aside when a Times crew ventured into his home bay, although he permitted an inspection of the worked-over Fairmile which he skippers on pleasure cruises that reach north to Alaskan waters and south to the Gulf of Mexico.

His chief interest was his new ship, neat in white and dark-red hull paint, her flapping bow lip primly buttoned, and Coal Island Ltd. hands in industrial lifejackets busy giving her some final licks.

"Time we took them for a ride," Capt. Lewis said to his general manager, Richard Dixon, and led the way down to the Coal Island at a leg-stretching pace.

35 YEARS

On the way, he made it plain that he didn't want to be written about and didn't like personal questions.

Marine background? Extensive. Master's ticket for the past 35 years. Not a navy man, but helped the U.S. Navy during the First World War.

Age? The captain suggested 45 would do, making himself the youngest possessor of master mariner's papers on record (since he was 10).

Profession? Some of this and a little of that, offered with a Paul Jones scowl and the flat pronouncement, "I don't like writers!"

The Coal Island-registered tonnage, 59.83; beam, 18 feet; draft, nothing forward and five feet aft—then lowered her bow ramp, inhaled a couple of trucks for demonstration purposes, shoved off.

$150,000 VALUE

Built in North Vancouver during the last war and face-lifted by Star Shipyards of New Westminster, the one-time lighter is valued at something over $150,000. She is diesel powered by a pair of 250-hp engines, and is capable of 10 to 11 knots with remarkably little vibration.

Since she will be ferrying communications crews among the islands, she has been passed by department of transport as a passenger-carrying vessel, hence her safety gear is elaborate and complete.

In addition to paying her way in commercial operation, the ship will aid Air Sea Search and Rescue on call. As a trouble-shooter, she's superbly equipped. A fire-fighting "monitor" mounted forward allows her to throw a longrange jet into shore fires. She can put it practically anywhere, and besides the usual radio equipment, carries a variety of walky-talkies. Her carrying capacity is rated at 80 tons.

LATEST ADDITION to private Coal Island fleet is 93-foot 'work horse.'

MONTE ROBERTS

I have often been accused (justifiably) of name-dropping, but if I dropped the name G. R. K. Lynch, LL.B, CLU, right here and now, what would the average reaction of the average constituent be?

The average constituent would say, "Who's he?"

But if I dropped the name "Digby" Lynch, I suspect a vast majority of constituents who have served navy, army, or air force time in the Halifax area would say: "Well, well, well, Oh, ho. Old Digby, eh? What has he been up to now?"

* * *

What Digby has been up to (he got his nickname when he was but a Digby chick at Royal Roads) is visiting all around and about Canada, with his 19-year-old son, Tom.

This journey from there to here eventually wound up here, and I caught up with Digby & son en route.

Thus I am able to name-drop Digby Lynch, and to make a report to all those who knew him when:

Digby is still the old master reminiscencer.

(If you're going to coin a word, boy, don't be afraid of inflation.)

Digby handles an anecdote with the deliberate foresight of an artificer setting a time bomb.

He goes for what might be called the crashing crescendo.

As just one example—pared down to bare bones—his story of the RCN junior officer who, having missed his transportation back to a ship which was due to sail at dawn, pirated a horse from a farmer's field and rode it, not only onto the jetty, but across the brow onto the quarterdeck of his ship.

Ordering the quartermaster to provide suitable forage, such as a bale of hay or two, Digby's naval friend weaved his way to bed, and all was well until time came for the ship to slip.

This was when the executive officer was compelled (regretfully) to report to the captain that a horse was on the quarterdeck, and what should be done about it?

Digby leaves you with this crescendo note: the horse had been ridden aboard at high tide, when deck and jetty were level. It was now low tide, so . . . ?

Digby has a million of 'em. And I think his son, Tom, will soon have a like number. But Tom's forte seems more diminuendo than crescendo.

When I apologized for calling him Don, instead of Tom, he said it happened all the time.

"There was this girl I had the big date with the other night, she called me Don all night, well I didn't really have a big date, we were at a big party, well, it wasn't such a big party, really, it was only a small party, but she kept calling me Don, oh, I remember now, we didn't ever get to the small party because when I called her on the telephone for a date she thought I was Don, not Tom . . . that's what I meant to tell you about."

Newsstand Operator Fined For Selling Obscene Book

'Dreary Concoction of Sex' Found in 'Virgins No More'

A downtown newsstand operator was found guilty in city police court today of circulating obscene literature.

John Dirom, proprietor of Horseshoe News Ltd., Government Street, was charged with selling Virgins No More, a pocket book bearing the author's name Orre Hitt.

Magistrate William Ostler found him guilty on a count of circulating obscene literature, but dismissed another count of having obscene literature in his possession for circulation, as there was only the one copy involved.

$20 FINE

Mr. Dirom was fined $20.

Magistrate Ostler said he found the book had the four qualities necessary for conviction as stipulated in a Supreme Court judgment on "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

These prerequisites were that the book have as its dominant characteristic, the undue exploitation of sex.

In his judgment the magistrate said he was convinced Virgins No More was "part of that pulp fubbish which Parliament sought to suppress" by Section 158 of the Criminal Code.

"The book is a dreary concoction of sex with a dash of violence and the addition of a slight plot," Mr. Ostler said.

"FOR DIRT'S SAKE"

He held the object of the author was not to relate the episodes as required by the internal necessities of the book, but to string together sexual episodes as "dirt for dirt's sake."

The magistrate said he did not feel the book would have any "deleterious effect" on "the mature mind and discriminating reader," as these people would not be able to stay with the book.

"Its greatest offence to them would be its dullness and coarseness," he said.

He said he had been unable to read the book in question "without some embarrassment, not for what it contains, but for what it lacks."

"The theme of sex is so repetitious that reading the book is a depressing chore," he said. "It has not even the merit of being well-written."

Magistrate Ostler said he had great respect for the expert witness for the defence, Times publisher Stuart Keate, who had testified in his opinion the book was "immoral, but not obscene or pornographic."

However, Mr. Keate's definition of "obscene" as a "tendency to deprave or corrupt," was not that of the section of the Criminal Code under question.

His expert testimony could apply only to the literary merits of the work, and Mr. Keate had declared it had none.

THEME ESTABLISHED

Mr. Ostler declared the theme of the book was established by its cover which contained "colored photographs of two young ladies in various stages of undress" and bore the sentence:

"One excited him by her kitten's caresses; the other embraced him like a wildcat."

Mr. Ostler said during the trial some question had arisen that a decision that Mr. Dirom was guilty would amount to censorship, which was to be avoided.

UP TO PARLIAMENT

He said that if this was the case, "the remedy lies with Parliament, not the courts."

Mr. Dirom stated in court today he had been unaware of the nature of the book, and had not read it himself.

He said Lovick's News Agency had placed the book on display as was usual without his checking it.

"Now we go over everything very carefully, though," he said.

Mr. Dirom also said he was "sure" he would always have prevented such a book being sold to a juvenile.

Man Convicted Of Threatening Woman Witness

Cowardly Conduct Says Magistrate

A man was found guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday of obstructing justice in attempting to "dissuade by threat" a witness from giving evidence.

He was remanded for sentence to Thursday.

Douglas White, 31, of 1022 Princess, was accused of threatening Mrs. Dorothy Eng, 3267 Whitlow, crown witness in a case of forgery scheduled for the Assizes Oct. 1.

Court was told Mr. White phoned Mrs. Eng at her store, Oakcrest Foods Ltd., 3475 Quadra, telling her she had made a mistake in identifying Keith Starling as the man who uttered a forged cheque there in May.

White contended the real culprit was "doing time" at present for another offence.

"MISTAKE"

Mrs. Eng recounted that Mr. White had said "the boys over there say you've made a mistake. He then asked about her three boys, aged 10, 12 and 14.

Then he told her "the boys on the other side of the river will know what to do," Mrs. Eng said.

Mr. White was alleged to have threatened to drag Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eng and "the store" through the mud.

Magistrate William Ostler in finding Mr. White guilty, said he had shown "cowardly and contemptible conduct."

Renovations Under Study At Police HQ

But New Building Needed—Hamilton

City police commission will plan major interior renovations of the police station next year if council refuses a fourth time to provide a new building.

This was the prediction expressed today by Commissioner William Hamilton following a statement by Ald. Michael Griffin that the station is in disgraceful disrepair.

"The building is obsolete and we need a new one," Mr. Hamilton said. "We've asked council for three years running to provide new quarters and each time we have been refused.

"We are starting a special planning study to rearrange the interior layout next year if we can't get a new building."

Mr. Hamilton said facilities for the public "are very poor" in the building and space is needed for lawyers to interview their clients.

City Hall officials pointed out that the present station—valued at about $250,000—is the "most permanent" of all the civic buildings because it is structurally sound.

They agreed that the interior layout may not make efficient use of the building and that sufficient maintenance has not been carried out.

Drydock Survey For Icebreaker

The icebreaker CCGS Camsell entered government graving dock, Esquimalt, this morning for survey after her 10,000-mile, three-month tour of duty in the Arctic, which ended last week.

During hydrographic survey work, the Camsell "found" an unchartered rock the hard way—by brushing it with her hull.

The incident didn't interfere with the ship's progress home, but a survey is mandatory when any vessel touches ground.

Principal Thanks 'Old Boys' Of Upper Canada

The principal of Upper Canada College in Toronto is on a western tour thanking "old boys" for their contributions to a $3,500,000 school building replacement program.

Dr. C. W. Sowby is visiting Vancouver and Victoria this week before returning east.

In an interview Tuesday night he said matriculation standings at the private school run between 90 and 100 per cent. Upper Canada graduates had excelled at university taking 477 scholarships and fellowships in the last seven years.

Graduates had become members of parliament in Canada and Britain, Supreme Court judges in Canada and the United States and held leading positions in external and internal political affairs and community affairs.

It was not a snob school. Parents often had to make sacrifices for the boys to attend the school which accepted only those students who were sure of going to university.

Planning for a high-rise apartment block in the Rockland area—which created a serious controversy in council last year—is still proceeding sporadically.

City planner Roderick Clack today said the Blake Construction Company is continuing structural planning although no work has been undertaken.

The deal — in which city council sold the high rise site to E. A. Blake of Vancouver for some $30,000 despite claims it was worth more than $100,000—raised a storm of protest last year.

At the time, Mr. Blake said construction of the 12-storey building near the city's water tower would be undertaken this year.

Beer, Wine Ads On TV, Radio Sought by Group

A plea for beer and wine advertising on television and radio was made to the B.C. cabinet Tuesday.

The submission came from the B.C. Association of Broadcasters.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the request will be studied, but gave no hint of the government's opinion.

However, any change in the present regulations would require new legislation, he said.

All liquor advertising on radio and TV is banned in B.C.

Federal regulations of the Board of Broadcast Governors prohibit advertising of spirits, but leave it up to provincial governments to decide about beer and wine.

At present a U.S. television station in Bellingham which is widely received in B.C. carries advertisements for brewery companies.

DROVE ELECTRIC CAR

Oldest Resident Of Empress Dies

Mrs. Florence French, oldest and longest resident at the Empress Hotel, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday, aged 91.

The body was to be cremated by her own wish at Royal Oak this afternoon.

Tall and gracious, Mrs. French had lived 42 years at the Empress and was an established favorite with members of the staff.

"She was always kind and considerate," assistant manager Charlie Moore said. "I had many chats with her and she always seemed alert and abreast of the times. It was a pleasure to talk to her."

ELECTRIC BROUGHAM

In spite of a quiet, retiring disposition, Mrs. French became a familiar figure in Victoria more than some 20 years ago when she drove around the streets in an electric brougham which had a maximum speed of six miles an hour.

Mrs. French sold the brougham to a collector of antiques several years ago.

She was the widow of Cecil French, big game hunter, soldier, veterarinian and manufacturer, who died here on Sept. 7, 1951. He and his wife lived at the Empress Hotel from the time they came to Victoria in 1920.

Mr. French founded an animal medicine firm at Courtney and Gordon Streets in the 1920s and raised silkworms as a hobby.

Their son, the late Major C. E. French, was commanding officer of the Second (Res.) Armored Division Ordnance Field Park from 1942 to 1944 and wartime president of the Toronto Flying Club.

Their nephew, Edmund Howard Smith, flew here from his home in Montreal Tuesday and is staying at the Empress Hotel.

U.S. TAX MEN SEIZE BIG FIGHT RECEIPTS

Caucus Against Election

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Social Credit party today appeared to give Prime Minister Diefenbaker's minority government at least a semi-permanent lease on life in the new Parliament opening Thursday.

A statement from the Socred pre-session caucus of MPs — agreed to by all 30 Socred MPs —declared:

"We are convinced, from continuous contact with the Canadian people since last June, that the people of Canada do not wish an immediate election . . . Canada's future demands something better than a chain reaction of minority governments which an immediate election would bring about."

BACK ANY MOVE

The meaning of the statement to observers here was that the Social Credit group would support almost any move by the government this session to attack Canada's economic problems.

Such support by the Socreds would permit Diefenbaker to continue in office indefinitely, for the government cannot be defeated in a House vote unless all three opposition parties vote against it.

The caucus statement seemed to clear up the confusion which has surrounded the Socred position in the session.

National Socred leader Robert Thompson has of late been backing a "no-election" line but the view of the 26 Quebec Socred MPs remained in doubt as their leader, Real Caouette, the deputy national leader, spoke in one breath of throwing the government out, and in the next breath of keeping it in.

UNITED POLICY

Today's statement by all Socred MPs, therefore, establishes a united party policy on the strategy they will follow in the house.

The caucus statement declares:

"We of the Social Credit Party believe that as Canadians we are determined on the one hand that the economic dilemma that we are in shall not continue and on the other hand that chaos shall not be added to confusion.

"Canada urgently needs some basic corrective measures to this end, and this responsibility rests squarely on the shoulders of the prime minister and his government.

"We are convinced, from continuous contact with the Canadian people since last June, that the people of Can-

Government Cut Said $3.9 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of federal revenue officers fanned out across the United States Tuesday night and today in an effort to seize some $5,000,000 of receipts from the Patterson-Liston heavyweight title bout.

The aim was to collect $3,900,000 in taxes which the government claims is owed by the promoters of the fight and the organizers of closed-circuit TV showings of the one-round encounter in which Sonny Liston grabbed the championship from Floyd Patterson in Chicago's Comiskey Park.

Officials said that, while they were bent on impounding the full proceeds due the promoters and TV organizers, they were permitting individual theatre owners to keep the portion of their fight receipts called for by their individual contracts with the organizers. Even after these deductions—an estimated 45 per cent of theatre receipts—the share due the organizers was expected to total about $4,000,000.

The federal agents were stationed at 260 theatres across the country Tuesday night, prepared to file the attachment notices before the fight ended. But a spokesman said Liston's rapid-fire knockout of Patterson in the first round disrupted this plan.

Federal officials initially told reporters their objective was to tie up all proceeds from the fight. They explained later that they did not mean to include the share of closed-circuit TV receipts due theatre owners.

In addition to impounding the affected part of receipts in some 260 theatres, internal revenue service agents in an unprecedented move served levies against the promoters themselves covering their whole take including the fees paid by American Broadcasting Company for radio coverage rights.

FREEZE PURSES

One result of the action presumably will be to freeze the purses earned by Liston and Patterson until the tax liabilities of the promoters are determined and settled. This could take many months and perhaps more than a year.

In explaining why it acted, the revenue service said, without elaboration, that "records show that none of the corporations connected with the Chicago fight have filed tax returns" on their operations last year—the year they were organized.

One official said that many of the individuals controlling the corporations that promoted the fight were involved in the 1961 heavyweight title bout in which Patterson regained the championship from Ingemar Johansson. After that fight, the revenue service acted to tie up Johansson's purse, which approached $1,000,000 on the basis of a claim that he owed more than $1,000,000 in taxes on earn-

WILL MEET PUBLIC

Liston Gives Word: 'I'll Be Good Champ'

CHICAGO (AP) — A new Charles (Sonny) Liston promised today to be a world heavyweight champion in shining armor and also to give Floyd Patterson a rematch as soon as possible.

A cruel-punching strong man, Liston exploded the long-suspected Patterson myth in 126 seconds of their title match in Comiskey Park Tuesday night.

In the third-fastest title finish in heavyweight boxing history, 2:06 of the first round, Liston crumbled Patterson to the canvas with a couple of ponderous left hooks before a disappointing paid crowd of 18,894.

It was felt by some that Cus D'Amato, Patterson's guiding angel, had wrapped his boy in cotton. Floyd's championship path mainly avoided what real punchers were around since Patterson, then 21, first won the crown in 1956 by flattening an overstuffed Archie Moore.

Ingemar Johansson, who dethroned Patterson in 1959, said "Patterson looks like a little baby tonight." Ingo may get a shot at Liston after the new champ has his return match with Patterson.

Patterson, 189, whose finish had been foreshadowed by 12 knockdowns in previous title bouts, wants another go at Liston within three months.

Patterson could swell his lion's take as a loser Tuesday night by sharing a 30-30 split of the return match receipts.

Liston, 214, is ready at any time.

"I'll do some hunting and fishing the next two or three weeks," said Liston, who got his title shot by goading Patterson into it.

Liston had rushed over to Patterson after referee Frank Sikora threw his arms around the wobbly champion following his knockout count.

"He told me if the public gives me a chance," Liston said, "I can be a worthy champion, maybe a better champion than he was."

"I think I can prove just that —if the public gives me a chance," added Liston. "I think Patterson was a good champion. I disagree only in one thing he did. He shut himself off from the public. He didn't go to small clubs and he stayed away from the public. This is something the world champion has got to do."

CLERGYMEN HELP

Liston—sitting at a table before the noisy throng of newsmen and photographers — was flanked by three clergymen who played an important part in his rehabilitation from his grim early war with police and society.

These included Rev. A. J. Stephens, the Missouri penitentiary chaplain who first

Highway Opened To Freedomites

Road blocks have been lifted and Sons of Freedom Doukhobors camped near Princeton left to their own devices, Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced today.

Police guards have also gone from the Bromley Park area, he said.

What happens next is up to the Freedomites. But if they step out of line they'll be arrested.

Mr. Bonner said he knew it was a risk to allow Freedomites to go, but it would be a true test of their responsibility. It would also remove any criticism of violation of civil liberties.

TAKE COMFORT

He said the public should take some comfort from two new developments:

The Freedomites say they are anxious for their children to attend school.

Two prominent Vancouver lawyers are advising the Freedomites, and he was sure that advice would not cause any public disorder.

(Lawyers George Hebrik and Angelo Branca have been reported as willing to assist the campers).

Mr. Bonner said there are between 800 and 900 Freedomites camped at Bromley.

They were halted there last Tuesday on their march from Krestova to Agassiz where 67 terrorists are held in a special federal prison.

About 20 extra police were on duty around the camp. They have now returned to normal duties, said Mr. Bonner.

He said the week's pause in the march gave B.C. time to make two attempts to solve the Freedomite problem.

The provincial government asked Ottawa to close the Agassiz prison and disperse the prisoners to other jails. This failed and the federal government has "cut off" B.C.

"It also enabled the marchers to learn that the provincial government is unwavering in its attitude towards law enforcement."

Mr. Bonner said further police action will depend on Freedomites' behavior.

"It may be said some hazard exists in this decision," he admitted. "It is intended, however, to remove from academic discussion questions concerning justification for police action, and to place such matters squarely before the courts as events may dictate."

If the Freedomites go on and trespass on the Agassiz prison grounds federal auth-

'May Back Policies They Have Opposed'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Social Credit party may find itself forced to vote for government policies which they have strongly opposed, Liberal Leader Pearson said today.

He had been asked to comment on the Social Credit announcement that it will not support the Liberal non-confidence motion planned early in the parliamentary session opening Thursday.

Mr. Pearson, speaking at the noon adjournment of its party's caucus, said that the Social Credit decision does not affect the Liberals in the slightest.

He said it would be most unnatural for the Liberals to refrain from a non-confidence motion but it is up to the two other opposition parties to decide what to do.

DYING GIRL DISPLAYS GAIETY AND COURAGE

'An Inspiration to Us All'

LONDON (AP)—The dying wish of a gay and courageous child came true today.

The strangely moving book that 10-year-old Suzanne Reynolds worked on against time was put on sale in British bookshops. In many, it was an immediate sellout.

Suzanne died of cancer last February. But not before she finished her life's work.

She finished writing Snowy and the Christmas Foal the day before she died after a last desperate operation to save her life.

Said her mother, Mrs Eileen Reynolds:

"It's exactly as she wrote it. No alterations. Just a punctuation here and there. She would have been so proud."

The mother added:

"She never grumbled or spoke of being unwell. She only talked of her pony and cat, and the fairy stories she sat up at night to write."

Sir Cecil Wakeley, one of Britain's most eminent surgeons commented:

"At such times, let us remember the courage of the gay and beautiful child who gave us Snowy and the Christmas Foal.

Said a spokesman for the Imperial Cancer Research Fund:

"It's a pleasant, refreshing and very moving book by a little girl who should be an inspiration to us all."

All money from the book goes to fight cancer.

Suzanne's principal character was a pony named Snowy. Snowy wanted a foal, but didn't seem to be able to produce one. The one Christmas Eve—she did. The child drew from real life, for she owned a pony named Jinny.

'Alouette' Aims at Orbit Tonight

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Canadian satellite Alouette is scheduled to be blasted off into space shortly after 11 p.m. PDT tonight, a U.S. space agency official said Tuesday.

Confirmation of whether the satellite achieved a correct orbit would take about two hours after launch time, the official said.

Featuring 6,500 solar cells for energy and armed with the longest antenna ever put on a Western spacecraft—about 150 feet—the Alouette will be launched in a southeasterly direction from Point Arguello, Vandenberg Air Force Base, California.

First satellite to be built by a country other than the U.S. or Russia, the ionospheric research vehicle is to be placed into a near-circular orbit at a height of about 600 miles.

It will be blasted from earth by a U.S. two-stage Thor-Agena B rocket.

NANAIMO—A direct appeal is going to Canadian Pacific Railway president N. R. Crump to continue operation of at least one of two ferries the company plans to cut from the present three-ferry Nanaimo-Vancouver service Oct. 1.

Aldermen agreed Tuesday to Mayor Pete Maffeo's suggestion that the appeal be made by the Chamber of Commerce.

"Once these boats are off it will be very difficult to get one back on again," said Ald. Jack Parker.

The CPR decided to cut the Nanaimo-Vancouver service in the face of competition from the B.C. government-owned ferries.

Meanwhile, Nanaimo city council was raked by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood for complaining that the province has ignored a plea for a ferry hearing.

Transportation committee said earlier its appeal to the cabinet on the ferry question after Oct. 1 had been brushed off.

"This is a major problem requiring a great deal of consideration and investigation to explore what action is necessary and feasible.

"It has been sprung upon us suddenly and there has not been sufficient time to deal with it. The matter has certainly not been ignored," Mr. Westwood said.

NANAIMO—The government ferry system's free bus transportation from downtown ferry docks to the business section and Departure Bay ferry terminal will be cancelled after Oct. 1.

B.C. Ferries says pedestrians will be charged 20 cents for the bus trip when the CPR cancels all but its Princess of Vancouver sailings between Nanaimo and Vancouver.

DUNCAN—Fifty new parking spaces and additional lighting will be provided for public use at the city's paved parking area next to the Armory.

City council plans to provide greater parking facility in future by removing a number of trees from this area.

It is expected the highways department will replace a temporary traffic island on Government Street with a permanent installation, following a trial period. But aldermen recommend that it be made smaller to provide for more clearance.

DUNCAN—Complaint that Honeymoon Bay is ignored by road signs is being taken to the highways department by Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

Sign at Berkey's Corner, Duncan, points the way to Cowichan Lake, Mesachie Lake and Youbou, but neglects the nearby village of Honeymoon Bay where Western Forest Industries Ltd. has its shingle and sawmills.

A B.C. Forest Products Ltd. sign near the government sign lists Youbou and Caycuse, without a mention of Mesachie Lake or Honeymoon Bay.

AIRLINER JUST MISSES BUZZING SOVIET PLANE

BERLIN (UPI)—A Russian fighter plane today almost collided head-on with a Pan American Airways clipper carrying passengers to Berlin.

The Russian fighter "approached the clipper head-on," then suddenly veered to the left when it was only 150 yards away, a spokesman said.

The United States protested.

The incident increased fears here the Russians had started a campaign of serious harassment of Western allied aircraft in the vital airlanes.

'NOTHING TO DO WITH IT'

Dairy Farmers of Canada president John Dickson Tuesday dissassociated his organization from any responsibility for mismanagement of the Canadian Dairy Princess contest.

The DFC was named by ex-princess Clara Taylor, 20, of 2973 McIntyre, as one of three sponsors of the contest to blame for lack of organization in the annual promotion.

Miss Taylor, winner of the first Canadian Dairy Princess title, was given an all-expense trip to South America, which cost her father about $2,000 out of his own pocket. He did not ask repayment by the sponsors.

Mr. Dickson said, "We have had nothing to do with it. We may have made a contribution to help out the situation, but that did not make us sponsors."

The DFC president is here to take part in the National Dairy Council convention being held in the Empress Hotel.

PUPILS BARRED BY ERROR

There has been "a local misunderstanding" if Freedomite children have been barred from attending school at Princeton, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday.

He was commenting on reports that a police road block 13 miles from Princeton had stopped parents on their way to register children for school classes.

The Freedomites are camped at Bromley Park where their march on Agassiz was halted by RCMP.

Mr. Bonner said the government is anxious to ensure that children involved in the march are sent to school.

Fire Threat Closes Woods To Hunters

Bad Behavior Upsets Official

CAMPBELL RIVER — New threat of forest fires has brought closure of logging lands to hunters by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. in this area.

President Duncan Marshall, of Fish and Game Club, appeals to hunters to have more respect for company property after two fires were reported and a gate was smashed within the logging territory.

The firm this year made more land available to hunters and arranged easier access.

"But as it turned out, the company's confidence in the intelligence and common sense of the hunting fraternity has been badly shaken," Mr. Marshall said.

He said the company is expected to reopen lands when the fire hazard drops to a safer level.

In the Nanaimo area, hunting has been halted in Northwest Bay Nanaimo River, Nanaimo Lakes, Mayo and Hillcrest areas.

Shift System Faces Schools At Courtenay

COURTENAY—Spectre of a shift system for school classes—and going back to the taxpayers for more building money—stalked school trustees this week.

Superintendent of schools C. E. Ritchie warned the board prolonged delay in providing new classrooms would mean a shift system next September.

Board chairman James Simon said a way would have to be found to provide new rooms.

Early this year voters approved a $930,000 construction bylaw to meet pressures from soaring enrolments. So far an unexpected jump in building costs has scuttled estimates and prevented driving the first nail under the program.

Lowest tender on the first of a series of small elementary schools was $40,000 above estimates.

Trustee A. D. Clement said it would be difficult to change the schedule of building already voted on by the public.

"We may have to follow it and be faced with an additional referendum to make up the difference within two years."
